GEN. M'ARTHUR BACKS UNION OF ARMY AND NAVY

Stand Revealed by Senate Body

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1—Gen. MacArthur has recommended amalgamation of the army and navy, with a common uniform and combined training for air, land, and sea staff officers, it was revealed today in testimony made public by the senate military affairs committee.

MacArthur's views on army-navy merger proposals and those of 65 other generals and admirals were given to a subcommittee of the joint chiefs of staff during the last two years.

The Subcommittee's Report

The subcommittee, after hearing the army and navy leaders, recommended a single department to replace the war and navy departments. Its report was filed with the senate committee today, but was not made public, altho the generals' and admirals' testimony was made available to reporters.

Interviewed at Leyte in the Philippines on Dec. 3, 1944, MacArthur told the subcommittee his experience in the war had convinced him amalgamation of the services was imperative and that staff officers should be trained together to eliminate the "deadly animosities" which he said now exist between the services.

"Ignorance" of Others

"There is complete ignorance in each service," said MacArthur, "of the capacities, the potentialities, the mechanics, the methods, and the techniques of the other services. . . . You've got to start all over again and train men so that they know the general power and techniques of the three elements of warfare—ground, sea, and air. . . .

"I believe the services are divided by lines of dissimilarity which we should go to any end to overcome. . . . I believe they should wear the same uniform. I believe they should be one family instead of three. I believe the two academies [West Point and Annapolis] instead of competing should be corollary to each other."

Suggestion for Schooling

MacArthur told the subcommittee prospective officers might start their training at West Point and complete it at the Annapolis naval academy. Acknowledging that an officer could not be a professional in all three branches, he said after a certain period of training an officer should specialize in one.

The subcommittee's report, from which Adm. James O. Richardson, chairman, was the sole dissenter, recommended a single commander for the combined forces, but the war department, which strongly favors a unified department, is against an over-all commander.

Adm. Nimitz in a statement issued today at Pearl Harbor vigorously opposed a single department of national defense. The admiral said he believed the theoretical advantages claimed by its advocates were not obtainable and that the disadvantages of a merger of the military services are so serious that it is not acceptable.

Eisenhower's Testimony

Gen. Eisenhower, in testimony given in Germany, July 25, 1945, said the United States should not attempt to maintain instant military readiness "to fight the whole world" and that the goals of armed security should be revised yearly on the basis of the changing international situation.

Eisenhower's testimony did not contain direct references to the unification proposal, altho by the time he was interviewed by the subcommittee war department thinking had crystallized in favor of a single department.

Vice Adm. Mitscher, former carrier fleet boss in the Pacific, told the subcommittee in San Francisco on Nov. 27, 1944, that the United States has the "best army, navy, and marine corps in the world" but that we don't know it. He opposed any merger plan that would reduce the status of naval aviation.

Nations Meet to Plan Split of Nazi Spoils

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 1—United States demands for reparations from Germany will be based on war time budgets and shipping losses, which, with other items, give America approximately a half billion dollar claim, it was learned today as delegates from 18 nations began informal meetings to settle indemnity levies on the defeated nazis.

The full dress conference to negotiate division of the spoils of war among the claimants will open Nov. 9. The American delegation, headed by James W. Angell, former professor of economics at Columbia university, has deferred to the French proposal that news and information emanating from the parley be issued by the host—France. Inasmuch as the meetings will be secret and all delegations are bound by an oath of secrecy the only inkling of developments will be from French sources.

The same procedure was saddled on reparations conferences after World War I., altho during the Dawes and Young plan meetings the Americans broke away and Owen D. Young and Thomas W. Lamont gave the American press a daily outline of proceedings.

French Claim to Be High

But there is a vital difference between the two issues. After World War I. Woodrow Wilson renounced any claims on behalf of the United States, whereas today America will make demands.

The French claim comprises 3 trillion francs for direct damages from Germany, and 1 trillion 800 billion 800 million francs indirect—from allied bombing and fighting across France after D-day. [The franc is worth 2 cents.]

Taking German reparations as a whole, the soviets will collect whatever is movable from their zone, comprising 52 per cent of the reich including Berlin, plus 25 per cent from the French, British, and American zones.

The Russians promised to pay off Poland from their share and insisted that the western allies keep hands off their solution in the soviet zone of occupation.

But from the remaining 75 per cent of potential reparations in the western zone France, Britain, and the United States must apportion allocations to Norway, Holland, Belgium, Luxemburg, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Denmark, Greece, Egypt, India, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, and Canada.

May Take Property in U. S.

With the United Kingdom, for blitz and buzz bomb damages and shipping, and France, with gigantic industrial, economic, and air raid wreckage claims, tacitly granted half of the available assets, it can be seen where the United States fits in among the other 15 claimants for a portion of the 25 per cent balance.

The American delegation admits that America is not interested in the German industrial plant, and since the reich has nothing else to offer, it realizes that the only item available is German property located in the United States.

South American belligerents prefer to stay away from the conference and confiscate German property rather than toss such assets into the general pot for distribution.

Tony Gets His Posies While He's Still Here

BY THOMAS MORROW

That chap who built the better mouse trap showed up last night in the La Salle hotel. He is V. A. [Tony] Galante, 57, who has been selling newspapers at Adams and La Salle sts. for 48 years.

Tony, who has missed seven days on the corner since August, 1897, took time off last night to be guest of honor at a banquet tendered him by his customers thru the years. He'll be back at the old stand this morning.

Six millionaires, more judges than you could list, office holders headed by State's Atty. Tuohy, lawyers, merchants, bankers, stock brokers, newspaper men gathered and gave Tony his full share of praise.

"It's nice," he said complacently, "to get your flowers while you're alive. It shows that money isn't everything—loyalty counts."

Recalls Exciting Events

He's seen some exciting things while he's been on the corner, Tony admitted, including the time that "blimp went thru the bank and killed about 16 people." He wouldn't name the Chicago lawyer whose life he saved. That happened in the deep depression days when a woman told him she planned to kill the lawyer. He talked her out of it.

Tony, who estimates he has sold about 6,132,000 papers in 48 years and taken in approximately $135,000, has had his chance at political honors.

Offered Political Chance

"The late William Cook offered me a chance to run for state representative," he recalled. "I turned it down. I have high respect for public servants, but how many will take the trouble to fill these jobs? I didn't. No future, no stability. I had a family to raise."

And raise it he did. There's Gerard, 26, out of the army and present; Joseph A., 23, who cabled from Guam where he's serving; John, 13, and a daughter, Vincenza, 22. All have been graduated from college except John, who will have his chance, Tony says.

When Tony went to work there were nine Chicago papers, including THE TRIBUNE, then with 87,000 circulation, and, Tony says, "always a best seller." Newsboys were "bootjacks," and Tony refused to join many of the peddlers in selling phony headlines.

Nothing Like It Before

Among those who paid tribute and described Tony as an old friend were Alexander F. Reichmann, one of Chicago's most respected lawyers; Charles Levy, newspaper distributor, and a host of judges who sold papers with Tony.

Nothing like the banquet has happened before, and likely nothing like it will happen again. It was an overflow crowd, paying tribute to Tony because he's a nice guy, a great friend, and always where he should be when you need him.

Warren Wright, former state treasurer, summed up the matter.

"It's the first testimonial banquet I ever attended," he said wonderingly, "without an angle."

DISCHARGED VETERAN SPEEDING HOME DIES IN FALL FROM TRAIN

From Camp Atterbury, near Columbus, Ind., Pvt. Edward J. Gibis, 32, of 4659 Lincoln av., yesterday telephoned Miss Rosella Peterson, 2203 Giddings st., the girl who promised to wait for him when he joined the army on June 12, 1942.

"I've been discharged," Gibis told her, "and I'll be home tonight."

Her eyes shining with anticipation of their reunion, Miss Peterson waited in the Illinois Central station for the Big Four train bringing her fiance home from war. Pvt. Gibis, a member of the 3d armored division, participated in five big battles in Europe.

The train, due at 8:45 p. m., was reported 90 minutes late. Miss Peterson waited until it arrived but her fiance was not aboard. She learned then that Pvt. Gibis fell off the train as it speeded northward near Lafayette, Ind., and had been fatally injured. He died at 8:15 p. m. in a Lafayette hospital.

His parents, John C. and Marie Gibis, and a brother, Julius, also survive.

FRENCH RUSH TO GET FREE GAS AS PIPELINE BURSTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 1—A bonanza in gasoline for gasless Frenchmen flowed today from the double track pipeline built by the Yanks in the wake of the 7th army's push north from the Riviera. A break in the line along the main highway, No. 7, brought crowds of men, women, and children to the scene with cans and buckets to catch the priceless liquid.

Dignified French business men in their black Homburg hats squatted beside the pipeline, filling their containers. A woman with a pekingese pooch in tow swished her minks more tightly about her ample figure while she, too, lowered an empty bucket before the stream of gasoline.

Workmen and soldiers, rich and poor, jostled each other for a chance to garner some of the fluid spurting from a small round hole which looked suspiciously handmade.

One old lady skidded on a slippery blanket and slid into a small lake of gasoline. Ignoring her plight, other women knelt beside the puddle, scooping the liquid up with their hands.

The line recently was turned over to the French and two French soldiers soon arrived to repair the break.

Beef's Ready, 'Mom' Tells 1 Man Army

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 1 [Special]—Maj. Arthur Wermuth, Chicago's "one man army" who is credited with killing 116 Japanese on Bataan, arrived back in the United States today and gave a modest explanation of the events that made him a national hero.

"I just happened to be in the right place at the right time," said the man who holds the distinguished service cross, silver star, and three Purple Heart awards.

Maj. Wermuth, 30, returned from the war and enemy prison camps aboard the transport Marine Shark.

Buys Toy for Nurse

Beside him at the rail as his ship warped into the dock stood Lt. Jean Powell of Houston, Tex., an army nurse who carried a big teddy bear Maj. Wermuth had bought for her in Honolulu.

"Hello, Mom," the hero, gone nearly 4½ years, greeted his mother, Mrs. Clara Wermuth, who, with his sister, Talia, have been waiting here two weeks to welcome him.

"Son," his mother told him, "I have waiting for you the roast beef and Christmas cookies you asked for."

Wermuth has said his thoughts, during two years in Japanese prison camps after his capture when Bataan fell, were often on his mother's cooking, particularly her "roast beef and Christmas fixings."

He said he was treated badly in Japanese prisons "but no worse than any one else."

Plans Long Vacation

After a few days in Letterman General hospital, the major said, he will go to Traverse City, Mich., where his wife is awaiting him, get out of the army "as soon as I can," take a six months' vacation, then decide what to do with his future.

Before the war he was a bacteriologist in Chicago and later a drug salesman in Traverse City.

"Right now," he said, "I want to get home as quickly as I can—for reasons I cannot disclose now."

Wife Awaits Him

Traverse City, Mich., Nov. 1 [Special]—Mrs. Jean Wermuth, a surgical nurse, said she had "no idea" what her husband, Maj. Arthur Wermuth, meant by his undisclosed reason for hurrying home, "except to get back to me."

She said she had cabled him that she would await him at home so he could be sure to know where she would be and not risk missing each other in the ado attending his arrival.

"He cabled me that the happiest moment of his life would be when we are together again and he had written that he wanted to get home quickly so we could start again where we left off," explained the girl who has been his wife 11 years.

MASS MURDER IN MANILA CLUB TOLD ON STAND

Japs Rape Women, Set Them Afire

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, Nov. 2 [Friday]—A story rivaling in horror the sufferings of the damned in Dante's "Inferno" was laid bare by a master story teller today in the trial for war crimes of Lt. Gen. Yamashita.

Not even the wholesale butchery of the Belsen prison camp in Germany was more revolting than the testimony of Francisco Lopez, Manila representative for a Hollywood movie firm, describing in graphic detail how the Japanese troops killed and burned 1,500 Filipino civilians on Feb. 10 during the battle for Manila.

Shouting that the soldiers were "sadists and beasts," the immaculately dressed witness told how Yamashita's men poured gasoline on the heads of women they had first raped, then set them afire.

Woman Screams at Him

Further drama was provided during today's hearing of the military commission trying the imperturbable Jap commander, who sits unmoved thru all this testimony, when a Chinese woman witness left the chair and started for him, screaming her hatred. Her husband had been slain and her infant child torn from her arms and repeatedly bayoneted, she had just testified.

Yamashita, seemingly ignorant of the cause of her outburst, just sat and looked at her until court attaches led her away.

Lopez' testimony was as follows:

"We heard that the Japanese were taking women from the neighborhood to the nearby Church of San Marcelino and abusing them, so about 2 a. m. on the morning of Feb. 6 I climbed over the barbed wire around the German club with my mother and other women, and begged them to let me hide my women there because I didn't want them taken. We hid under the building in a space about three feet high. The ground was covered with debris, including cats which had crawled in and died.

Set Fire to Building

"For a few days the Japanese permitted us to come and go for such necessities as water. Then on Feb. 10, 15 to 20 Japanese knelt around the building, their guns pointed at the openings thru which we had crawled inside. By now there were 12 to 15 hundred persons in there.

"Then some Japanese came down with little bundles of our food and clothing, which we had left on the second floor of the club, and piled them along with some dirty rags outside the entrances. They poured gasoline all over this barrier, and in a matter of a few minutes it was afire all around us. The Japanese, meanwhile, kept facing us with guns pointed.

"Naturally, among 1,500 persons there was commotion. Women and

New Model B-29s

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 1 (AP)—The four Super Fortresses which spanned a quarter of the globe in a nonstop flight from Japan to Washington, D. C., were newly developed models with greater speed and capacity than earlier craft, the Boeing Aircraft company said tonight.

Known as B-29B, the model went into action last June against the Japanese, lugging 3,000 extra pounds of bombs. They were at least 10 miles an hour faster than the first B-29s.

All sighting blisters and all turrets except the tail turret were removed in the B-29B.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP)—Four B-29s, carrying 43 tired, happy men home from the war, completed tonight the first nonstop flight from Japan to Washington in 27 hours 29 minutes.

Brig. Gen. Frank A. Armstrong Jr., deputy commander of the 20th air force, led the flight home, landing at Washington's National airport at 6:38 p. m., Chicago time. The distance was figured at 6,544 miles.

Army's Second Try

It was the army's second attempt to make the trip nonstop. The first attempt, on Sept. 18-19, fell short of the goal because of constant adverse winds, and the three plane flight led by Lt. Gen. Barney M. Giles sat down at Chicago to refuel before coming on to Washington.

Both flights followed roughly the same route, the Great Circle course across the Pacific by way of Agattu and Kodiak in the Aleutians; Sitka, Alaska; Fort St. John, Winnipeg; Detroit, and thence eastward across the United States.

Gen. Armstrong, smiling thru grime and two days' growth of beard, said the weather was "terrible" on this flight also, and that they did not know until they reached Kodiak, Alaska, whether they would make it.

Site of Takeoff

Gen. Armstrong said the planes took off from the field near Sapporo, capital of Hokkaido, northernmost of the major Japanese islands, during a rain.

They had a helping tail wind up to about 45 miles an hour part of the way, however, and made their best average ground speed of 290 miles an hour between Fort St. John and Winnipeg.

The planes encountered a heavy snowstorm over Minnesota and Wisconsin while flying at 14,000 feet, Armstrong said, adding that it looked like "duck feathers."

Lt. Gen. Eaker, deputy commander of the American air forces, who was on hand to greet the airmen, said the flight was "primarily for the purpose of pioneering a new Great Circle route."

Flyers from Chicagoland

Among those from Chicagoland aboard the planes were Capt. Louis J. Collins, 5717 W. Washington blvd., Milwaukee, Wis., and 1st Lt. Joseph S. Brody, Des Moines, Ia., on plane No. 1; Capt. George W. Mitchell, Terre Haute, Ind., aboard plane No. 2, and 1st Lt. Guy W. Shine, Monticello, Ind., on plane No. 3.

Lt. John R. Slevin, Pleasant Ridge, Mich., was aboard plane No. 4.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY SWEEPS CITY ELECTIONS

LONDON, Nov. 2 [Friday] (AP)—Britain's socialistic Labor party swept municipal elections all over England yesterday with the results confirming Labor's July landslide in the parliamentary elections.

With ballots counted today in 113 of the major 130 provincial boroughs, Labor recorded a net gain of 688 council seats while the Conservatives took a net loss of 318 seats. Liberals and Independents lost heavily, too.

TOKYO, [Friday] Nov. 2 (AP)—Thirteen Nisei women from Hawaii have arrived in Tokyo by airplane to assist the army in bridging the language gap between Americans and Japanese.

EVA, HIS BRIDE, DIED OF POISON, BRITISH REVEAL

Tell of Wedding in Berlin Bunker

BERLIN, Germany, Nov. 1 [Reuters]—Adolf Hitler is dead, victim of a self-inflicted bullet wound, a British intelligence report said tonight.

Hitler shot himself in the Berlin chancellery at 2:30 p. m. on April 30, said the report. His reported wife, Eva Braun, committed suicide by poisoning at the same time. The bodies were burned and the bones broken up.

A British intelligence major who investigated the matter said there still was no conclusive evidence that Martin Bormann, Hitler's deputy, is dead.

The text of the British intelligence report on Hitler and Eva Braun, issued at headquarters of the allied control council, British echelon, follows:

"Available evidence sifted by British intelligence and based largely on eyewitness accounts shows, as conclusively as possible without bodies, that Hitler and Eva Braun died shortly after 2:30 on April 30, 1945, in a bunker of the reich chancellery, their bodies being burned just outside the bunker.

Drops Plan to Flee

"Hitler's original intention had been to fly to Berchtesgaden on April 20 and from there continue the struggle. When that day came he postponed his departure.

"On April 22 at about 4:30 p. m. he held a staff conference at which he made it clear to his advisers that he considered the war as lost and that he intended to remain in Berlin to the last in defense of the capital. If Berlin fell he would die there.

"It is clear that Hitler at that time suffered from an attack of nervous prostration during which he blamed every one but himself for the failure of Germany to win the war.

"His advisers, both military and civil, endeavored to persuade Hitler to change his mind and leave Berlin. This was of no avail.

Never Leaves Bunker

"Hitler's breakdown on April 22 was the beginning of his end. From that time he never left the bunker, surrounded no longer by soldiers but by his family circle, those officers responsible directly to him for the defense of Berlin.

"His state of mind was reported by all who saw him to have been very much calmer after the crisis on April 22. He had made his decision.

"He even gained confidence as to the outcome of the battle of Berlin. Every now and again, however, his calm was interrupted by tantrums when he recalled old treacheries and found new ones.

"His physical health, on the contrary, was poor. The nervous strain, unhealthful living conditions, and eccentric hours told on him.

Mind 'Normal as Ever'

"Apart from the reported trembling of the hands from which he had suffered for some time, and his general decrepitude, he was as 'normal' as ever in his mind.

"On the night of April 23-24 Hitler was visited by Speer [presumably Albert Speer, minister for armaments], to whom he disclosed that he had made all plans for his suicide and for the destruction of his body by burning.

"About the same time Himmler [Gestapo chief and chief of the home front] sent Gebhardt, his personal doctor, to Hitler to persuade him to leave Berlin before it was too late, but Hitler rejected this.

"On the evening of April 26 Field Marshal Ritter von Greim reported to Hitler's bunker to receive his commission as commander in chief of the German air force in succession to Hermann Goering, the latter having fallen into disfavor by his attempt to take over control from Hitler a few days earlier.

"Hitler informed Greim, as he had Speer, that he had made all arrangements for the destruction of his body and that of Eva Braun so that they would not fall into enemy hands and that 'nothing recognizable remains.'

"He gave Greim and Reitsch [not otherwise identified] poison capsules which the former has since used. Such capsules had already been issued to all in the bunker.

"On April 28 the inmates of the bunker heard with a mixture of incredulity and disgust of Himmler's [peace] approach to the allies thru Sweden.

"During the previous three days the battle of Berlin had been drawing nearer the center of the city. Shells were falling 'round the bunker and in the early hours of April 29 it was reported that Russian tanks had broken into Potsdammer Platz.

Hitler Orders Attack

"Hitler then ordered Greim to return to Rechlin to mount an air attack in support of Wenck's 12th German army, which was reported also to be within shelling distance of Potsdammer Platz. In fact, it was not, but this was probably not known at the time.

"Greim took off with Reitsch from the Charlottenburger chaussee in an Arado 96.

"Later on April 29 any hope of effective relief of Berlin by Wenck's army had to be abandoned.

"Captured telegrams sent to Adm. Doenitz at the time disclose hysterical recrimination of despair.

Married in Bunker

"On the evening of April 29 Hitler married Eva Braun, the ceremony being performed by an official from the propaganda ministry in a small conference room in the bunker.

"Eva Braun may have suggested the marriage, for she had apparently always wished for the peculiar glory of dying with Hitler and had used her influence to persuade him to die in Berlin.

"After the ceremony the newlyweds shook hands with all present and retired to their suite with Hitler's secretary for a marriage feast. The conversation, which had been confined to suicide, was so oppressive that the secretary had to leave.

"It was about this time that Hitler had his Alsatian dog destroyed.

Final Goodbys Said

"At about 2:30 a. m. on April 30, Hitler said goodby to about 20 persons, about 10 of them women, whom he had summoned from bunkers in the old and new chancelleries. He shook hands with the women and spoke to most of them.

"At about 2:30 p. m. tho the exact time is uncertain, orders were sent to the transport office to send to the bunker about 200 quarts of gasoline. Between 160 and 180 quarts were deposited in the garden just outside the emergency exit of the bunker.

"At about the same time, Hitler and Eva Braun made their last appearance alive. They went 'round the bunker and shook hands with their immediate entourage, and retired to their own apartment. There they committed suicide, Hitler by shooting himself, apparently thru the mouth, Eva Braun apparently by taking poison, tho she was supplied with a revolver.

Bodies Set Afire, Saluted

"The bodies were taken into the garden outside the bunker by Goebbels, Bormann, and two or three others. Hitler's was wrapped in a blanket, presumably because he was bloody. The bodies were placed side by side in the garden about three yards from the emergency exit of the bunker, and drenched with gasoline.

"Because of the shelling, the party withdrew under the shelter of the emergency exit, and a gasoline-soaked and lighted rag was thrown on the bodies, which caught fire. The party then stood at attention, gave the Hitler salute and retired.

"From then on the evidence is less circumstantial. How often the bodies were resoaked or how long they burned is not known. One witness was informed that they burned until nothing was left; more probably they were charred until they were unrecognizable and the bodies broken up and probably buried.

Doenitz Gets the News

"On the evening of May 1 Bormann sent a telegram to Doenitz [grand admiral] informing him that Hitler's will was now in force and that Hitler was dead. This was amplified later by a telegram from Goebbels, which stated that Hitler had died on the previous day and that his will appointed Doenitz as reichs president, Goebbels as reichs chancellor, Bormann as party minister, and Seyss-Inquart as foreign minister. Goebbels added that Bormann was trying to go to Doenitz to inform him of the situation.

"Conclusion: The above evidence is not conclusive but it is positive, circumstantial, consistent, and independent. There is no evidence to support any of the theories that presuppose that Hitler is still alive. All such stories have been investigated and found baseless."

The British intelligence major who did most of the investigating, said the gun with which Hitler is supposed to have shot himself had not been found.

RUSSIANS BURIED ALIVE BY NAZIS, GRAVES INDICATE

METZ, France, Nov. 1 (AP)—Examiners at the mass graves of 23,000 Russian prisoners of war near Boulay said today they had found evidence that many victims were buried alive by their nazi captors.

German prisoners of war continued exhuming the bodies by the thousands, working in shifts around the clock in two enormous pits.

Doctors said the positions of the bodies indicated many had died after they had been placed in the ditches.

One witness said that the Germans had opened old Jewish graves and stolen jewels, gold and silver dental work from bodies. All personal effects of the Russians, including gold from their teeth, were taken.

U. S. SEIZES 21 DIRECTORS OF 6 GERMAN BANKS

May Try Hitler Backers as War Criminals

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 1 (AP)—Twenty-one directors of Germany's six greatest banks have been arrested on charges that they worked with the Nazi party in a conspiracy to dominate the world, financing Hitler's armies and helping to exploit conquered nations, United States army authorities announced today. Twenty others are being sought.

"It seems pretty sure that we will recommend trial of these men as war criminals," said R. A. Nixon, deputy director of the military government division investigating cartels.

Nixon asserted the directors began pouring money into German rearmament as early as 1935 and served in the war "as virtual spies in the economic and political fields."

Plundering by Banks Suspected

Nixon listed the six banks as the Deutsche bank, the Dresdener bank, the Commerzbank, the Bank der Deutschen-Arbeit, the Reichs Kredit-Gesellschaft and the Berliner Handels Gesellschaft. He asserted:

"There is a strong presumption, based on our preliminary investigation, that these six big German banks have been guilty of such war crimes as employment of slave labor in the industries they controled, the imposition of excessive occupation costs and plunder and spoliation of public and private property."

Huge Total of Book Assets

The six banks had book assets in 1944 of more than 28 billion reichsmarks. He went on:

"After the Austrian anschluss in 1938, these six banks secured thru varying degrees of persuasion ownership or control of leading banks and chains in Austria, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Romania, and Poland, at least one key bank in Hungary, Luxemburg, Holland, and Belgium, and arranged for 'collaboration' with all three principal banks in Greece."

In Berlin, Marshal Zhukov of Russia ordered the seizure of all properties of the German state, Nazi party members and "influential adherents," German military authorities and organizations, and forbidden and disbanded business organizations in the soviet zone of occupation.

3 JAP OFFICERS HELD FOR QUIZ IN FLYERS' DEATHS

TOKYO, Nov. 2 [Friday]—(AP)—Three Japanese army officers, including the former deputy chief of staff of the Japanese army, are under arrest for questioning in connection with the execution of three Doolittle airmen Oct. 15, 1942, near Shanghai, allied headquarters announced today.

A Maj. Hata was placed in protective custody by the Japanese in a Tokyo military hospital pending recovery.

Lt. Yusei Wamitsu, son of a prominent Japanese, also was arrested. He is in Omori prison camp near Yokohama.

Also arrested was Lt. Gen. Shigeru Sawada, retired, who commanded the Japanese 13th army in China at the time of the executions. His transfer to Omori was announced in October.

HITLER AGED RAPIDLY AS WAR NEARED END, HIS 3 DOCTORS SAY

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 1 (AP)—Hitler aged rapidly in the last months of the war, developing tremors of both the head and hands, three doctors who attended him have told American interrogators. They said that even earlier in his career, altho usually in good health, he displayed symptoms of hysteria.

The first reports were released today on the questioning of men who attended Hitler from 1934 to 1944. Army authorities disclosed they had been told that Hitler possessed an excellent memory, good judgment, and adequate powers of concentration, and appeared to be normal sexually and free of venereal disease.

The three German doctors questioned were Erwin Geising, eye, ear, nose, and throat specialist, who was called in to examine Hitler after the bombing attempt on his life on July 20, 1944; Hans Karl von Hasselbach, who accompanied him from 1934 to Oct. 9, 1944, and Karl Bramdt, reichcommissar for health and medical service, who was on the fuehrer's personal medical staff until October, 1944.

The physicians' testimony showed Hitler suffered only superficial skin wounds in the attempt on his life, tho "it is assumed that a slight commotion of the cerebri occurred."

LORD HAW HAW, 5 OTHERS BEFORE TREASON COURT

LONDON, Nov. 1 [Reuters]—William Joyce [Lord Haw Haw] and five others appeared in various London courts today, charged with aiding the enemy. Joyce did not know at the end of this, his third day of appeal, whether or not he will hang as decided September 19, as judgment was reserved until next Wednesday. He was convicted of high treason for broadcasting German propaganda thruout the war.

The five others on trial today were Norman Baillie Stewart, Walter Purdy, Reginald Arthur Humphreys, Mrs. Francis Dorothy Eckersley and her son, Royston Clark.

Thirty-six-year-old Baillie Stewart, former lieutenant in the Seaforth Highlanders charged with high treason for alleged broadcasts on Germany's behalf during the war, was remanded until tomorrow. The 27-year-old Purdy, described by prosecution as another "enthusiastic broadcaster" for the Germans, mainly of anti-Jewish propaganda from Berlin in 1943, was remanded until November 20. Humphreys, a young petty officer, was in court only three minutes before being remanded for eight days on a charge of broadcasting for the Germans, using the name "Father Donovan." Mrs. Eckersley and her son were remanded until November 9 when they will answer charges of conspiring with others to help the enemy by broadcasting propaganda.

Iraq Asks War Trial for Leader of Revolt

BAGDAD, Iraq, Nov. 1 [Reuters]—Hamdi Al Pachachi, prime minister of Iraq, said today that the Iraqi government was formally requesting Britain to add to its list of war criminals the name of Rashid Ali Al Gailani, leader of the pro-nazi Iraqi rising in April, 1941.

FLU WAVE TO HIT GERMANY SOON, BISHOP FEARS

BY JAMES SLOAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 1—Germany will be threatened with an epidemic of influenza soon if its food rations are not increased, Bishop G. K. A. Bell of Chichester said today. The prelate recently toured Germany with a delegation from the World Council of Churches.

Much of the sickness already plaguing Germany resulted from the "tragic expulsion of 14½ million Germans from Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Poland, East Prussia, and Silesia," Dr. Bell said. The incidence of diphtheria is particularly high, he found.

Penniless, nearly naked, and starving refugee women and girls often are raped by demobilized Russian soldiers who are "quite out of control," he added.

Rations Small in British Zone

Even in camps provided for refugees at barracks and prisons in the British zone of occupation the food situation is serious, said the bishop. The daily allowance of food is only a half pound of bread and less than a quart of soup.

For the British zone, alone, 13,000 tons of wheat are needed monthly to maintain rations at 1,500 calories daily against the normal adult standard of 2,800, he warned.

Division of Germany into zones, which tend to be governed like separate states, hamper its recovery, the bishop said. The number of suicides remains high, he reported, and there is a great deal of looting and raping.

Asks Liberal Policy

Pleading for a liberal, democratic policy toward Germans, Dr. Bell cautioned that "a wrong move now might drive them into a worse kind of militarism."

"There is much despair among all classes," he said, "especially among the young, because they do not know what the allies intend—dismemberment or permission to get going in a nonmilitary way with Germany's own life. The future of Europe depends on a liberal democratic policy being shown toward Germany now. But the present dismemberment and destruction of industrial and other resources are bound to lead, sooner or later, to another world war."

GESTAPO RULING MAY SPEED UP TRIAL OF NAZIS

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 1 [Reuters]—The trials of leading Nazis for war crimes may be finished by mid-January, legal experts said here today. The trials are scheduled to begin on Nov. 20.

A factor likely to speed the proceedings is that the tribunal will be asked to rule on the legality of the Gestapo organization when SS Gen. Dr. Ernest Kaltenbruenner appears before it. Kaltebruenner, as Hitler's chief of security police, was in charge of concentration camps. If the Gestapo is declared illegal, the ruling will apply to all subsequent trials and proved membership in the Gestapo will constitute prima facie evidence of guilt.

Other nazi organizations, such as the SS [elite guard] may also be outlawed in the same way.

BRITAIN TO RUN WIRELESS, CABLE AND AIR LINES

Control of All Rents Also Planned

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Britain's Labor government tonight reached out for control of all British civilian air lines and a communication network operating thruout the empire in a sweeping expansion of its nationalization program.

Prime Minister Attlee's government also announced plans to control rents of both houses and apartments.

Government spokesmen declared legislation would be introduced quickly to achieve these objectives, and enactment appeared certain in view of the Labor party's overwhelming majority in commons.

Proposals Listed

Here are the proposals:

1. Public ownership of the telecommunications services now operated by the $120,000,000 Cable and Wireless, Ltd., whose 335,000 mile network serves parts of Europe, the dominions, the middle east, and parts of the far east. The cable and wireless would become a unit in an empire-wide communications system.

2. Creation of three air line corportations—"each of them to be wholly financed out of government funds"—to carry Britain's flag in developing world air trade. This announcement was made almost simultaneously in both commons and the house of lords. The minister of civil aviation, R. T. H. Fletcher, said the government had decided that public ownership "shall be the overruling principle in air transport."

3. Health Minister Aneurin Bevan announced the government would introduce immediately a measure to control rents on furnished houses and flats. Unfurnished rented dwellings already are controled.

Stockholders Warned

Meanwhile, Cable and Wireless, Ltd., told stockholders that nationalization would be "inimical to the interests of the people of the empire" and "dangerous to the foreign concessions." The government now holds a $10,400,000 interest in the company. Formed in 1929, Cable and Wireless, Ltd., merged all private cable companies operating within the commonwealth, together with Marconi's Wireless Telegraph company.

Fletcher said that in addition to the British overseas airways corporation for commonwealth and North American service, a corporation would be established for European and international air services, and another for South American services.

French Radio Director Shot to Death in Mystery

PARIS, Nov. 1 [Reuters]—Pierre Clement, director of the Toulouse radio and a member of the resistance forces in the German occupation, has been found shot dead, it was reported today.

YANK STUDENT IN BRITAIN REGRETS DISCOVERY OF U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 1—Students, including 80 Americans, crowded the main debating hall of Manchester university at lunch time today to discuss the motion: "This House regrets the discovery of America."

The motion was defeated by 456 votes to 78. Twenty-five students abstained from voting.

The debate was called off three weeks ago after protests that the subject was an "unfortunate choice" but was placed on the list again at the request of the Americans, one of whom was reported to have supported the motion today.

THERE'S LITTLE OF YULE CHEER AT CABANATUAN

Japs Do Permit Special Christmas Services

BY MAJ. A. C. TISDELLE
as told to Carl Wiegman

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

It was possible to observe Christmas in Japanese prison camps, not because the Japs were kind hearted, but because the holiday almost coincides with their great holiday, Jan. 1.

At Camp Cabanatuan we received our first Red Cross boxes on Dec. 19, 1942. There were enough to distribute three boxes to each four men. The food was wonderful, but its good effects were nullified by a Jap order assigning 1,000 men to a wood cutting detail which had to march five miles, cut the wood, and march back again, carrying the wood.

Because of the wretched condition of the men, this was an ordeal. I went along on the march, playing my harmonica in a feeble effort to cheer them. The only purpose of the outrageaus march was to store up a supply of wood so the Japs would not be bothered while they took their New Year vacation.

Christmas Mass Permitted

Christmas eve we were permitted to have a midnight mass in a natural amphitheater in the compound, where we held our camp shows. We had rigged up an altar decorated with candles and wreaths, and the Japs provided a foot operated organ. Three chaplains with vestments conducted high mass.

I have attended mass in many large churches and I saw the great services during the Eucharistic congress in Soldiers' field in Chicago, but this Christmas eve service was the most beautiful of them all. We could see the moon coming up behind the altar as the holy mysteries celebrated the birthday of the Savior. Practically the whole camp attended—Catholic and Protestant—and the Jap commanding officer also was present.

Protestant Services, Too

Next day practically the whole camp attended Protestant services conducted by Chaplain Oliver, white haired chief of chaplains of the army in the Philippines. He spoke eloquently, telling us he felt we had gone thru the worst of our trials. We tried so hard to believe him.

On Christmas day we received gift boxes from England, prepared by the British Red Cross and the Military Order of St. John, another British organization. Strangely, the boxes had been prepared for prisoners in Germany and were addressed to camps in Germany.

On Jan. 1 we each received another Red Cross box. These had been sent by the American and Canadian Red Cross organizations. One young enlisted man ate the entire contents of his box in one day, and died as a result.

Back to Normal

After the holidays, conditions returned to normal. I was put in charge of a detail of 100 men who worked on the farm, and managed to get acquainted with one of the most decent Jap guards. This fellow spoke a little English and enjoyed teaching me Japanese, so I often distracted his attention long enough for the men to rest their aching backs.

All the men had sore feet; some were hardly able to walk. On Feb. 2 the friendly guard happened to be at the gate, checking us out as we went to work, and I pointed out to him that the men were in such bad shape they couldn't do much work. He agreed with me and gave me permission to dismiss them for the day.

After I gave the order, some of the men foolishly let out a whoop of joy, forgot their sore feet, and ran to their barracks. The Japs investigated and I was sentenced to seven days of farm labor.

Learn About Pearl Harbor

The Japs graciously started to show us movies about this time. On Feb. 12 we saw the Marx Brothers in "Room Service," followed by three propaganda films of the bombing of Pearl Harbor. The films staggered us; up to that time we had not believed the Jap stories of the damage done in the raid that started the war.

On Feb. 14 the Japs gave us three radios on which we could hear the two Manila stations. Three days later they took the radios away, without giving any reason. However, they gave us baseball and volley ball equipment, and permitted us to build a diamond. Only a few men were strong enough to play baseball.

Somehow, the days crept by. On March 12 the Japs showed us propaganda movies of the surrender of Bataaan and Corregidor. These were hard to take; we were the actors in those shows.

Two Prisoners Escape

Two prisoners escaped from the farm on April 6, and presumably they were never caught, because the Japs did not parade them in camp or exhibit their bodies, as was their custom. On the same day one of our hospital guards was shot to death by a Jap sentry who asserted the American was trying to escape.

The Japs, who think nothing of killing a man, have a fanatical reverence for the dead. On our Memorial day, May 31, they permitted us to send a delegation to our cemetery, where a concrete obelisk, 10 feet tall, had been erected. Maj. Gen. Morimoto, the Jap commander at Manila, sent a wreath, which was placed on the monument by the commander of our camp, Maj. Iwanaka. We made a wreath out of wild flowers and placed it beside the general's wreath.

During this period I was having trouble with my back, a handicap when I had to work on hands and knees in the farm plots. On June 4 a Jap guard whom we called "Air Raid" because of his nasty disposition, saw me trying to stretch my back and became enraged. He stuck his bayonet in my leg, then beat me about the shoulders and back with the stock of his rifle. I had to be helped back to camp.

The incident helped me make up my mind to volunteer for the next detail of prisoners to be sent to Japan, even if it meant working in a factory. The chance came on July 5, when the Japs ordered us to make up a detail of 490 men and 10 officers. Maj. John R. Mamerow of Boise, Idaho, was named commanding officer and I was to be his adjutant.

Rejoicing Without Reason

The Japs gave us a physical examination on July 22 and the next day issued new American army shoes, a pair of socks, shorts, a set of blue denims, a sun helmet, soap, and toilet paper to each man. We were loaded into open trucks on July 24, leaving the camp in a driving rain, and at the town of Cabanatuan entrained in box cars for Manila.

We were excited and in rather high spirits. We didn't know that our group was being sent to work as slaves in a Japanese coal mine.

2,500,000 JAPANESE BUILDINGS WIPED OUT BY AMERICAN BOMBS

TOKYO, Nov. 1 (AP)—A welfare ministry announcement today disclosed that American air raids had destroyed or burned nearly 2,500,000 buildings in Japan.

Bombs, including two atomic missiles, wiped out 330,000 military, government, industrial and commercial buildings, the report stated. Another 10,000 were damaged and 100,000 residences were damaged.

The Japanese reported the loss of more than 3,000,000 buildings in the course of the war from all causes, including storms, earthquakes, and fire.

Allied headquarters commented that a large number of buildings fell victims to bombings because of their proximity to war plants.

NEW YORK TO LONDON IN AN HOUR! ROCKETS TO DO IT, EXPERT SAYS

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Winged rockets equipped with a 100-ton booster mechanism will be able to travel from New York to London in less than an hour if experiments develop successfully, W. G. A. Perring told the Royal Aeronautical society tonight. The aeronautics expert said rocket ranges of 1,500 to 3,000 miles appeared possible. "Flight at over 8,000 miles an hour is contemplated," he said.

Addition of wings to rockets has raised the ranges from about 180 to 350 miles, Perring reported. Even more striking, he said, is the effect of boosters the Germans were developing.

"However, I do not want to minimize the difficulties of this problem," Perring said. "Practically nothing is known about control at these speeds."

800 ON STRIKE IN MARSHALL FIELD STORE

Approximately 800 building maintenance employes at Marshall Field & Co., struck for higher wages and a union shop yesterday. Approximately 300 pickets strolled around the store, but there were no disturbances and store officials said the usual number of customers entered the building.

The strikers are members of the Marshall Field Employes' union, local No. 242 [AFL] and represent 9 per cent of the total employes in the store. The strikers were elevator operators, maintenance workers, mechanics, bakery shop, and candy kitchen employes, and packers and helpers. They are demanding a minimum wage of 65 cents an hour with a 15 per cent wage increase for workers now receiving more than 65 cents an hour.

William S. Street, general manager, told a press conference that the issue was not wages but a union shop. The store has granted all other employes a 10 per cent wage increase but the union has not accepted it for its members, he said. The strike has not affected the store's branches at Oak Park and Evanston but union officials asserted the branch stores would be hit today unless union demands are met.

TWO MITSUBISHI JAP MONOPOLY LEADERS RESIGN

TOKYO, Nov. 2 [Friday]—(AP)—Two members of the powerful Iwasaki family resigned from key positions in the Mitsubishi Holding company—last of the great financial family heads to yield to American pressure—it was reported authoritatively today.

Baron Koyata Iwasaki, president of Mitsubishi Holding company, and Hikoyata Iwasaki, vice president, resigned at a stockholders meeting yesterday. Previously one of the company's principal officials had told the Associated Press the Iwasakis had no retirement plans.

Leading officials of Yasuda and Sumitomo—two others of the big four family combines—already had resigned and Mitsui has announced the prospective retirement of members of 10 Mitsui families, including Baron Takakimi Mitsui, president of Mitsui Holding company.

It is understood that American authorities are concentrating upon these combines as the major old line zaibatsu [family monopolies].

PALESTINE RIOTS ARE HOT POTATO TO NEW DEALERS

They Fear Adverse Effect on 1946 Elections

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1—The riots and bloodshed in Palestine today gave a more serious turn to an international problem that President Truman and State Secretary Byrnes are finding exceedingly troublesome and politically embarrassing.

The British, who hold the mandate for Palestine under the old league of nations, attributed the disturbances to Jews animated by resentment of the attitude and acts of the Arabs who are opposing further Jewish immigration. The Arabs have become emboldened in their anti-Jewish policy since they forced the disclosure that the late President Roosevelt promised to consult them as well as Jews in the formulation of American policy on Palestine.

A Hot Potato

Byrnes indorsed the Roosevelt policy to the great indignation of American Jews, who found they had been double crossed by the late President. What with Great Britain trying to draw the United States into joint responsibility for Palestine and Democratic leaders obsessed with fears of losing the Jewish vote, the Palestine issue has become a hot potato for the Truman administration.

The Democratic leaders are hoping that the Jews will be appeased by an agreement between the President and British Prime Minister Attlee on the immigration question. Attlee is proposing an Anglo-American commission to survey the situation in Palestine and the number of Jewish refugees in Europe desiring to migrate to that country. If still unsettled, the question will be considered when Attlee comes to Washington to discuss the atomic bomb with Mr. Truman.

Fear Loss of Votes

If no settlement satisfactory to the Jews is reached, the Democratic leaders will press for a Presidential repudiation of the Roosevelt double cross. They deem it highly important to remove this danger of the loss of the Jewish vote before the 1946 congressional and state elections, particularly the New York election, in which Republican Gov. Dewey will be a candidate to succeed himself. Dewey subscribed in 1944 to the Palestine program which stands repudiated by the Roosevelt double cross and the Truman administration's acceptance of the Roosevelt policy.

The latest chapter of this story begins with President Truman, under pressure from the Zionists, asking Mr. Attlee to approve the immediate settlement of 100,000 Jewish refugees in Palestine. Attlee was embarrassed and vexed by the request, which he eventually answered with an offer to admit 1,800 Jews a month. In the meantime the British had publicized suggestions that the United States, in token of its interest, assume a share of responsibility for Palestine and furnish some warships and marines to help to hold the Arabs in check when the Jewish immigration starts.

Japan's Communist Party Starts Membership Drive

TOKYO, Nov. 1 (AP)—A nationwide drive for membership was announced today by the long outlawed Japanese Community party, which has scheduled a reorganization committee meeting for Nov. 11. The minority party, hitching its appeal for support on a policy of eliminating the emperor, announced the leaders of the drive would be two recently released political prisoners, Kydishi Tokuda and Yoshio Shiga.

Palestine Outbreak Paralyzes Railroad System; Four Killed

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Nov. 1 (AP)—A sudden outburst of violence in Palestine early today paralyzed the country's railroad system, killed four or five persons and injured at least nine.

A British military bulletin blamed the attacks upon the Jews, but did not name any specific group.

A secret underground Jewish radio station, returning to the air after an absence of several days, reported the outbreaks without comment and announced the first bulletin of the Hebrew resistance group would be issued tomorrow.

Damage Is Widespread

It was estimated that it would take 48 to 72 hours to repair the damage to the transportation system, described as the most widespread act of organized sabotage in the country's history.

Maj. Gen. John D'Arcy, British commander, immediately banned motor traffic on all highways between 10 p. m. and 6 a. m., except in municipal areas.

The attackers cut railway lines at approximately 50 places, exploded one police launch in Jaffa port and seriously damaged two others anchored at Haifa. The vessels had been mined.

British Soldier Killed

The British bulletin listed these casualties:

One British soldier dead and one wounded; one Palestine policeman killed, one believed killed, and one wounded; two Palestine railway staff workers killed and six wounded, one critically.

The only arrests announced were of five Jews captured after a train was held up between Jerusalem and Lydda, about 25 miles to the northwest. The men were tracked down after an exchange of shots.

Shortly after midnight explosions rocked Jerusalem, Haifa, and Tel Aviv. These were attributed to the railway attacks and the harbor blasts.

Locomotives Damaged

The heaviest assault was believed to have occurred on the Lydda station. One train and three locomotives were damaged extensively, and a locomotive shed was set afire. Other locomotives were mined and the signal box damaged. The railway lines were slashed between Lydda, Jerusalem, Haifa, Acre, and Gaza.

One body was found in the rubble at the Consolidated Refineries installation after a heavy explosion.

The Holy Land has been relatively quiet for three weeks, since the raid on the Athlit detention camp in which 200 Jewish illegal immigrants were set free. A British constable was killed when a police party pursuing the group was ambushed.

Arabs Blame Zionists

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Arab office in London blamed Zionists today for the outbreak of violence in Palestine. It said the disturbances were "an attempt on the part of the Zionist leaders to force the British government into decisions in favor of the Jews," and that if widespread revolt developed "it will be a revolt of the Zionists against the Palestine government and not a civil war between the Arabs and Jews."

The Jewish agency deeply deplores last night's outbreaks in Palestine, a spokesman said today, but he asserted the agency "finds its capacity to impose restraint severely tried" by Britain's Palestine policy. The British policy restricting immigration to Palestine, the spokesman added, "was an attempt to deal a mortal blow to the hopes of the Jewish people."

Students Strike in Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 1 [Reuters]—Several thousand students attending the Fuad El Awal university went on strike today as a protest against the creation of a Jewish national home in Palestine. A dispatch from Damascus, Syria, said students there planned to march thru the city streets tomorrow and to present notes to the foreign legations protesting against the Balfour declaration of 1917, promising the Jews a home in Palestine.

Thousand Attack

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Nov. 1—Today's outbreaks in Palestine involved about 1,000 Jewish fighters, experts here believe. Jewish circles believe the attack was organized by the Irgun Tsvai Leumi, secret Jewish army which has an estimated 4,000 members. This group is headed by the mysterious Menahem Beguin, who is said to favor offensive action, while the Haganah, biggest Jewish secret army, ten times stronger than the Irgun, favors defensive strategy.

BRITISH PLANES FIRE UPON JAVA NATIONALISTS

BULLETIN

BATAVIA, Nov. 2 [Friday]—(AP)—British headquarters announced today that heavy fighting between Indonesian and Indian troops continued thruout the night in the Magelang area and that R. A. F. planes had again strafed the Indonesian forces.

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 1 (AP)—British planes struck at Indonesians stepping up their attacks tonight against British forces in central and eastern Java despite orders from "President" Soekarno to lay down their arms.

With fighter plane aid, the thin spread Indian troops recaptured most of Mageland, 260 miles southwest of Batavia. At least three Thunderbolts went into action, shooting up three staff cars and as many trucks, after the Indonesians opened fire with mortars.

A British spokesman described the situation as "close to war." A squadron of tanks arrived at still tense Soerabaja, naval base where Brig. A. W. F. Mallaby was reported slain Tuesday night. Mallaby's body has not yet been recovered.

How Mallaby Died

Allied headquarters tonight said that Brig. Mallaby was fatally shot while attempting to coöperate with Indonesian Nationalists to enforce a cease fire order in Soerabaja.

The announcement said that during a lull in the fighting two Indonesians came to Mallaby's car, which was flying a white flag, and called out. Mallaby leaned forward to find out what they wanted and was shot, dying instantly.

[A Reuters dispatch from Batavia said the British cruiser Sussex, accompanied by a number of destroyers, arrived off Soerabaja yesterday.]

Soekarno, head of the "Indonesian republic," met with Dutch leaders last night, and flew today into the interior in a yet unsuccessful mission to make his followers halt the fighting.

Soekarno was believed to be at Jogjakarta, headquarters of youthful Nationalists who were said to be sending reënforcements to Indonesians near Magelang, 30 miles to the north.

Dutch Urge Coöperation

The Dutch information service here said Lt. Gov. Hubertus Van Mook urged coöperation as serving the best interests of all concerned, and that Soekarno presented arguments for recognition of a de facto government headed by himself.

[The Dutch information service at the Hague announced that if Van Mook had conferred with Soekarno, he had "acted against the express wish and instructions of the government" since the government holds there is no common ground for discussions with the Indonesian leader.]

RUSSIA OPPOSES ORPHANED AREA TRUSTEE PLAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 1—Russia has objected to the machinery tentatively set up for the united nations' international trusteeships over war orphaned territories, it was revealed today.

In recent sessions here the executive committee of the preparatory commission for the united nations organization proposed creation of a temporary trusteeship committee which would function until a permanent trusteeship council could be formed. The soviet delegation objected to this idea as well as plans for a permanent trusteeship agency. The soviet position was backed by Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia.

Diplomatic observers believe that the soviet stand was taken because of fears that the temporary committee might upset Russian territorial ambitions. Russia avowedly demands indivdual trusteeship over the truncated Italian colonies of Tripolitania and Eritrea as well as a share of the control commission over Japan.

FAMED CARRIER ENTERPRISE TO BE U. S. SHRINE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP)—The carrier Enterprise, "fightingest ship in the fleet," was saved from the junkpile today and ordered preserved as a symbol of American valor.

Navy Secretary Forrestal wrote President Truman that it would grieve him sadly to sign the death warrant for the "Galloping Ghost of the Oahu coast," which is considered no longer suitable for combat.

Therefore, the President approved an order to preserve her as a national shrine, like the Constitution, the Constellation, and other fighting ships. Where she will be berthed has not yet been decided. Meanwhile she has reported to the Boston navy yard for outfitting as a transport vessel.

300 BRITISH QUIT HEADQUARTERS IN SOERABAJA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SOERABAJA, Java, Oct. 31 [Delayed]—Under Indonesian guards and the Indonesian flag, British headquarters on Soerabaja was moved to the dock area today in what one British officer termed "the most humiliating act" of his life. Cocky Indonesians rode fore and aft of the convoy of trucks. Col. H. O. Pugh, second in command, ordered the evacuation which was suggested by Indonesian leaders to avoid the possibility of the rushing of headquarters and overrunning its 300 men.

Small detachments in other parts of the city also are being evacuated, but for some it was too late as only 35 in one station were known to have survived attacks by Indonesians who set the building afire 24 hours after a truce was agreed upon.

Others ambushed the International bank where 70 Indian troops were stationed. The troops, which had been under fire for 48 hours, drove the attackers back after killing an estimated 150 Indonesians. No word has been received yet of the women and children reported ambushed in a 20 truck convoy Sunday.

Raeder and Fritzsche Join Nuernberg Prisoners

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 1 (AP)—Adm. Erich Raeder, former navy chief, and Hans Fritzsche, nazi editor and propagandist, both Russian-held defendants in the coming war criminal trials, arrived in Nuernberg tonight and joined their comrades in the Nuernberg jail.

MURDER OF 1,500 IN MANILA CLUB BARED AT TRIAL

Japs Rape Women and Set Them Afire

children lost their heads and began screaming the Japanese word for 'friend' over and over. Then somebody decided the women with small children should get out and show that we were not combatants.

Bayonet Children

"But just then the head of the German club went out, spoke with a Japanese officer, and tried to explain that we were noncombatants and there was no reason to harm us. When he came back, women with small children in their arms volunteered to go out. They went out over the fire and knelt before the soldiers and officers.

"The Japanese bayoneted the children and threw their bodies away, tore off the women's clothes and started abusing them.

"Inside, some people were still shouting 'Friend, friend.' But the Japanese still abused the women. There was one girl—I do not think she was more than 13—of whom at least 20 took advantage. Some went so far as to cut off her breasts.

Set Fire to Girls' Hair

"When they were thru and the girls were lying there they poured gasoline on their heads, set fire only to their hair and let them die a lingering death.

"Some of us thought it better to be killed outright, to be shot than to be burned alive. But my mother embraced all my brothers and sisters and said: 'Stay here. See what they are doing out in the yard.'

"By and by the smoke and fire were so unbearable that I told her: 'Mother, I am a man. They can't do these things to me. I prefer to go out. I haven't the courage to be roasted alive. I would prefer to go out and die like the others.'

"She said: 'Go ahead. You have my blessing—I shall see you later.'

His Brother Is Shot

"So my younger brother and my neighbor and I went. While I was going out my clothes caught fire, and while I was trying to put out the fire my brother was shot thru the heart and my neighbor thru the head. I was jumping and reeling with pain, and they only managed to shoot me in the left foot.

"I half fainted. All the time I kept thinking, 'this is some dreadful nightmare that I have to wake up from.' Meanwhile I saw all the women being abused and the Japs making fun of it."

Tells Massacre of 100

Another witness described a massacre in which more than 100 civilians, including women and children, were mowed down by machine gun fire in a Spanish garden and then bayoneted.

Jose Barta Carcereny, whose two sons were murdered, told of the garden packed with men, women, and children, helpless against the fire of the Japs. The Japanese later found liquor and returned singing and shooting. They went thru the yard kicking the bodies and defiling them.

Resaria Soucheiron, the second witness, was excused from the stand when she burst into sobs as she told how the Japanese bayoneted three children who were crying aloud, including her baby sister.

The next witness estimated at least 200 persons were killed.

Dr. Joaquin Maranon, who with his wife and others were refuging in an air raid shelter near-by, said the Japs sent a burst of machine gun fire into their shelter.

Hides Among the Dead

"Several were killed, with their skulls destroyed," he said. "I noticed my face was somewhat paralyzed and found my wife wounded very severely. The Japs went around the yard shooting, then returned, machine gunning the shelter again. My wife and I took shelter among the dead and later we escaped after dark."

Francisco del Rosario, an undertaker employed by the 37th division to pick up the dead, testified he found in the vicinity of the massacre 15 bodies in a pig pen, 25 in the air raid shelter, 50 in the yard, and six or seven under a garage, many badly burned, and all civilians.

Previous witnesses said the Japs were marines.

At yesterday's late session the commission heard how 19 persons, four of them infants, knelt facing a wall, hemmed in by a barrier of piled up furniture, their hands tied behind them. A few moments later all but four were dead—some mercifully by rifle or hand grenade, but 10 roasted alive by gasoline fed flames.

Dr. Hans Luhrse, 45, a refugee German chemist, limped slowly to the stand this afternoon and in an anguish choked voice relived the scene which cost the lives of his wife and young daughter.

"The Japanese came, herded us into a room, ordered us to kneel, and then piled all the furniture in a semi-circle around us. I saw one of the Japanese putting gasoline on the furniture, then he set it afire. After that he laid a hand grenade on the floor and went out.

Stand Up to Be Shot

"I didn't see any one killed by the grenade except our housemaid, whose knee was taken off. Then Mrs. Villa-Real stood up and was shot in the head. I thought the Japanese outside must be watching, but told the others it was better to be shot than burned alive. Another woman stood up and was shot immediately. Then my wife stood up and was shot, too."

Here Dr. Luhrse, his face pitifully contorted, paused before continuing in a voice that almost broke into sobs. "But I don't think she is dead," he said, "because a little later I talked with her and saw her lips move, altho she didn't say anything. One or two hours later my child died."

Mrs. Martha Mack, 52, of 3915 N. Hermitage av., collapsed in Felony court yesterday after Judge Matthew D. Hartigan continued until Nov. 28 hearing on a charge of kidnaping her granddaughter, Martha Robison, 3. The grandmother was revived by court attendants.

Mrs. Mack was accused by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Robison, 22, who resides in the building at 3915 N. Hermitage av. Police arrested Mrs. Mack with the child in the home of a Lake Forest friend Wednesday.

Her attorney, Thomas A. McCaffrey, charged Mrs. Robison frequented taverns and kept company with other men while her husband, a wounded veteran, is in a west coast hospital. Mrs. Mack said her son had written her to care for the child. The attorney said Robison planned a divorce action.

GOVERNOR 'BACK TOO SOON; FEAR BURMA RIOTING

BY ALFRED WAGG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

RANGOON, Burma, Nov. 1—British military authorities here believe that the war exiled Gov. R. H. Dorman-Smith returned to Burma too soon, thereby precipitating decisions as to whether the new regime is to be mainly nationalist or British. Sources in both camps expect widespread rioting to flare immediately upon announcement of the governor's choice of a cabinet.

Had Dorman-Smith delayed his return a few more months, military spokesmen said, the physical reconstruction of Burma would have been well under way. This would have indicated the new and energetic plans of Britain for Burma without injecting a crisis of political bargaining almost at the outset, they argued.

Waiting Out Shuffle

Until the governor's return, the army had been working on friendly terms with Maj. Gen. Aung San, Burma's strong man of the hour and leader of the nationalist Anti-Fascist league. Aung San was estranged, however, when the governor returned with the same advisers who walked out with him in 1942.

In an interview, Aung San indicated that he will wait out the present government shuffle, expecting the future of Burma to be grim whoever takes control. He does not want to be the scapegoat and would rather be in a position to blame the British.

Gov. Dorman-Smith meanwhile is persuading many on Aung San's team to join their British rulers on the winning side and at the same time is carrying on a job of "Judas" hunting.

8,350 Hospital Beds

Placing emphasis on economics, Dorman-Smith has done an excellent job for the British empire and has built barriers against Americans doing business in Burma. An undercover representative of the United States Chamber of Commerce is reported returning home in disgust.

Dorman-Smith also has raised barriers against visits by Americans to the graves of their soldier dead in Burma and it is now said the bodies will be moved en masse to Calcutta, India, for re-burial in a central cemetery.

Medical measures and efforts to restore the port of Rangoon are the most important accomplishments to date. The army now has 8,350 hospital beds for civilians, but the need is four times as great because of the mounting typhus wave.

Flags Rail Job

Miss Mabel Dickson showing how she used to wave to railway engineers as invalid in childhood.

When Miss Mabel Dickson, 20, was a child of 11 and confined to her home because of heart trouble resulting from scarlet fever, she used to wave to the engineers who piloted C. & E. I. trains past her home at 7022 Wallace st. The friendship of the little girl and the engineers grew until it was a matter of public interest. Happily, the little sick girl recovered, went back to school, grew up, and learned to be a stenographer.

Recently, while looking for a job, her old affection for the C. & E. I. asserted itself. She applied; she was hired. She started to work Oct. 22. At first she was unrecognized but eventually her name awakened a memory. The C. & E. I. found out its old friend had joined the railroad business. Miss Dickson now lives at 8824 Bishop st. with her mother, Mrs. William Fyffe.

She said last night that she didn't know whether many of the engineers who were her waving pals were still on the road. She said she did know that her best friend among them, Louis Garry, died two years ago.

REDS LINK JAP, BALKAN ISSUES IN U.S. DISPUTE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP)—Progress toward settlement of soviet-American disputes over Balkan issues as well as over control of Japan was reported by diplomatic authorities today as a result of negotiations between Washington and Moscow.

Here are the top developments:

1. It is understood Marshal Stalin has indicated to the United States government his desire for an early settlement of Balkan issues as a part of the same pattern of negotiations involving Japan.

4 Powers Tackle Problem

2. The state department reported that the Japanese problem posed by Russia's demand for an allied control agency in Tokyo is being decided by the United States, Russia, Britain, and China, and not by all 10 members of the newly created far eastern advisory commission.

3. President Truman disclosed that Ambassador Edwin Pauley will leave for Japan early this month to develop a reparations program designed to deprive the defeated enemy of resources for making war again.

4. The soviet news agency Tass was quoted in reports from Moscow as saying that Russia favors a control council for Japan made up of the four power representatives "under the chairmanship of the United States representative," who presumably would be Gen. MacArthur.

Officials here said the development of Russian-United States relations based on the Japanese and Balkans issues is moving along satisfactorily.

Stalin's views were reported to President Truman and State Secretary Byrnes by Ambassador W. Averell Harriman following two talks with the soviet leader last week. Harriman's report has not been made public, but it was learned that the marshal developed the point that Russian interest in the Balkan states parallels that of United States in Japan.

Some authorities predict that any settlement which results in Russia's having a hand in the management of Japan will result in a greater voice for the United States in the Balkan nations.

MOLOTOV TURNS DOWN PROTEST OF CENSORSHIP

MOSCOW, Nov. 1 [Reuters]—Vyacheslav Molotov, soviet foreign commissar, has rejected a protest by British and American newspaper and radio correspondents against soviet censorship, it was disclosed today.

Molotov, in his reply, conveyed verbally by an official of the soviet foreign office press department, said he found the protest "in general not solid" and did not "find it necessary to give it consideration."

"Apart from its effects on modern journalists, the soviet censorship prevents the development of understanding and the promotion of good relations between the soviet union and the rest of the world," the writers' protest said.

"Now that the war is over we respectfully request you to establish the same conditions for free reporting that soviet journalists have in Great Britain and the United States."

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

CHINA RECRUITS U. S. FLYERS FOR OWN AIR FORCE

Find Chennault May Lead New 'Flying Tigers'

[Copyright: 1945: By the New York Times]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1—The Chinese national government, with the approval of the United States war department, is recruiting recently discharged American army flyers and ground crews as the nucleus for building a new and effective Chinese air force, it was learned today.

This program contemplates a second American volunteer group which may, in fact, be led by Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault, leader of the "Flying Tigers" against the Japanese and former head of the 14th air force, whose retirement from the army became effective yesterday.

Approached as Individuals

Asked if there might not be international repercussions if Americans were being hired to fly central government planes to put down the warring Communist faction in the conflict now raging in some areas of liberated China, a Chinese official source said that it was not expected that it would be necessary to use air power to deal with the present situation.

The flyers are being approached as individuals, and asked to sign contracts with the Chinese government. The payment offered could not be learned.

IT'S GENERAL'S MOVE

BY JOSEPH HEARST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CHINWANGTAO, China, Nov. 1—The Chinese 13th army, which was brought here in American transports from a port south of Shanghai, today sat down on the plains before the walled city of Shanhaikwan to consider the problem of attacking determined Chinese Communists who hold the approaches to the city.

When the first units of the army, commanded by Lt. Gen. Shih Chiao, who travels with a personal bodyguard of 600, arrived here they expected to find Shanhaikwan undefended and the communist troops gone. However, when advance units neared Shanhaikwan Tuesday night they were met by the communist force and in a skirmish four Nationalist [Kuomintang] soldiers were wounded.

Communists Dug In

The next day the Nationalists found the Communists dug in across a shallow river, two miles from the city whose walls rise 40 feet and form a part of the Great Wall which was completed more than 2,000 years ago to keep the Mongols out of China.

Gen. Shih went out to the U. S. S. Catoctin today to thank Vice Adm. Daniel E. Barbey, commander of the 7th amphibious force, for transporting his army to north China.

Asked if he believed it was necessary to keep marines in this area now that his army was on the scene, Gen. Shih said Americans are always welcome in China and he had no desire to see them leave. He said he hoped the Communists will obey orders of the central government and end the disofders they have been creating.

VARGAS' DECREE FOR DUAL BRAZIL VOTE REVOKED

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 1 (AP)—President Jose Linhares cleared the way today for Brazil's presidential election Dec. 2 by revoking a decree by former President Getulio Vargas which had set both the national and state elections for the same day. Linhares' decree restored the state elections to their original date of May 6, 1946.

Jose Linhares

The action of Vargas in ordering both state and national elections held on Dec. 2 was one of the major causes of the political upheaval Monday which removed Vargas from office and placed Supreme Court Justice Linhares in the presidency. Under the Vargas decree, with both state and national elections set for the same day and with Vargas appointed state interventors [governors] having the authority to formulate state constitutions, it would have meant that the Vargas backed candidate for president would have the aid of the state government machinery.

Now the two main presidential candidates — Gen. Eurico Dutra, backed by Vargas, and Gen. Eduardo Gomes—have an even chance at the polls.

China Dollar Hits 2,000 to $1 (U. S.) in Shanghai

SHANGHAI, Oct. 31 [Delayed]—The value of the Chinese national dollar in relation to gold reached a record Shanghai high today of 2,000 to one American dollar. As swarms of takers lined up at exchange houses, however, the price dropped to 1,700 and continued declining rapidly.

TRUMAN CAN'T DENY PACT ON ATOM, M. P. SAYS

LONDON, Nov. 1 [Reuters]—A reply to President Truman's reported statement at his press conference in Washington, D. C., that he did not believe an agreement existed between the late President Roosevelt and former Prime Minister Churchill on the atomic bomb was made today by Capt. Raymond Blackburn, Labor member of parliament.

"President Truman has not denied and could not deny the existence of the secret agreement on atomic energy at Quebec," Blackburn said.

"It is obvious from the United States government's official report on the development of the atomic bomb written by Henry D. Smyth that there was such an greement."

U. S. SHIPS LAND CHINESE TROOPS AT TWO PORTS

CHUNGKING, Nov. 2 [Friday] (AP)—Chinese central government troops have begun landing from United States transports at the Manchurian ports of Hulutao and Yingkow, the army newspaper Sao Tang Pao reported today. The troops, China's 13th, 16th, and 94th armies, were moved from Haiphong, Indo-China, and Hong Kong.

Yingkow, former treaty port, is better known as Newchowang. Before the Japanese conquest of Manchuria, the Chinese were developing Hulutao as a potential rival to Japanese-held Dairen.

A semi-official dispatch from Tientsin yesterday said the Russians will begin their large scale withdrawal from Manchuria today and will be out by Dec. 1. Squarely across the path the Chinese government will take to relieve them are massed forces of fighting Chinese Communists.

Nevertheless, government soldiers will move north this month in strength, and will take over from the Russians by Dec. 3, a Chinese dispatch from Changchun said.

Scattered fighting continued thru 11 northern provinces.

Government sources here acknowledged that Communists now control most of Shantung province, virtually isolating the United States marine held port of Tsingtao from which central China hoped to get coal.

A government source also confirmed withdrawal of the communists' new 4th army from points south of the Yangtze river, but said it is being moved north to attack and dislocate the Peiping-Hankow and Tientsin-Pukow [Tientsin-Nanking] railroads, thus blocking movement of government forces in strength into North China and Manchuria.

A-BOMB CREATOR SAYS 5 NATIONS KNOW SECRETS

Dr. Urey Predicts General Production Soon

Dr. Harold C. Urey, distinguished University of Chicago scientist who helped to developed the atomic bomb, yesterday drew a gloomy picture of the future world under the potential threat of atomic devastation. Dr. Urey, winner of the Nobel prize for his discovery of heavy water, made these points:

1. At least two more nations presumably know the secret of atomic bomb manufacture.

2. In five years, perhaps less, any nation can make the bomb.

3. When that time comes, it may be necessary for the United States to establish a dictator form of government to act quickly against an atomic war threat.

Urges Global Inspection

4. The only practical solution of the menace is rigid international inspection of all countries to assure that they are not secretly manufacturing atomic weapons.

Dr. Urey, who is distinguished service professor of chemistry in the institute of nuclear studies at the University of Chicago, spoke at a luncheon of the university citizens' board in the Chicago club. He amplified his remarks later at a press conference.

He said that both Denmark and France presumably possess the "directional" know-how of atomic bomb manufacture. Until now it had been indicated that that knowledge was possessed only by the United States, England, and Canada. It is possible, Dr. Urey said, that even other countries also know the answers.

Denmark and France in Secret

As to Denmark and France, he explained, Niels Bohr, Danish scientist, and Pierre Auger, French scientist, worked on the British team with American scientists, but were not restricted, as were our scientists in gathering a general, over-all conception of the bomb manufacture. Bohr and Auger, said Dr. Urey, are now back in their native lands. Then he asserted that, "within five years or even less," any country wanting to make bombs can do so.

"I do not see any way to keep up our democratic form of government if everybody has atomic bombs," he went on. "If every one has them, it will be necessary for the United States to move quickly in a manner not now possible under our form of government. This would mean that we would have to concentrate power in one or a few individuals and that would mean dictatorship."

Dr. Urey expressed skepticism over international agreement not to use atomic bombs. "It is wishful thinking not justified by experience," he said. The plan now most generally approved by scientists, Dr. Urey said, is international inspection control, but even so, he commented, "scientific groups are not so naive as to believe that such inspection control can be worked out easily."

Under this plan, Dr. Urey said, all nations would be open to inspection to see if they are maintaining atom manufacturing plants.

Senate Urged to Outlaw Atom Bomb

[Associated Press Wirephoto]

Issue Debated

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP)—The senate heard demands today that the atomic bomb be outlawed by international agreement as a weapon too terrible ever to be used again.

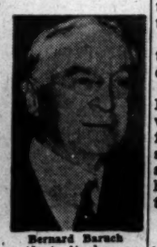
Voiced first by Sen. McKellar [D., Tenn.], they stirred a flurry of debate. McKellar left the presiding officer's chair to plead that the United States seek to bind all nations in a pledge against using atomic bombs. Until such a pledge is won, he said, this country should keep what secrets it has on release of nuclear energy.

Sen. Johnson [D., Colo.], acting chairman of the military committee, said: "If it is possible to outlaw the bomb why not go the whole step and outlaw war?"

Sen. Chavez [D., N. M.] said he saw no difference in principle between killing civilians with ordinary bombs and with atomic bombs. He said Britain was reported sending bombers over Java because of the killing of a British general in disorders there. "If Britain sends 30, 40, or 50 bombers into Java we know people are going to be killed who had no more to do with the killing of the British general than we did," he said.

URGES U. S. NEEDS COME FIRST ON OWN RESOURCES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch, adviser to Presidents since Woodrow Wilson, urged today that America's own needs get "first priority" on American resources.



Bernard Baruch

He proposed an inventory to see what can be spared for other countries. The financier coupled that advice with a recommendation that it be accepted as a fact that Germans and Japanese will strive thru science to create the means of waging another world war.

He indorsed legislation for a national science foundation as a means both of developing and maintaining American resources, and of keeping possible scientific aggressors in check.

Baruch, a witness before senate military-commerce subcommittees considering bills to create a federally-financed program of aid to research, added: "I do not in any way oppose helping other nations. They have made great sacrifices. I don't say we have exhausted our resources. I would like to see help allocated to the people who need it most—I would like to help them help themselves. But we must have enough here to prevent inflation."

WIFE SHOT; HUSBAND SOUGHT

PEARL HARBOR PROBERS DELAY TRIP TO HAWAII

BY WILLARD EDWARDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 — The joint congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee today postponed its contemplated flight to Hawaii and tentatively fixed Nov. 12 for the opening of public hearings into responsibility for the Dec. 7, 1941, disaster.

The committee wrangled four hours at two executive sessions over powers which the general counsel, former Atty. Gen. William D. Mitchell, is to exercise at the hearings. Chairman Barkley [D., Ky.] and the Democratic majority wanted to leave the questioning of witnesses mainly to Mitchell, while Republicans protested that any committee member should be permitted to ask any questions he wishes.

Split on Probe Procedure

The committee also was split over the question of allowing individual members to pursue their own investigations of the evidence, questioning prospective witnesses without authorization from a majority.

The six Democratic members were opposed to investigations by individuals, and a Republican said they have enough votes to carry their point.

The committee will meet again tomorrow in secret session to decide these questions.

Barkley said the flight to Pearl Harbor, scheduled to begin Monday, was called off because the members felt "it was more important to start hearings, get the facts, and sift the evidence." Several members had been unenthusiastic about the trip from the start, he added.

Expects Report by Jan. 3

Barkley said he still was confident hearings could be held, the evidence summarized, and a report made to congress by Jan. 3, as the authorizing resolution provides. Other members expressed doubt that this could be done and indicated that an extension of the period for filing a report might be asked.

No decision has been reached concerning the first witnesses, Barkley said. Mitchell and his staff have been working "night and day," he remarked, and are drafting a list of witnesses to be made public soon.

Seeks $800 a Month

MRS. ROSELLA ALBERT

Mrs. Rosella H. Albert, 39, of 2100 Lincoln pkwy., yesterday asked Judge Elmer J. Schnackenberg in Circuit court for $800 a month temporary alimony while her suit for divorce from former Ald. Arthur Albert, 47, is pending. Judge Schnackenberg, who took the case under advisement, will rule this morning.

Albert, her bill alleged, earns $5,200 a year as president of the Standard X-Ray company, as well as an additional $4,500 yearly in commissions and dividends.

She told the court that a monthly expenditure of $750 is necessary to operate a 10 room home at the Lincoln pkwy. address, which her husband gave her in 1940. He paid $11,000 for the house, she said, but she received an offer of $32,500 for it last June.

Albert, one time Republican mayoral candidate, countered that his wife earns $2,600 a year as secretary for the company, and gets an additional $3,000 in stock dividends. They were married July 14, 1927, and separated Sept. 22, 1945. A son, Arthur Jr., is a senior at St. John's Military academy at Delafield, Wis.

JOCKEY WINS DIVORCE

Anthony Skoronski, 25, of 1923 S. Maple av., Berwyn, a jockey, yesterday obtained a divorce before Judge Edwin A. Robson in Superior court from his wife, Julia, 23, Skoronski, who was represented by Atty. Nicholas Berkos, charged adultery.

SENATORS SEND TAX REDUCING BILL TO TRUMAN

Taft Says It Will Create More Jobs

BY WILLIAM MOORE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1—The senate sent the 5 billion 920 million tax reduction bill to the White House today after Sen. Taft [R., O.] had served notice that its benefits to business are not intended to provide for wage increases but said that it would increase employment. The house passed it Tuesday.

The measure removes 12 million low income persons from the income tax rolls, grants substantial reductions to other taxpayers, and repeals the excess profits tax on business.

The bill, the first reducing taxes in 16 years, is expected to yield 26½ billion dollars next year.

Capitol hill understood the bill is satisfactory to President Truman and will be signed, altho Treasury Secretary Vinson recommended cuts not to exceed 5 billion dollars.

To Encourage Industry

Taft praised the bill as a needed relief for business, and defended congress for voting tax relief in the face of protests that taxes should not be cut when the nation is running into debt.

"The purpose of making tax reductions is to encourage industry to go ahead, expand its plants, expand its reconversion facilities and build up a greater employment," he said.

"The main purpose is not to hand out a piece of pie to every taxpayer, but is to create an underlying condition which will encourage people to go ahead with greater business activity in 1946, 1947, and 1948, because when people plan business activity they have to look ahead," he asserted.

Not Meant to Increase Wages

Sen. Fulbright [D., Ark.] asked whether the lower business taxes would not enable business firms to pay correspondingly higher wages.

"If that were the result it would remove the purpose for reducing the tax," Taft replied. "A large number of corporations do not pay excess profits taxes. Their reduction is only 2 per cent."

The bill cuts $2,644,000,000 from the tax burdens of individuals. Business will enjoy a $3,136,000,000 cut thru repeal of the excess profits tax effective Jan. 1.

Benefits Veterans

Payers of the 3 per cent normal tax are given the same exemptions as for the graduated surtax—$500 apiece for the taxpayer and each dependent. The rate in each surtax bracket is cut by 3 percentage points, and after computing the total tax obligation, the taxpayer is allowed to knock off 5 per cent.

Automobile and truck owners will profit by $140,000,000 thru repeal of the $5 federal automobile tax. War veterans will be freed of all tax on service incomes for the war period.

The bill does not alter the war time excise taxes, such as those on jewelry, furs, liquor, long distance telephone calls, train tickets, and theater admissions. Present law provides for their repeal six months after the formal proclamation of the end of hostilities.

Other benefits business will receive include:

Corporations with net incomes of $50,000 a year or more—A cut from the present 40 to 38 per cent in the combined normal and surtax rates.

Corporations under $50,000—A reduction of 4 percentage points in their combined normal and surtax rates, which would range from 36 to 21 per cent, according to the size of the income.

Repeal Capital Stock Tax

The capital stock tax is repealed, effective June 30, 1946.

Sponsors of relief legislation for small business, led by Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.], expressed disappointment at the failure of one measure that would have given an exemption of $25,000 on 1945 excess profits taxes which are due in March.

This exemption was regarded as of especial value to smaller concerns. The measure was written by Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] and made an amendment to the original bill passed in the senate, which differed in many respects from the original bill passed by the house.

Senate and house conferees agreed Saturday on a compromise from which the Vandenberg provision was eliminated.

THE QUESTION
Why didn't you shave this morning?

WHERE ASKED
Various locations.

THE ANSWERS

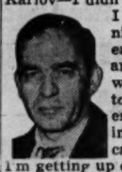
Earl Nelson, steel products company owner, 1621 16th av., Maywood—I'm working about 14 hours a day—that's why I didn't shave. In my work I don't meet many people except those in the construction industry. I shave on the average of three or four times a week. I'm up between 5 and 6 and work until 10 or 11 at night.

Joseph Jirik Jr., farmer, Route 2, Downers Grove—I guess I was just lazy this morning, but if I shave every day my face gets sore. During the war I used to make the excuse that razor blades were hard to get and I was conserving razor blades by not shaving. I just don't like to shave—that's all.

William Nesvacil, 2326 61st ct., Cicero—Unless I'm going to be at some social function, I usually don't bother to shave. I work at night and a beard doesn't show so much at night as in the day time. Sometimes I shave at night before I go to work. But when I think I can go without shaving I let it go.

Asher J. Mitchell, retail store proprietor, 6107½ Roosevelt rd., Cicero, This morning I overslept and didn't have time to shave. I generally get up before 4:30 in the morning so I can go down to the wholesale market to buy fruit and vegetables and open my store by 7 a. m. Business comes first, so I missed shaving today.

Ben J. Rubin, retail store proprietor, 6107 Roosevelt rd., Cicero—I'll tell you why I didn't shave this morning. I shave every other day, and I wouldn't shave every day for any one, absolutely no one, not even my wife. My face is too tender to shave every day. It gets rough. I just don't care to shave every day.



Jack Seefor, newsdealer, 1432 S. Karlov—I didn't have time to shave. I shave in the evenings because I get up early in the morning and have to go to work at 4:30. I like to sleep until the latest possible moment in the morning, because as it is I feel I'm getting up early enough without taking time to shave.

Swedish Coffee Rationing Ended After 5½ Years

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Swedish government announced today that coffee supplies were so plentiful that rationing began five and one half years ago, no longer was necessary.

NEWS FREEDOM PROVISION ADDED TO UNRRA FUNDS

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1—The house, approving 550 million dollars more for aid abroad, today voted to bar use of the funds in any country denying free access to the press to report on the relief distribution.

The Republican sponsored free press amendment was written into a bill increasing the United States' contribution to the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration from 800 million to 1 billion 350 million dollars. The vote for the amended bill was 339 to 17. It now goes to the senate.

Passage of the press rider by a roll call vote of 186 to 168 came after an all day debate in which house Democratic leaders sought to kill it as "irrelevant."

Dirksen Defends Proposal

Majority Leader McCormack [D., Mass.], taking the floor after the proposal was offered by Representatives Dirksen [R., Ill.] and Brown [R., O.], asserted scornfully that "people cannot eat freedom of the press."

"Congress," retorted Dirksen, "is voting more than half a billion dollars of taxpayers' money to be spent abroad. Is it too unreasonable to ask that the American people have access to the facts as to how that money is spent?"

Proponents of the proviso said it will require Russian dominated recipients of UNRRA aid, such as Poland, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, to permit unvarnished reporting to the American people of UNRRA activities or lose the right to any of the relief voted today.

Requires Free Access

Under the amendment, distribution of any of the 550 million dollars or of supplies bought with the money would be prohibited in any country whose government interferes with or refuses free access to all activities of the UNRRA.

The ban applies if any barrier is raised against obtaining or dispatching news, thru censorship or otherwise, and if the American press and radio are subjected to discrimination on transmission rates in reporting on the UNRRA.

Republicans voted almost solidly for the proposal, and an insurgent group of Democrats, mostly from southern states, joined them in spite of administration pressure to defeat the measure. The vote showed 156 Republicans and 32 Democrats for it, and 164 Democrats, 2 Republicans, and 2 minor party members against it.

Time Limit Set

The bill as adopted sets a deadline of Dec. 31, 1946, on relief distribution in Europe and March 31, 1947, in China and the far east. It requires countries receiving UNRRA aid to give full information on their exports, imports, and trade agreements.

If today's bill becomes law the 1 billion 350 million dollars allotted to the UNRRA will represent 72 per cent of the total granted to that agency by all nations.

3 U. S. OFFICIALS CHARGED WITH TAKING 'FAVORS'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1—Charges that three officials of the treasury department procurement division accepted favors in connection with award of federal contracts have resulted in an inquiry into the government's war time purchases, it was disclosed today.

The three officials, whose names were withheld pending a hearing and possible disciplinary action, have been placed on involuntary leave for the duration of the investigation. The three—a purchasing officer, his supervisor, and a woman employe in one of the commodity groups—handled hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of contracts or the purchase of supplies for lend-lease and the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration.

They are charged with violating a departmental rule against accepting gratuities from persons or firms doing business with the government. The gratuities which they are alleged to have accepted consisted mainly of dinners, entertainment, and hotel expenses, informed sources said.

UNRRA BUYS 354,829 TONS OF U. S. WHEAT

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP)—The united nations relief and rehabilitation administration [UNRRA] reported today that it had purchased 354,829 tons of wheat in the United States for European relief in August, September and October. Purchase of 400,400 tons more this year is contemplated. From July thru October, UNRRA bought 46,221 tons of rye in the United States and none in Canada. No additional rye purchases are contemplated in 1945.

In the four months ended Oct. 31, 244,152 tons of Canadian wheat were obtained. An additional 75,360 tons will be purchased in November and December, UNRRA said.

STATE TO CRACK DOWN ON IDLERS REFUSING JOBS

108,000 Accept Dole, but Scorn Work

Thousands of idle workers who have been receiving unemployment compensation while they hunted for peace time employment to match their war time pay checks will be cut from the rolls within a few weeks, Samuel C. Bernstein, unemployment compensation commissioner, said yesterday.

The period of grace—known as an adjustment period—is about up for the bulk of the Illinois workers who were thrown out of work on V-J day and who have been unable to secure what they consider adequate jobs, he said. The adjustment period, a recently adopted policy of the unemployment board, allows a worker from 6 to 10 weeks in which to find a job that suits him. Then he is obliged to take any reasonable job offer.

Pays Tribute to Industry

"I'm sure that when this first mad scuffle is over, when both workers and industry know where they are going, our present list of 108,000 idle workers will shrink to normal," Bernstein said. "However, large as the number is, it's only one-third of what we'd expected. Industry can take a bow for that."

Bernstein disclosed that the state unemployment compensation fund on Sept. 30 totaled 513 million dollars and that current payments are 8 to 9 million dollars per month. However, nearly half of that is paid out of collections from employers.

When the finicky unemployed are dropped from the rolls or forced to take positions, they'll find a wide range of jobs waiting for them at the United States employment service offices. On Oct. 25, there were 46,584 unfilled listings with the service.

Industries Need 26,190

Manufacturing industries needed 26,190; agriculture and fishing could absorb 202; service industries, 5,071; transportation, communication, and public utilities, 3,646; wholesale and retail trade, 6,776; construction, 1,445; government, 2,250, and miscellaneous, 1,004.

In the service industries, the jobs for men offered 35 cents to $1.87 an hour, with the vast bulk of the jobs paying 40 to 60 cents. Women were offered 30 cents to $1.50 an hour.

In manufacturing, skilled male workers were needed at 50 cents to $2.50 an hour [apprentices at the low figure], while skilled women were offered 50 cents to $1. Unskilled men were needed at 49 cents to $1.45 an hour and unskilled women 37 cents to $1.

TRUANCY DROPS 6 PCT. THIS FALL, SCHOOLS REPORT

Maj. Frank L. Beals, assistant superintendent of schools, said yesterday that juvenile delinquency as reflected in the truancy record of the public schools already is on the decline.

The number of truants in the schools in the first seven weeks this semester has decreased to 2,569, or 164 [6 per cent] fewer than for the same period last year.

Two years ago school officials took 262 parents into Municipal court for failure to have their children attend school. Last year about 200 cases were taken to Municipal court, and so far this year 90 cases have come before the court, including a number continued from last year.

In addition, 68 cases have been taken into Juvenile court by school authorities this year. In 1943-'44 346 pupils appeared in this court and last year there were only 232 such cases.

MAYOR TO PRESS CHICAGO'S AIMS BEFORE IOWANS

Mayor Kelly will leave today for Des Moines, Ia., he said yesterday, to address a gathering sponsored by the Iowa state Democratic central committee. If given an opportunity, the mayor added, he will put in a good word for Chicago as permanent capital for the united nations organization. He disclosed that he has applied for passports for Corporation Counsel Hodes and for William L. McFetridge, labor leader, members of a four man committee going to London to present Chicago's advantages before representatives of the international group.

VETERAN FINED $55 FOR BRAWL

William Hefka, 26, of 6155 S. Keating av., a war veteran, was fined $55 yesterday by Justice of the Peace Henry Pendl in Bedford Park county highway police court for disorderly conduct and resisting police as a result of a brawl in the Club Elgin in Lyons township.

LABOR, CAPITAL VOW HARMONY AT PEACE TALKS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP)—Both labor and employer representatives said after talks with President Truman today they had pledged to coöperate in the labor-management peace conference, which will open here Monday.

CIO President Murray and Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, told newsmen they informed Mr. Truman they were entering the conference with open minds.

Among the delegates called in by the President was John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who had not been in the White House in four years. He had broken with the late President Roosevelt prior to the 1940 elections but attended a labor-management conference in the White House Dec. 17, 1941, when the no-strike, no-lockout pledge was given.

Lewis Silent on Outcome

Lewis declined to comment on the possible outcome of the parley.

The sessions are to devise machinery to replace the war labor board, which was created at the 1941 conference.

Meantime the commerce department issued a report of its bureau of foreign and domestic commerce which said wages could rise substantially without any corresponding increase in prices.

10 Per Cent Raises Held Possible

The report dealt principally with the auto industry. It said that industry wages can be increased as much as 25 per cent in the next two years and profits still may be three times larger than in 1936-'39. The automobile industry could stand 15 per cent wage increase in 1946 and another 10 per cent in 1947, according to this report.

Increases of 10 per cent in 1946 are possible in industry generally, the report said.

SEEKS TO DELAY STATE CONTROL OF JOB SERVICE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP)—The administration today offered to accept next June 30 as an "absolute deadline" for returning the United States employment service to control of the states.

Informed sources said Labor Secretary Schwellenbach made this proposal at a closed meeting of a senate appropriations subcommittee in an effort to stave off a still earlier date.

President Truman on Tuesday night criticized moves in congress to turn the employment service back quickly to the states. He asked another year of control by the federal government, which took over the service Jan. 1, 1942. In his Sept. 6 message to congress Mr. Truman suggested June 30, 1947, as the deadline.

A bill before the committee providing for withdrawal of 52 billion dollars in war appropriations includes a house-approved "rider" that directs a return to state control within 30 days.

TRUMAN READY TO YIELD ON HIS FULL JOBS PLAN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP)—President Truman let congress know today that he is willing to retreat a little in his idea of "full employment" legislation.

House Majority Leader McCormack of Massachusetts made the concession public in a letter from the White House dated Oct. 29, the day before Mr. Truman's speech upbraiding the lawmakers for bottling the measure.

In that letter, Mr. Truman said he wanted a bill passed but he wasn't insisting on "any specific bill."

"I refer," he wrote in the "Dear John" missive, "to the general purposes and principles of full employment legislation."

This is the first time the President has shown a compromise attitude on the issue. Heretofore his spokesmen in congress have said he wanted the original Patman bill "without any weakening amendments."

FILE $19,869 OPA SUIT AGAINST PACKER

The L and S. meat division of the Dubuque Packing Company, Inc., was accused yesterday in a criminal information filed in federal District court by the government of accepting $19,869 in excess of office of price administration ceiling prices from retailers. Samuel M. Simon, manager of the company, was named a co-defendant in the information.

SENTENCES RAPE SUSPECT IN OLD CAR THEFT CASE

George Bobrowsky, 19, of 2847 W. 25th st., arrested recently on a charge of raping a girl, 15, after robbing and assaulting her companion, was sentenced yesterday by Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary for violation of probation granted in 1943 for automobile theft. In addition, the grand jury indicted Bobrowsky on the rape charge and three charges of robbery. He will be brought to trial on the indictments, Assistant State's Atty. Samuel Papanek said.

SECOND OF A SERIES DEALING WITH WHAT'S AHEAD IN TRAIN TRAVEL

FIRST STEPS

in Restoring Train Service

TO NORMAL

Although the pace of demobilizing millions of men and women in the Army and Navy quickens . . . Railroads are doing many things to better travel

Of course, practically everybody realizes the railroads' war job is only half done.

The millions of men and women they took away must be brought back.

So a large number of our coaches—and an even greater percentage of Pullmans—will be tied up exclusively in the great movement of demobilization.

But as rapidly as the need for railroad equipment for this purpose tapers off . . .

The Pennsylvania Railroad will . . .

(1) Put back trains and cars that have been taken off . . ;

(2) Add more dining cars to trains . . .

(3) Improve schedules . . .

(4) Restore "on time" train dependability . . .

(5) More readily accommodate those seeking Pullman and Coach reservations . . .

In addition, the Pennsylvania Railroad is already building—and having built—great new passenger and freight locomotives . . ;

Placed orders and designs for the most advanced modern coaches . . .

Moving ahead as rapidly as possible to . . . better train service.

SINATRA HITS A FALSE NOTE IN GARY TALK

5,000 Cheer, Jeer Plea in School Strike

Frank Sinatra, clinging wearily to a microphone yesterday, tossed a bombshell into an audience of 5,000 school pupils and their parents in Memorial auditorium at Gary, Ind., when he accused two of the city's best known citizens of complicity in the Froebel school pupils' strike, and urged that the civic leaders be run out of town.

Eight hundred of the school's 1,100 pupils are skipping classes in protest against the admission of Negro pupils.

Sinatra launched into a tirade against one of Gary's businessmen, and against a city official.

Silence Greets Remarks

Utter silence fell upon the auditorium when the nature of the radio crooner's remarks sank in. Mayor Joseph E. Finerty, seated on the speaker's platform, turned crimson, rose as if to leave, then resumed his seat. The Rev. Lawrence Grothouse, pastor of St. Anthony's parish, did leave. Obvious embarrassment marked the features of the other Gary civic and business leaders on the platform.

Sinatra, who wore a white shirt and bow tie, took a firmer grip on the microphone, smiled wanly, and said of the business man:

"He's only a small time politician who has had his name on the billboard two times, but never was elected. Surely you're not going to let a man like this influence you. You ought to run him out of town."

Mayor's Face Gets Red

The dead silence was broken only when Sinatra again spoke, when Mayor Finerty's face grew even redder. Sinatra referred to the public official and said: "I am going to ask the mayor of Gary to throw him out."

It was at this point that Mayor Finerty suppressed his evident desire to stalk off the stage. Sinatra crooned on:

"You must pay no attention to these people, who have no business telling you what to do."

Cheers and Catcalls

The auditorium exploded into cheers, yells, and catcalls at the termination of Sinatra's address. Mayor Finerty, who had called Sinatra's appearance a "sincere effort to help the situation" when he introduced the crooner, told him:

"I thought you were sincere, and that you hadn't come here just as a publicity stunt. Your remarks were most unfortunate. You were ill-advised in your statements and what you said in your personal remarks was a disservice to the cause and to the community."

Leonard Levanda, 17, of 1005 W. 11th st., Gary, leader of the pupil strike, denied the two accused by Sinatra had any part in the strike, and said he had so informed Sinatra before the talk.

Apologize for Sinatra

Both Mayor Finerty and Father Grothouse went immediately to the business man's home where they apologized for Sinatra's remarks.

Prior to his tirade against the Gary inividuals, Sinatra had appealed to the pupils to practice racial tolerance. He implored the children to return to school, and told them their behavior was doing harm to their city. Then he led them in a pledge of loyalty to the United States.

Sinatra was brought to Gary under the auspices of the Anselm forum, a racial tolerance group.

$40,000 Home Too Fancy for Star, 13, Court Rules

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 1 (AP)—Superior Judge Henry M. Willis today refused to permit Peggy Ann Garner, 13, movie actress, to buy a $40,000 house, saying it was too expensive and too fancy. He directed that 25 per cent of her current weekly earnings of $1,000 should be put into a trust fund. "I loved that house," Peggy Ann mourned.

URGES 40 HOUR WORK WEEK FOR STATE EMPLOYES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 1—A 40 hour week for all state employes, with the same pay they receive for 48 hours, was urged by the 63d annual convention of the Illinois State Federation of Labor today in a resolution introduced by Anton J. Inhahn of local 399, Chicago engineers' union. The resolution was adopted by 1,200 delegates representing 750,000 workers.

A resolution calling on the AFL to demand a 30 per cent increase in wages for all its members was rejected. Individual AFL unions were given the right to seek their own raises.

Another adopted resolution requested that old age, social security, and other benefits be made available to workers when they reach 55 instead of 65.

Scottish Group to Hold 100th Annual Dinner

The Illinois Saint Andrew society, a Scottish group, will hold its 100th annual dinner in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel Saturday evening, Dec. 1, it was announced last night. The dinner will be the "Feast of the Haggis," featuring a dish prepared of herbs and special cuts of sheep brewed in a sheep's stomach.

HOUSE WARNED OF RED INROADS UNDER TRUMAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1—Rep. Dondero [R., Mich.] charged in the house today that Communist influences in the government have increased under the Truman administration because the Democratic majority in congress continues to "place party loyalty above the nation's welfare."

Dondero said house Democrats privately confess their alarm at the infiltration by subversive elements into important policy making positions but fear political recriminations if they voice their apprehension in public.

It was no mere coincidence, he continued, that a longshoremen's strike was called in England at the same time that a similar strike was in progress in the United States.

"That indicates a well organized and coördinated plan to gain control of essential transportation and achieve the objective of communism —world revolution," he asserted.

Slot Machine in a Gas Station Costs $100 Fine

Justice of the Peace Henry Pendl in Bedford Park county highway police court yesterday fined John Lieser, 6546 S. Cicero av., Clearing, $100 for keeping a slot machine in his gas station.

LINES DISCOUNT THREAT OF BUS STRIKE SPREAD

Threats that the strike of Greyhound employes, which halted all east and south bound buses out of Chicago at midnight Wednesday, would spread thruout the nation were discounted by Greyhound officials here yesterday as buses continued to operate on north and west routes.

The strike—in which 300 drivers and mechanics walked out in Chicago out of a total of 4,000 who struck on the five Greyhound lines operating east of the Mississippi and north of the Mason-Dixon line—"may spread thruout the country if a settlement is not reached soon," George E. Siff, union official, said in New York City.

Stations Are Picketed

Buses continued to operate here yesterday on the Overland and Northland Greyhound lines. Company officials said a settlement had been reached with Overland drivers and that a meeting is scheduled with Northland union officials for Nov. 18 when the question of wage increases will be taken up.

The strikers yesterday picketed the Union bus terminal at 1157 S. Wabash av., and the station at 170 N. State st. Stations at 6302 Stony Island av., 7838 Stony Island av., and 2934 E. 92d st., have been closed.

Pay Cut Imposed

Officials of the striking employes said their walkout was based largely on the fact that on Oct. 1 a 7½ per cent pay cut was imposed.

Union officials challenged the statement of Greyhound officials on the status of relations with Overland and Northland employes. They insisted that Overland employes are not at all satisfied with the settlement they received and that Northland workers are at present considering joining the strike.

Police Action is Urged as Boy, 2, Dies of Burns

Police action was recommended by a coroner's jury yesterday in the death of Lawrence Finucane, 2, of 4922 Fulton st., of burns suffered Wednesday when his clothing caught fire from a burning rubbish pile in a vacant lot near his home. The jury recommended an investigation to fix responsibility for unattended rubbish fires in the lot. The death was held accidental.

BOARD MEMBERS FAVOR PAY HIKE FOR COUNTY AIDS

Members of the Cook county board said yesterday that they favor 1946 salary increases for virtually all county employes, including white collar workers who were promised a 10 per cent raise by Commissioner Daniel Ryan, board finance chairman.

The commissioners said they are opposed, however, to any attempts to appropriate for salary accounts more than estimated revenues will produce. These revenues will be about 16 million dollars from taxes and about 9 million from fees and other sources.

The commissioners also stipulated that priorities in spending would be given to raises and improvements in the county's buildings and in institutions.

Ald. Bowler [25th] city council finance chairman, and members of the finance committee said there was little prospect of general pay raises for city employes who were granted raises in 1944. Clerks and bailiffs of the Municipal court, who were denied increases because of legal technicalities a year ago, will be given increases of $500 a year, it was understood.

NEW CAR PRICES SLATED TO STAY AT 1942 LEVELS

OPA to Force Dealers to Absorb Higher Costs

BY ROBERT YOUNG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1—Retail prices for all makes of post-war automobiles will be announced in four or five days, Price Administrator Bowles said today at a press conference.

Bowles gave no indication of how the prices will compare with pre-war levels. It is known, however, that altho manufacturers' prices will be higher than before the war, the OPA has ordered retail ceilings set at about the same levels as prices for which 1942 cars were sold.

Dealers will be required to absorb part of the increase in manufacturing costs rather than pass it on to consumers.

Lower Prices Expected

The OPA declared recently that every effort would be made to keep new automobile prices at pre-war levels despite war time increases in labor and material costs.

Bowles predicted today that volume production and competition will reduce retail prices in time. He expressed disagreement with automobile industry contentions that the policy of requiring dealers to absorb increased costs is unfair. He said the OPA holds that with sharply increased sales retail dealers will—even after absorption—realize a profit margin on post-war automobiles "considerably" higher than the margin of 12 to 13 per cent they received in 1941.

He did not disclose what increase the dealers might be asked to absorb but said new car sales will increase 50 or 60 per cent above 1941 levels when volume production is reached.

Delay Blocks Sales

Failure to fix new automobile prices has been blocking sales of cars coming off assembly lines and appearing in showrooms, and some members of the automobile industry have blamed the OPA for holding up the announcement of ceiling prices.

Current wage negotiations in the automobile industry will not affect prices to be made public in a few days, Bowles said. Under the President's wage-price policy announced last Tuesday night, it will be possible for manufacturers granting wage increases to get higher prices if they are not making a fair profit. Bowles predicted that volume production will lower costs to such an extent that wage increases can be absorbed.

Radio Queen

KAY WESTFALL

Kay Westfall, a vivacious brunette, yesterday was voted radio queen of Chicago by newspaper columnists at a gathering in the Actors' club, 720 N. Rush st. She is a graduate of De Paul university, where she formerly taught classes in the history of drama and poetry interpretation.

Miss Westfall, known to radio listeners for her work in day time serials, will be crowned Saturday night, Nov. 10, at the annual American Federation of Radio Artists' Antics party in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Proceeds of the affair, which is open to the public, will go to the sick and benefit fund of the local AFRA chapter.

Lucy Gilman, a radio veteran at the age of 22, and Beverly Taylor, heard in NBC dramatic sketches, were chosen as Miss Westfall's maids of honor.

AUTO INDUSTRY WILL DISPLAY '46 MODELS TODAY

BY PHILIP HAMPSON

Formal opening of the golden jubilee of the automobile—commemorating the 50th anniversary of America's first automobile races—will take place today at the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park. Exhibits tracing the evolution of the automobile from the early "chuggers" to the 1946 streamlined models will be open free to the public.

The first race—a consolation event run off before the main event on Nov. 28, 1895—took place on Nov. 2, just 50 years ago over a course that extended from Chicago to Waukegan and back. The major event was held on a snowy Thanksgiving day over a course that ran from a point adjacent to where the museum now stands to Evanston and back.

Drew Attention to Auto

The races focused the attention of the nation on the automobile—then a new fangled contrivance called the motocycle which few believed would amount to anything. That attention is credited with having sparked the development of the automobile in this country.

Celebrating the first race, members of the Newcomen society, an organization of leaders in engineering, industry, business, and other fields, will meet at the Blackstone hotel at 10 a. m. today and drive in old automobiles to the museum for a day of meetings.

Other Meetings at Museum

Numerous other societies will hold meetings at the museum during the month and the month's celebration will be climaxed by several dozen old automobiles participating in a drive which will follow the route of the Nov. 28, 1895, race. However, the 1945 run will take place on Thanksgiving. J. Frank Duryea, co-inventor with his brother, Charles E., is reconditioning an automobile he built in 1896 to take part in the race. Frank Duryea drove the winning car in the bleak 1895 Thanksgiving race in which eight cars were listed as starters with only two finishing.

Compared with '46 Models

At 2:30 p. m. daily during the month ancient automobiles will be driven around the building, weather permitting. General Motors has an exhibit of early model Buick, Chevrolet, Cadillac, Pontiac, and Oldsmobile cars which contrast vividly with the sleek 1946 models. The Studebaker corporation has an interesting exhibit which contains carriages that preceded the automobile, including ones in which rode President Lincoln and Marquis Lafayette. An exhibit of the B. F. Goodrich company traces the evolution of the automobile tire.

CITY COMBATS SYPHILIS AMONG WAR VETERANS

Army separation centers have reported to the Chicago health department 1,048 cases of syphilis or suspected syphilis among discharged soldiers returning to this area, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said yesterday.

Prompt action for further medical observation is being taken by the department, Bundesen said; many discharged men having homes outside Chicago are being referred here because of Chicago's facilities.

Chicago's venereal disease control program was set up before the war by the health department in cooperation with the United States public health service. Free treatments are available at the medical center and at seven municipal social hygiene clinics.

A sharp rise in venereal disease incidence has developed since the end of the war, Dr. Bundesen said, both in the Pacific and Atlantic theaters.

QUITS MISSOURI SENATE SEAT IN MIDST OF TRIAL

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 1 (AP)—State Sen. Joseph A. Falzone, St. Louis county Republican, resigned from the Missouri senate today because, he stated, "my wife's physical and mental condition is such that I think the trial should be terminated."

Falzone referred to the unprecedented action of the Missouri legislature in which his colleagues sat as his jurors to decide his fitness to remain a member of the body. Falzone had been charged with asking $1,500 for guiding a beauty shop bill thru the state assembly.

Mrs. Falzone was the cause of the recess of the trial yesterday when she suffered a nervous breakdown before the opening of the third day of the hearing.

Itemizes Complaints

MRS. EILEEN CLAYTON

Judge Edwin A. Robson in Superior court yesterday awarded a divorce to Mrs. Eileen Clayton, 25, of 120 N. Karlov av., from her husband, John, 41, an auditor, who was given the family piano. His wife received $1,000. Questioned by Victor Frohlich, her attorney, Mrs. Clayton testified that her husband had: 1. Hit her on the head with a cocktail table. 2. Thrown her from an automobile. 3. Jumped on her stomach. 4. Dragged her down a flight of 18 stairs. 5. Tried to drown her in a bathtub. They were married Aug. 29, 1943, and separated last June 30.

Army to Hold Auditions for Actresses Today

Auditions for actresses to play roles in shows to be presented in the Pacific under the auspices of the army special services division will be held today in the Goodman theater, army officials said yesterday. The army seeks actresses between 21 and 30 years old for lead, character, and variety roles.

JOE E. BROWN, KYSER TO SPUR BOND WORKERS

Nearly 5,000 veteran bond workers from 151 communities and Chicago and Cook county are expected to attend a two hour Victory Loan drive show tonight at 8 o'clock in Medinah temple, Walter J. Lozier, manager of the communities division of the drive, announced yesterday.

The cast will include Joseph Dunninger, mind reader; Joe E. Brown, stage and screen comedian who recently received the bronze medal for his work in entertaining the boys overseas; Kay Kyser and company, and Georgia Carroll, movie actress, who in private life is Mrs. Kyser, and the 86 piece United States army band.

The show will include a concert of modern jazz and light classical music by the army band, which recently returned to this country after two years overseas. The band played more than 500 concerts in Africa, the British Isles, and European countries. Prior to the program, Lozier and George F. Spaulding, chairman of the Victory Loan committee, will make brief talks.

Mrs. Walter J. Wolf, chairman of the women's division of the drive, will direct bond selling activities tonight at the Chicago Horse show in the Coliseum.

Tomorrow, the United States army band will make a second Chicago appearance in behalf of the Victory Loan campaign on the Victory stage, State and Adams sts., at noon.

A NEW CHAPTER IN THE HISTORY OF TIRE-MAKING

OUT OF THE LABORATORY TEST TUBE, THROUGH THE FURY OF WAR, RAYON CORD TAKES ITS PLACE AT THE HEAD OF THE LIST OF REVOLUTIONARY ADVANCES IN TIRE-MAKING

Rayon tires kept our Armies rolling on to Victory—saved many a G.I.'s life on the far-flung battlefields of the world. Soon you'll be rolling on rayon too—and what an experience you have in store. Tire makers say that never will you have ridden so safely, never so comfortably, never will you have enjoyed so much trouble-free mileage.

From Fashions to Fighting—Maybe you know how rayon, long in the forefront of the fashion picture, went to war. Exhaustive tests and wartime performance definitely proved rayon superior, whether used with synthetic rubber, natural rubber, or combinations of both.

Why Rayon Cord Tires are Better—Because rayon production is entirely within human control, and is not subject to fickle Nature, it can be given properties of strength and uniformity only possible through scientific production. Here are some of the advantages you can look forward to in tires of rayon:

GREATER SAFETY—Heat is the enemy of tires. Because rayon cord tires run cooler, and the cord actually gets stronger as their temperature rises, road failure is greatly reduced. Reports from the Army and bus and truck fleet operators show there are fewer blowouts and road failures when they use rayon cord tires.

MORE COMFORT—Because rayon cord has greater strength per unit of weight, tires of rayon can be lighter, requiring less rubber and cord. And tire men will tell you a lighter tire flexes easier, has less rolling resistance, and altogether, gives you a more comfortable ride.

LONGER LIFE—With heat breakdown reduced, rayon cord tires will give you greater mileage. How much greater depends on car, driver, roads but, truth be told, you'll probably be riding on the same set of rayon cord tires as long as you keep your car.

Industrial Rayon's TYRON—A leader in the manufacture of rayon for tires, Industrial Rayon is proud of its major contributions to this important development. Our Tyron, a rayon cord of war-tested excellence, is produced by an exclusive Continuous Process to provide the ultimate in uniformity. To tire manufacturers this is an ideal—a cord that is uniform today, tomorrow, next year—spool after spool, and hence tire after tire.

That's the story of the tire that will soon be yours—the better tire for the better cars to come.

TUOHY ORDERS EVANSTON RAPE CASE PRESSED

Aid Pledges Full Evidence Against Suspect, 16

Asst. State's Atty. Patrick Egan asserted yesterday that convicting evidence will be in the record next Tuesday night against Howard G. Stiles Jr., 16, of 2326 Brown av., Evanston, charged with the rape of an 8 year old girl and the attempted rape of a 10 year old girl in the suburb on Sept. 16 and Aug. 24.

The assertion was made in the face of a statement by Judge Frank H. Bicek of the Juvenile court that the state "has proved nothing to date" and "unless the state offers something Tuesday I shall dismiss the case." Release of Stiles, who has a previous police record of sex irregularity, by Judge Bicek in $1,000 bond brought a vocal protest and expressions of fear by mothers of northwest Evanston.

Report Tuohy Acts in Case

State's Atty. Tuohy, it was reported, conferred with his assistants, Wilbert F. Crowley and James Cherry, and ordered them to present all available evidence on Stiles' sex record to Judge Bicek. They were said to have instructions to "protect the state vigorously."

Lawyers in the state's attorney's office pointed out that Bicek's duty does not end with trial of a specific charge. He is charged by statute, they said, with investigating all phases of a charge of delinquency.

Meanwhile a report of the Chicago crime commission last Oct. 16 disclosed that a physician on June 8, 1943, pronounced Stiles' condition that of "severe psychoneurosis," and recommended that he be treated by a psychiatrist.

Trace Record from Age of 9

Another report on file was that of Leonarde Keeler, Inc., on the occasion of a lie detector test last Sept. 18. This said that Stiles reacted poorly to the test, but slight reactions indicated that he was involved in an attempted attack on the 10 year old girl. He showed almost no reactions to questions concerning the rape of the 8 year old girl, the report said.

During the examination, this report said, Stiles admitted sex relations with boys, said that at the age of 8 or 9 he had "handled" a girl, and on another occasion he and another boy undressed a girl in the forest preserve. The report said Stiles admitted that on another occasion he attempted to pull a girl into a shop, but failed and the incident was reported to his father.

Criticize Law on Young Criminals

State's Atty. Tuohy and Judge John A. Sbarbaro of Superior court denounced a statute which forbids trial of an offender younger than 17 in Criminal court.

"I think the statutes do not reflect the public will in crimes of this sort," said Tuohy. "They certainly need an amendment by which the state can impose punishment commensurate with the crime.

"Rape is second only to murder. Our statutes provide that persons of 16 years and up be tried for murder. I see no reason why this should not be true when the crime of forcible rape has been committed. The consequences to the victim are just as tragic as if the crime was committed by an adult."

Sex Cases in Juvenile Court

Judge Sbarbaro said that he had no knowledge of the Stiles case, but added, "As a former chief justice of the Criminal court, with a knowledge of proper procedure to accelerate justice, it is my personal opinion that cases involving sex and other serious criminal charges against minors should be tried in the Criminal court rather than in the Juvenile court.

"Too frequently the tendency is to protect a flagrant offender simply because he or she is a minor. Second and third offenders should not be treated lightly. Our courts have a primary duty to protect society and this duty never should become secondary or be overlooked."

Stiles, who at first confessed the attacks, later repudiated these confessions. The defense contends that they were obtained under duress.

Chain Gang Fugitive Wins Freedom

Family of Robert Elliott Burns receives news with smiles in Union, N. J. With Mrs. Clara Burns are children, Frances, 7; Caroline, 4, and Robert Jr., 5.

Hunted 23 Years

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 1 (AP)—Robert Elliott Burns, 55, the celebrated fugitive from a Georgia chain gang, surrendered today, and two hours later heard himself pronounced a free man.

The three member board of pardons and paroles wiped away the unserved part of a six to 10 year sentence for a holdup that has hung over Burns for 23 years.

The board commuted his sentence to the time he had served, but declined to grant him a full pardon.

In all, Burns has served less than two years of his sentence. He escaped twice, the first time going to Chicago, where he became a magazine publisher.

SEIZE FUGITIVE AND DIARY WITH HOLDUP ENTRIES

Louis Gladden, 17, of 3058 Dickens av., a fugitive from the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles since Oct. 17, when he was sentenced to his second term there for automobile theft, was seized by police last night with two other young men in the Forum cafeteria at 64 W. Madison st.

In Gladden's possession, detectives said, they found a diary in his own handwriting which contained these two entries: "Sunday, Oct. 28, we hit eight or nine cottages at Cedar Lake [Ind.]. Thursday, Nov. 1, we stuck up 8-Ball tavern on Dixie highway; got about $80." Gladden said they took cameras, radios, clocks, flashlights, and two rifles from the cottages.

Gladden implicated as his confederate in the burglaries and holdup Marvin Cox, 17, of 316 S. Wolcott av., who was seized with him. The other in custody is Ross Wilson, 20, of 320 S. Wolcott av. Gladden said he was released from the school on Aug. 3 and resentenced on Oct. 10. He escaped from the Pierce cottage, crawled over a fence, and stole an automobile owned by Allen A. E. Strom, route 1, St. Charles, in which he found $105.

PAPER PREDICTS ADM. NIMITZ TO SUCCEED KING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP)—The Army and Navy Bulletin, in its issue appearing tomorrow, predicts the appointment of Adm. Nimitz as chief of naval operations, succeeding Adm. King.

The navy declined any comment on the report, saying any such appointment is a Presidential prerogative.

The Bulletin, an unofficial publication devoted to the interests of army and navy personnel, based its forecast on "high congressional sources."

The paper said support for Nimitz ran counter to the reported desire of Secretary Forrestal for the choice of Adm. R. S. Edwards, now deputy chief of naval operations, and against that of Adm. King who was reported supporting Adm. Raymond A. Spruance, now commander of the 5th fleet.

The paper said the principal argument raised against Nimitz was that he would be eligible to retire in two years.

NAVAL R. O. T. C. ESTABLISHED AT ILLINOIS TECH

A new naval R. O. T. C. was established yesterday at the Illinois Institute of Technology, 3300 Federal st., at a ceremony on the campus. Capt. Donald McGregor, commanding officer, read the order before officials of the institute and 280 cadets.

The unit is composed of 105 cadets who have just entered the institute and 175 students who formerly were in the navy's V-12 study program at six other colleges where the V-12 program has been discontinued.

The R. O. T. C. students will take regular college courses plus 30 hours of naval science and tactics. They will be commissioned ensigns in the naval reserve upon graduation.

BOARD SET UP TO PUSH 'IDEALS' OF ROOSEVELT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP)—Admirers of the late President Roosevelt established a foundation today dedicated to the perpetuation of his ideals.

George E. Allen, Washington insurance man and former District of Columbia commissioner, was elected first president. In a statement he outlined plans for a "living memorial" to carry on the "broad humanitarian purposes" which he attributed to Roosevelt.

President Truman was asked to serve as honorary President and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt as honorary chairman at a meeting held in the White House.

DIVORCE, $25,000 WON BY WIFE OF CHARLES ZINT

Mrs. Marie Phillips Zint, 40, of 1432 Bonnie Brae av., River Forest, yesterday was granted a divorce from Charles Zint, 45, president of the Central Pattern and Foundry company. She charged cruelty. The divorce was granted by Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court.

Mrs. Marie Zint

Under terms of an agreement announced by Atty. Benjamin B. Davis, representing Zint, and Robert E. Cantwell Jr., his wife, Mrs. Zint will receive their River Forest home, valued at $45,000, $25,000 in cash, and a Cadillac automobile. Zint will receive a $60,000 farm at Palatine.

Mrs. Zint testified that on May 1, 1941, her husband struck her with a lamp at the Palatine farm, and shortly before they separated he pointed a gun at her in the River Forest home, then chased her down the street in an automobile when she fled from the house. Custody of two children, Marilyn, 13, and Charlene, 11, was awarded to their mother.

VEIL LIFTED ON CIVILIZATION OF ABRAHAM'S DAY

Iraq Ruins Tell of Life of 6,000 B. C.

(By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune)

LONDON, Nov. 1—Archaeologists have unearthed in Iraq, 400 miles north of Ur, the site of the civilization of Abraham. The findings place the beginning of civilized mankind at between 5,000 and 6,000 B. C., or 2,000 years earlier than previous evidence had shown. Dr. Naji Al Asil, director general of antiquities for the Iraq government, made the announcement here today. He is leader of the Iraqui delegation to the united nations education conference.

Arrow indicates site of ancient ruins.

"We are able to verify antiquity by the strata of earth and ashes, by the shape, appearance, and types of pottery, and other relics unearthed," he said. "This newest discovery has put back the horizon of human civilization from 4,000 B. C. to 6,000."

Farmers and Craftsmen

The newest finds have been made at Hasuna, where, Dr. Al Asil said, man for the first time 8,000 years ago began to cultivate the land, herd cattle, and build brick houses and potteries.

"We know that these first citizens were a peaceful community of farmers, and craftsmen. One of our most prized finds has been a sickle in a wonderful state of preservation."

The sickle, Dr. Al Asil said, has a scythe of flint and is of "perfectly carved and matched pieces of flint glued together with bitumen [mineral pitch]." He said the cutting edge was still sharp and as capable of cutting corn as it was 3,000 years ago.

Homes Described

Sufficient bricks of the Hasuna settlement have been recovered, together with foundations of buildings, to give a remarkable insight into the homes of 8,000 years ago. The houses were composed of two and three rooms according to the size and importance of the family. Each had its courtyard.

The average room was about six to seven feet square and about eight feet high. The bricks were hand made of mud and of even size and texture. They were about half as long again as those in modern use.

In the ancient city human graves have been unearthed. The skeletons were in individual graves.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Nov. 2—The Germ of American Freedom

ON Nov. 2, 1734, copies of the New York Weekly Journal, which had been extremely critical of Gov. William Cosby, were ordered seized and destroyed by authority of the governor and council.

The subsequent trial of the Journal's editor, John Peter Zenger, began badly when the two judges, at least one of whom was a Cosby appointee, refused the offer of Zenger's counsel, Andrew Hamilton, to prove the truth of the Journal's charges against Cosby. The judges' contention, a justifiable one under English law, was that the truth or falsity of the charges was irrelevant and the fact that they had been printed constituted a violation of law.

Hamilton, in a speech burning with zeal for liberty and justice, then called on the jury to render a verdict in accord with their own sense of fairness and to set aside the law of England.

"What strange doctrine is it to press everything for law here which is so in England?" he asked. "Every man who prefers freedom to a life of slavery will bless and honor you—as men who have baffled the attempt of tyranny—and, by an impartial verdict, have laid a noble foundation for securing to ourselves, our posterity, and our neighbors that to which nature and the honor of our country have given us a right: the liberty of exposing arbitrary power by speaking and writing the truth."

The verdict was acquittal. The crowd in the room cheered. New York conferred on Hamilton, a Philadelphian, the freedom of the city. Men beating drums and blowing trumpets gave him an escort of honor. The trial at which Hamilton had served voluntarily, accepting no fee, later was described by Gouverneur Morris as "the germ of American freedom."

NO APARTMENTS, FAMILY LIVES IN DOWNTOWN TENT

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 1 (AP)—Former Marine Pvt. David Mizrahi, his wife, Sophie, both 23, and their son, 2, "moved" into Pershing Square park today, in the downtown business section, with the announced intention of staying there until they find a place to live.

Setting up a pup tent, with blankets and a toy telephone, Mizrahi, an upholsterer, told reporters that since his discharge last March he and his wife had been hunting for an apartment. He had lived with his mother, meanwhile, and his wife and son stayed with her sister-in-law.

But Mizrahi will have to "move" again. The city park commission office says he is violating an ordinance by living in a public park.

WOMAN DIES ON JOB

Mrs. Phoebe Sinclair, 35, of 1522 E. 84th st., a comptometer operator for the Workman Service, 88 E. Washington st., suffered a heart attack at her work yesterday and was pronounced dead by a physician.

IDENTIFY SLAIN WOMAN AS WIFE OF ARMY CAPTAIN

Pontiac, Mich., Nov. 1 [Special]—The woman whose bullet pierced body was found in the Clinton river near here yesterday was identified today as Mrs. Alberta Rose Young, 35, of Detroit, wife of an army captain believed to be on his way home from England.

The identification was made by coworkers at the Carrier Tool and Die company in Detroit where Mrs. Young had been employed since June. They could offer no clews concerning her slaying. The woman had lived in Port Huron before going to Detroit to work.

Investigators said they saw no apparent connection between Mrs. Young's slaying and the unsolved ax killing of Mrs. Lydia Thompson of Detroit on Oct. 11. They said the methods of death were dissimilar, the bodies were found in different parts of the county, and none of the associates of the two groups appeared to know each other.

ACQUIT PAROLEE ON CHARGE OF RAPE ATTEMPT

Joseph Termini, 27, a parolee, was acquitted yesterday by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Leonard Reid on a charge of attempting to rape a Cicero woman last Aug. 18 at Austin blvd. and Cicero av. Termini denied the charge. Judge Reid reprimanded Termini's sister, Anne, 17, of 2058 Grand av., who was accused of threatening the woman complainant last Wednesday. She denied making any threats. She was held overnight in the Juvenile home.

Kills Children's Dog; Fined $25 by Court

Charles Pergler, 4752 S. Laurel av., Stickney township, was fined $25 yesterday by Justice of the Peace Henry Pendl in the Bedford Park county highway police court on a charge of cruelty to animals. Joseph Proskey, 4737 S. Lockwood av., Stickney township, said Pergler shot and killed his pet cocker spaniel last Tuesday. Proskey complained the dog killed his chickens. Justice Pendl reprimanded Pergler for killing the dog, a pet of the Proskey children.

CONSIDERS PLEA OF DURKIN ON CHARGES BY U. S.

Federal Judge William J. Campbell yesterday took under advisement the plea of Martin Durkin, recently paroled from state prison where he served 18 years for the murder of a government agent, that he be placed on probation for an additional 15 year federal prison term. The federal prison term was imposed upon Durkin after his murder conviction in state courts, for driving stolen cars across state lines in violation of the Dyer act. Durkin contends, thru his attorney, Henry L. Balaban, that he has been sufficiently punished thru serving the long murder prison term.

Why does the Government need eleven billion dollars when the war is over?
Why should you buy bonds when the fighting has stopped?

It Costs Money to Bring Them Back

It costs millions to bring them back. It costs as much as it did to take them out. You helped in seven War Bond campaigns to send them over; help in this one to get them back.

It costs millions to rehabilitate them. Nursing our soldiers, healing their shattered bodies and fitting them for useful work will be one of the costliest, but most necessary jobs of the Federal Government for years to come.

It costs millions to educate them. Money spent this way helps you, as well as them. The better they are trained and the better business men and better employees they become, the more stable and prosperous the nation will be in the future.

It costs money to get jobs for them. The placing of twelve or thirteen million people in jobs in a short time is one of the most complicated tasks any nation ever undertook, and unless it is handled with skill and judgment it can cause endless trouble for everyone.

PEACE COSTS PLENTY, TOO. But this time, when the Government comes to us and asks us to buy EXTRA bonds in the Victory Bond campaign, it can say that this is the last time we will be asked to buy extra bonds.

Buy all the extra bonds you can during the Victory drive . . . and keep up your regular bond purchases.

YANKS ALERTED IN AUGUST STILL AWAITING SHIPS

Tank Outfits' Sailing Orders Canceled

BY JOHN THOMPSON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 1—The case of the 743d tank battalion provides a fitting example of the army's delay in redeploying high point soldiers to the United States. The veteran tank outfit was alerted for homeward movement last August, but is still waiting in the staging area at Marseilles.

The battalion was alerted late in August to move to an assembly area. Two days later it was ordered to transfer all enlisted men with more than 85 points to the 735th tank battalion, 500 yards away. Later all officers with more than 113 points were sent to this battalion. The 743d received 70 to 85 point replacements from an infantry division, and a few days later its high point officers were transferred back from the 735th.

On Sept. 9 one Chicago officer, Lt. John D. Hess, 1209 Astor st., a former assistant producer at W-G-N, reached Camp Baltimore in the Reims assembly area as the advance party. Three days later both tank battalions left for the camp, where the 743d was given a "readiness" date, Sept. 21.

Back and Forth

On the 20th Hess was transferred to camp headquarters because he had too few points. Most officers in the battalion averaged well over 100. The following day, on a technicality, Hess was transferred back to the battalion, whose departure for Marseilles had been delayed until the 24th.

On the 23d the battalion was informed that its departure had been delayed until the 25th, and on the 24th Hess again was transferred to Camp Baltimore headquarters. The next day, with familiar routine, he was transferred back to his battalion, and on the 26th the battalion was informed that its departure was again postponed to the 28th. They were told that the sailing date was set for Oct. 2.

The battalion actually left Reims on the 28th, arriving at the camp staging area at Marseille the evening of Oct. 1. The 735th was still at Reims.

Ship Alert Canceled

On Oct. 13 it received a "warning" order to sail on the Sea Robin on the 17th. But that was a fooler, too.

The next day both ship and battalion alerts were canceled and the battalion was ordered to transfer all enlisted men with more than 80 points to the 66th infantry division. No officers were included.

On Oct. 16th the battalion was instructed to transfer all officers with 115 to its high of 141 points to the 66th division.

Since then all officers with more than 98 points have been transferred to various medical, engineering, and other units, leaving the battalion with 14 officers, including, of course, Lt. Hess. The battalion now has no idea when it will sail, but it hopes it will be sometime in mid-November.

40 DOCTORS, OUT OF WAR, TAKE REVIEW COURSE

Forty physicians and surgeons, who recently completed service in the army and navy, began a three months' review course in general medicine yesterday in the University of Illinois college of medicine. The course will give special emphasis to the improvements in diagnosis and treatment discovered during the last few years, and will review information in all the specialties. A second course of the same kind will be offered for 40 more veterans beginning Feb. 1. The university also is offering refresher courses for specialists, emphasizing clinical and laboratory instructions.

CUT DISCHARGE SCORE TO 60 FOR ENLISTED MEN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP)—The army's discharge score for enlisted men was lowered today from 70 to 60, making approximately 900,000 additional soldiers eligible for release. Announcement that the reduction would be effective today previously had been made by Gen. Marshall, army chief of staff.

The discharge score for enlisted WACS also was dropped from 36 to 34, but scores for officers and nurses were left unchanged.

The air forces meanwhile announced that enlisted men who have 50 or more points and two years of service will be discharged providing they are classed as surplus and are in the United States. Enlisted AAF men now overseas who have 50 points will be eligible for discharge on their return to the United States, providing they are surplus.

Surplus enlisted WACS in the air forces will be released if they have at least 29 points and a year of service.

WAR CASUALTY TOLL DECLINES 409 IN A WEEK

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP)—The nation's war casualty toll dropped 409 today below last week's figures to a total of 1,068,794, chiefly because of the return of missing men.

The army reported 922,655 casualties and the navy 146,139.

Army casualties include: Killed, 217,569; wounded, 571,442; missing, 18,311, and prisoners, 115,333. The navy casualties: Killed, 56,261; wounded, 80,260; missing, 8,908; prisoners, 710.

GI WIFE ACCUSED OF KILLING BABY BORN IN SECRET

Pinckneyville, Ill., Nov. 1 [Special]—A young mother was held in the county jail today accused of strangling her new born baby with a cord fashioned from the hem of her dress in the hope of keeping her soldier husband from learning of its birth during his two year absence overseas.

"I feared if it had lived my first child would have been taken away from me," Mrs. Yvonne Dunson, 17, of Du Quoin, was quoted by State's Atty. H. O. Farmer as having confessed.

The young woman has a 19 month old child. She had been married and divorced, authorities said, before she married her present husband about 2½ years ago.

The birth of her baby and its death was discovered last Thursday when the mother summoned Dr. H. I. Stevens to attend her at her Du Quoin home.

GI Won't Disillusion Women, So Keeps Mum

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 1 (AP)—A lanky soldier from Denver, newly drafted and on his way to his next assignment, overheard two elderly women in a railroad coach talking about him. One approached him and said: "You poor boy, how you must have suffered in that prison camp to be so emaciated. Won't you tell us something about it?" The soldier told friends later: "I hated to disillusion them, so I bowed my head and said, 'I'd rather not talk about it.'"

WPB to Continue Ban on Two-Trouser Suits

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP)—Vests for men's double-breasted suits and extra trousers for suits will be banned from manufacture for some time, the war production board said today.

PAMELA BRITTON OF MOVIES HERE FOR SHORT VISIT

Pamela Britton

Pamela Britton, who is remembered by Chicagoans as Ado Annie Carnes in the Chicago cast of "Oklahoma!" returned here yesterday accompanied by her husband, Capt. Arthur Steele, who was overseas with the air transport command, for a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rogers of 900 N. Michigan av. Miss Britton is in pictures with Metro Goldwyn Mayer and has been on a personal appearance tour in New York and Washington, D. C. She will return to Hollywood. She came to town wearing a fur coat and carrying a mink stole, which she donned in the Grand Central station, explaining that she was unable to keep up with the weather. Just in case of rain, and it did sprinkle a little, she carried an umbrella.

LUGGAGE WORTH $5,209 STOLEN

FICTITIOUS NEUTRALITY

[This is the third of a series of editorials discussing the attack on Pearl Harbor and responsibility for that disaster.]

On Dec. 8, 1941, the day after the Pearl Harbor attack, President Roosevelt appeared before congress and called for a declaration of war against Japan. He called the assault "unprovoked." Three days later, after Germany and Italy had declared war against the United States, he termed the menace from those quarters "long known and long expected." Wars do not, however, originate out of caprice. What had brought this one down upon the United States?

As rumors began to leak out that Pearl Harbor was a disaster White House strategy sought to divorce the events of Dec. 7 from the diplomatic and executive actions which had gone before. But the record is incontrovertible that an overt action leading to war had long been invited—whether in the Atlantic or the Pacific, from the Germans or the Japs, it did not much matter to Mr. Roosevelt. American neutrality had been a fiction.

The Roosevelt foreign policy as defined for public consumption bore little relation to the Roosevelt diplomacy. Mr. Roosevelt might promise peace, as he repeatedly did, but his acts assured war. Solid public sentiment for peace was recognized when congress voted the first of a series of neutrality enactments Aug. 31, 1935, embargoing the export of American arms to belligerents. Mr. Roosevelt himself was then talking peace. In his Chautauqua speech of Aug. 14, 1936, he said: "I have seen war . . . I hate war."

On Oct. 5, 1937, however, the President talked to different effect. In his Chicago Outer Drive bridge speech he denounced aggressors and demanded their "quarantine." The neutrality act had already been amended to permit belligerents to obtain American arms on a "cash and carry" basis. In June, 1939, the British king and queen were entertained at the White House and at Hyde Park. The visit was intended to proclaim our solidarity with Britain in the war Britain saw coming. When war did come, Mr. Roosevelt, on Sept. 3, 1939, departed from the precepts of Woodrow Wilson. He said that he did not ask Americans to remain neutral in thought.

In June, 1940, Mr. Roosevelt achieved the double purpose of furthering his war policy and torpedoing the Republican national convention by appointing Henry L. Stimson secretary of war and Frank Knox secretary of the navy. These renegade Republicans had distinguished themselves in clamoring for war. Their reward from Mr. Roosevelt also served the President's third term aspirations. He could point to his kept Republicans as evidence that his war policy commanded "national unity."

On Aug. 27, 1940, Mr. Roosevelt took a further plunge forward, mustering the national guard into federal service. On Sept. 2 he turned over 50 destroyers to Britain in return for leaseholds in Newfoundland, British Guiana, and British islands in the western hemisphere, where American bases were to be established. The President informed newspaper men that congress was being told of the transfer "as a matter of information." Two weeks later the administration pushed the first peace time conscription bill in history thru congress.

While these ominous events were occurring Mr. Roosevelt offered soothing sirup to the public. In a third term speech at Boston, Oct. 30, 1940, he pledged parents "again and again and again" that their sons would not be sent into foreign wars. Upon reelection, however, he vigorously resumed his program to bolster the faltering British. The policy was euphoniously described as "all aid short of war." When Lord Halifax arrived in Chesapeake bay aboard a new British battleship to take over his post as ambassador in January, 1941, Mr. Roosevelt broke all precedent by hastening to the dock and being ferried out to the warship to clasp Halifax's hand. Three years later, when Britain had been saved, Halifax was made an earl in recognition of his and Mr. Roosevelt's services to the empire.

On March 11, 1941, America became, to all practical purposes, a belligerent with the passage of the lend-lease act. Mr. Roosevelt remarked with satisfaction that this device to supply Britain with munitions free of charge eliminated "the silly-fool dollar sign." The sign now exists in front of a national debt approaching 300 billion dollars, 42 billion of which is charged up to lend-lease. As early as this same month of March, 1941, American warships were being used to convoy supplies to Britain despite Secretary Knox's assertion that "convoys mean shooting and shooting means war."

On April 9 we transferred 10 coast guard cutters to the British for convoy duty in the Atlantic and on the same day assumed a protectorate over Greenland. About this time thousands of American construction workers were sent to Londonderry in Northern Ireland to build a huge American naval base. On July 7 the British garrison in Iceland was replaced by American troops, and on July 26 Mr. Roosevelt darted a look into the Pacific, creating the United States army forces in the far east and incorporating Filipino troops into the American army under command of Gen. MacArthur.

After the meeting of Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill aboard the British battleship Prince of Wales off Newfoundland bight in August there was no longer the slightest doubt that Mr. Roosevelt was wholly committed to war. At this conference, on Aug. 14, the war aims of belligerent Britain and supposedly neutral America were enunciated in the pious declaration known as the Atlantic Charter. After it had served its purpose Mr. Roosevelt three years later would characterize the charter as merely a flock of memoranda which he and the British prime minister hadn't even troubled to sign.

With 700,000 conscripted men already in army camps, the administration, on Aug. 14, hammered thru an extension of the selective service act and eliminated the previous limitation on a maximum of 900,000 draftees. Exactly one month later the coast guard cutter Northland shot up a German weather station in Greenland, killed some German scientists, and sank a German trawler. This was three months before any declaration of war, so the story was conveniently suppressed for a whole year.

On Sept. 11, three days before this incident, Mr. Roosevelt had taken to the radio and in tones of outrage announced that the destroyer Greer had been torpedoed by a U-boat "while carrying mail to Iceland." He issued his "shoot on sight" order to the navy in this speech. On Nov. 17 the arming of all American merchant ships and their entry into all combat zones were authorized. Three days later Mr. Roosevelt announced that Dutch Guiana, source of the bauxite for 60 per cent of America's aluminum, had been occupied by American troops. Two days after that Secretary of State Hull handed his ultimatum to the Japs.

It should be clear from this record that all official attention was focused upon the war in Europe; that Mr. Roosevelt was committed to Britain long before any formal admission that America was at war; that American neutrality was a fiction; and that the President, in simultaneously provoking Japan, the partner of Germany and Italy in the axis, was carrying water on both shoulders in the confident expectation that at least one bucket would be spilled and that the United States would then be at war with three major powers—all militarily formidable. Pearl Harbor could have come to him as no surprise.

AN ALTERNATIVE TO THE DRAFT

Before asking congress to authorize peace time conscription, Mr. Truman should have asked the other nations to abandon the institution. If they had consented, there would be little reason for the draft here. If they had refused, Mr. Truman's case for conscription would have been strengthened greatly.

Agreements to restrict armaments are hard to enforce because it is relatively easy to conceal equipment and difficult to set up a regime of factory inspection that will be at once effective and acceptable. Machine guns can be built in typewriter factories and stored in boxes bearing innocent labels. The Japanese are supposed to have violated the naval treaty restricting the size and number of ships in their fleet and there is no doubt at all that the Japanese mandated islands were fortified in defiance of the terms of the mandate. The Japanese were able to get away with all this by the simple device of forbidding any foreigner to see what was going on. Similarly, there is little doubt that the Germans got away with a good deal of preliminary rearming in secret.

Conscription, however, cannot be concealed because, like a public school system, it must operate in the open. No elaborate apparatus of inspection is required to establish its existence. If a nation decides to draft men for military training, the other nations will know about it within a few hours of the issuance of the first call for conscripts.

The chances for a world-wide agreement to do away with conscription are not too bright, but in some respects they are brighter than they were before the war. Opposition in Germany, Japan, and Italy no longer has to be considered. France, another country accustomed to conscription, has as yet made little progress in rebuilding the system and the confidence of the French in the value of the draft must have been shaken by the miserable showing of the French armies in 1940. The British came to conscription only as war approached and, no doubt, could readily be persuaded to give it up.

That leaves Russia and her satellites. It would be interesting to hear the Russian answer to a request for universal abandonment of the draft in time of peace.

IT'S ALWAYS THE SAME

THE TRIBUNE's chronicle of important anniversaries in American history relates that when news of the launching of the first steam warship, Robert Fulton's Demologos, reached Great Britain in 1814, that nation, with which we were at war, received the tidings with horror. "They said," reports our historian, "that such a weapon was barbarous and that they would give no quarter to the crew using it."

That has been the record of every important innovation in warfare from artillery to the atomic bomb. The side against which the weapon was used denounced it as a barbarous infringement of the rules. Chevalier Bayard, the first soldier of France, gave orders to hang the rude mechanics who were so unsporting as to shoot cannon at his armored knights. The tremendous power of the atomic bomb has evoked widespread protest that it must not be used in warfare.

The British in 1814 were shocked that impious men should invoke the satanic power of steam, thereby evading the will of the Deity, who sent his winds to aid the side he favored. The cavemen, no doubt, considered that the inventor of the bow and arrow was a barbarous innovator who, if he had been a sportsman, would have stood up and settled matters with a good old-fashioned club. All these new weapons were and are barbarous, in the sense that they were just as barbarous as the weapons which they replaced.

Actually, it is ridiculous to attribute barbarism to any inanimate object, no matter how terrible the effect of its use. The barbarism lies in the hearts of men who wage war. People who are talking about legislating the atomic bomb out of existence ought to concern themselves with legislating barbarism and the will to war out of the hearts of men. They have just as much chance of accomplishing the latter as they have the former.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. Which one of these words suggests the greatest degree of the personal element [subjectivity]?
   Diagnosis Verdict Opinion Decision
2. An assayer would probably be a graduate of which type of college?
   Agricultural Dental Mining Musical
3. Which one of these ailments is not contagious?
   Diphtheria Cancer Syphilis Smallpox
4. Which one of these terms is most suggestive of lumber
   Aged Cured Matured Seasoned
5. Which one of these phrases is inappropriate in this general grouping? Double action Lever action Bolt action Pump action
6. Here is another vocabulary problem in which you are to match the words in the left hand column below with the things to which they most appropriately refer, as listed in the right hand column. You are entitled to one point for each correct matching.

[a] Recover	[v] Swampy land
[b] Retrieve	[w] Public official
[c] Recant	[x] Dead quail
[d] Recall	[y] Former opinions
[e] Reclaim	[z] Fumbled football

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points].

THIS WAS THE PLACE

The scene of the atomic bomb experiment in New Mexico, which was soon followed by the devastation of two Japanese cities, seems from the vague testimony thus far printed to have been within long range eyeshot of the grave of a writer who had described that country at length in his fiction. So if you want to know what the landscape looked like before the green glass of atomic transmutation grew all around, read the works of Eugene Manlove Rhodes.

* * *

Between his literary debut in 1906 and his death in 1935, Rhodes contributed 55 stories of New Mexico environment to the Saturday Evening Post, most of them picturing the desert and mountain scenery now familiar to certain atomic scientists. Eight collections of these tales have been published in book form. In the great mass of American fiction about western gunpackers and horse straddlers, his work is notable for style.

* * *

He was buried on the summit of the San Andres mountains, in a glen by the side of a road that leads eastward thru Rhodes canyon to Tularosa. Pine trees and scrub oaks give the grave a shady setting, and from that point there are views in all directions over great expanses which, to quote his own writing, are "filled with the mystery and magic of distance, the mountains, and the long leagues of the sun."

* * *

In 1941 the grave was marked with a monument by the artists and writers of Santa Fe in coöperation with the New Mexico College of Agriculture. Its inscription carries the epitaph that Rhodes had chosen for himself; it is also the title of his best short story: "Paso por Aqui."

* * *

Among the meanings of the Spanish verb, "pasar" is "to change for better or worse." Rhodes' epitaph puts that question to the atomic era—"for better or worse, which?" All over the world there is dubious shaking of heads about the answer.

"I WAS THIRSTY"

A pint of water their daily dole
To keep together body and soul,
When heat waves blistered and body craved
To dip into streams and be cleansed and laved.
"Son, what did you do?" her soft voice pled.
"Mom, I was thirsty," was all he said.
Ye fountains and springs from the rocks that burst,
Can ye ever allay that cry, "I thirst"?
Not from this well can I drink my fill
Thinking of men who dared no drop to spill
Of the precious fluid doled out by the day,
But I'll pour an oblation and kneel and pray.
Their cry forever the wild winds will toss
With His Who languished upon the cross.

Long, Long Trail to Fort Sheridan

Orders came in midsummer that he'd be flown home in a few days for discharge thru Fort Sheridan. A month later he wrote that he'd sail from Le Havre in a week, and end up at Fort Sheridan. In a fortnight or so he told us the ferry to England was waiting; he'd be in New York in four and one-half days, and at Fort Sheridan soon. The next ship from Le Havre was quarantined, and then a boiler burst, so he didn't think he'd be in Fort Sheridan for a while.

Then a V-note said they were sailing for Boston in the morning. He phoned as soon as they docked in New York harbor that he'd be in Fort Sheridan in 24 hours. The next day a wire from Camp Shanks said he'd leave for Fort Sheridan for dismissal in an hour.

He's home now, a happy civilian, his honorable discharge signed and sealed by the separation center in Camp Grant.

He still would like to see Fort Sheridan some day.

SILVER SPOON LADY

She was born, they said, with a silver spoon,
But nobody dreamed it could tarnish so soon.
Her days were joyous, her heart was light,
And she had no training to face the night.
So when night fell, as it always will,
She sighed, and she sobbed, and rebelled, until
Even the friends she would chance to meet
Would cross to the other side of the street.
She might have been somebody really fine
If she'd only been taught that the sun doesn't shine
From east, and west, and north, and south—
Or she hadn't been born with a spoon in her mouth!

When a luckless contributor who barely "made" the new Linebook, and then only with a brief selection in which he takes no pride, writes to say that the Linebook of 1945 is a triumphant achievement [in spite of Hig], that, sir, is praise, indeed.

And when this same contributor adds that his own design for the cover, submitted with trembling hope, was rejected and supplanted by the work of another, and that he warmly commends that artist for having produced a fine design so completely appropriate in its theme as to allow no criticism, that, too, is praise—without alloy.

T. Y. writes: "My son joined the merchant marine two months ago at the age of 18. He has completed his training and is ready for sea duty. Now that the subject of compulsory military training is before congress, I wonder how he would be affected if such a law were passed? Will the training he is receiving in the merchant marine serve as his one year of military training? I have been told that when drafting for military service is ended, men in the merchant marine may come home at any time. Is that true?"

The merchant marine is not a part of the military service of the United States. Persons who enter the maritime service may, after a short period of training, be assigned either to government owned ships or privately owned vessels. Because of the war time need for a huge fleet of cargo ships and troop transports, seamen became highly essential, and those who entered the maritime service were deferred under selective service regulations the same as workers in essential war industries. Those who left the maritime service became eligible for immediate induction. Members of the maritime service are essentially civilians and are not entitled to any veterans' benefits, except reëmployment. Therefore, it is not conceivable how any time spent in the civilian occupation of seaman could be counted in lieu of military service. If your son should now quit the merchant marine he would be subject to the draft as a replacement in one of the armies of occupation.

HORMONES AND THE MALE CLIMACTERIC

ALL of us, if we live long enough, reach a turning point where there is a gradual decline in the activity of body functions, including the reproductive power. For many years this period in women has been known as the "menopause," but since the discovery that men may encounter a similar phenomenon, the term "climacteric" has become more popular.

The female change may come and go without creating any commotion. Whether discomfort will develop depends upon the reaction brought about by the elimination of these hormones from the entire endocrine system. Sometimes discomposure is exhibited only under conditions of stress and strain.

In men the pattern is not too clear and, altho most physicians agree that such a state may exist, they are not too sure of its manifestations. There is slight doubt that distress appears less frequently than in the opposite sex. In fact, some medics consider the syndrome a rare occurrence. Altho it can be expected several years after the onset in the opposite sex, it may take place in the third decade. Conversely, there are records of men who have become fathers at the age of 90.

That symptoms can follow is evidenced by the fact that men who present gonadal hypofunction, thru accident or operation, complain of the same type of discomfort that characterizes the change in women. Should a male in late middle life suffer in like manner, the climacteric may well be responsible.

Perhaps the most suggestive sign is increasing nervousness and irritability. The radio, or the noise made by neighbors—which had never bothered them before—may cause undue excitement or inward tremulousness. They become hard to please or argumentative. Some are restless and cannot sleep. Interest in hobbies is lost and there is a tendency toward worry, lack of self-confidence, or depression. A few develop such severe melancholia that institutional care is essential.

Work may be difficult because of fatigue. Diminished vigor is not unusual. Palpitation, chills, numbness and tingling, etc., may be observed. Fortunately for men, only one-third notice hot flushes or sudden attacks of perspiration, altho one author goes so far as to state that these symptoms never occur.

All findings must be evaluated carefully. If the patient has always been jittery or apprehensive there is little reason to blame the aging process. If the disturbing signs are of recent origin, however, they are more likely to be significant.

When a glandular deficiency seems feasible, the administration of testosterone is in order. Should a two week trial, with a reliable preparation of sufficient strength, fail to produce improvement, some other disorder is presumably the origin.

Before recommending a glandular extract, the physician examines the prostate. Should enlargement be present, or even infection, the hormone will probably do no harm; nor will it decrease the size. On the other hand, if malignancy is suspected, it is definitely contraindicated. In this case, female hormones may be suggested.

The constitutional effects of testosterone are more important than its stimulating powers. If a deficiency prevails, there is rehabilitation of mental and physical energy. In those who are inadequate for psychic and other reasons, the compound may do more harm than good. Furthermore, in the normal man, the drug is not advised because such an artificial adjunct takes away the job of these specialized tissues, causing them to atrophy because they are not called upon to work.

SHAKY

Mrs. G. writes: My sister, who is nervous and underweight, cannot stand in one place very long without wobbling. Why is this?

REPLY

This manifestation is common in weakness and vasomotor instability.

PAINLESS

Mrs. E. writes: Is the process of collapsing a lung in tuberculosis painful?

REPLY

A local anesthetic is generally used, which numbs the sensation caused by the passage of the needle thru the chest wall.

THE BATTLE FOR LEADERSHIP

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

Far Off and Long Ago

Not so long ago that one could not easily measure the time by the ring it left on a tree, Arthur H. Compton, Nobel prize physicist at the University of Chicago, addressed the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He was retiring as president. He was giving a preview of science and the future. He began by telling the legend of Daedalus, the Greek hero who first learned how to work with steel. Daedalus toiled with anvil and forge to make a sword. He then gave it to King Minas to replace his old one of bronze. But the citizens of Crete cried: "This sword will not bring us happiness. It will bring us strife." And Daedalus replied, the apple of Eden in his mouth: "It is not my purpose to make you happy; I will make you great."

Dr. Compton described science as the sword of Daedalus. "But we are asked," he said, "cannot some new weapon be developed secretly on a small scale which will nevertheless be so powerful that those who hold it will have the world at their mercy?"

Dr. Compton pooh-poohed this. He said the trends of modern science give considerable assurance. Major developments more and more are the result of coöperative efforts. An idea may emerge in the mind of a single inventor, but it passes many hands before ready for use.

"It is rare indeed," he concluded, "that a completed new industrial development catches the world by surprise. If this is true in itself, it is yet not likely that the balance of the world's military power will be upset by an idea kept secret from a vigilant enemy. To be of conclusive military significance, not only must the idea be perfected; the new weapon must also be adapted to industrial production and be manufactured on a large scale. But such a development is difficult to hide."

We ran across this a few days after the atomic bombs fell on Japan. Dr. Compton made the address on Jan. 1, 1944. He lied like a patriot, for he had then been working on the atomic bomb two years.

War Is Over

Phil Lesly, a publisher around town, moved into a furnished apartment recently to find that the landlady personally had scrubbed and lacquered the kitchen floor, had the piano tuned, and the vacuum cleaner repaired, and had called in the radio service man. Then she telephoned to apologize for being two days late in fixing the venetian blinds.

The Army Occupies

[Excerpts from a soldier's letter:]

We were glad to get off the transport and on land again. From the ship Manila at night appeared enchanting, a necklace of lights around the dark water.

We were taken ashore to the improvised docks in Manila bay. The coast guard steered these invasion boats skilfully, for the harbor was filled with ghost ships, their prows lifted skywards and the smokestacks barely above the water. Their hulls were battered, holes indicating the bombardment these fighting ships had undergone. It is unbelievable that these rusty, smashed wrecks once plowed the Pacific in trim and beautiful condition. Here was the city of the dead ships, and it was a sight we will remember long.

Our invasion craft held 50 men and equipment. We were all eager to see, at last, Manila, the pearl of the orient. But, alas, the white, peach, and pink buildings, the great Spanish mansions, were shells with only the frame or facade remaining. Even the palm trees were shredded or torn to dust. The pearl has lost its luster.

We rushed along a road to where our camp had been set up in the mud, a blue clay which is peculiarly adhesive. Fighting mosquitoes, we assembled our folding cots by candlelight. One boy dropped his flashlight, and found it a week later in the mud.

The mess hall had just opened, a spacious affair of tin sheets and a cement floor. We had fried chicken, potatoes sprinkled with gravy, and fruit salad. We also had homemade bread.

Later we saw two USO shows.

NAMING THE WARS

Chicago, Oct. 29—I would like to be the first to name this last war. However, it is a cinch I am too late. There is only one name for it—viz: Roosevelt's war. Of course this will be cut down to "The F. D. R. war," by the copyreaders.

THE SEMASIOLOGIST

Note to editor: To save you time running to the dictionary. A semasiologist is one who, having served his time as a copyreader, knows how to develop words and phrases that will convey meaning to many of the rapidly expanding phases of the language. The best example in recent years is "gobaloney." No, not semantics. That is the use of words and phrases already coined or used. As a matter of fact those who develop slang words that ultimately become part of the language are semasiologists unconsciously. Hugh E. Keough, the founder of the Wake of the News, was one of the greatest of these.

THE FLEET BROUGHT PASSENGERS

Chicago, Oct. 12—I should like to answer the letter from Mrs. R. S. Browne about Navy day. She has been seriously misinformed if she believes that all our ships are returning stateside with no passengers other than their crews.

My son is a member of the crew on the Wasp, which has returned for Navy day. Their hangar deck was converted into a vast dormitory and brought back 1,500 passengers.

I also know boys on the Lexington and Saratoga, and know that these carriers, too, came back loaded to capacity.

SAYS STRIKE WAS UNJUSTIFIED

Chicago, Oct. 27—Your editorial of today, "A Lesson to the Public," is more than justified. In reference to Wednesday's two hour delay on the L, our executive board members alone originated this idea. I agree that the membership was somewhat to blame, but more so the originators.

Our contract terms, I'm sure, did not provide no one else was to be paid first. So there was no justification for loss of pay and the two hour delay.

MOTORMAN

COULD HAVE AVOIDED IT

Chicago, Oct. 28—In yesterday's Voice of the People "Another GI" complained about the army orientation plan. During the last election campaign Mrs. Anna Rosenberg made it very clear that she and her fellow New Dealers favored such a program. If the service men and their families had voted overwhelmingly against the party advocating such nonsense, we would be free from this and many other forms of regimentation.

ROBERT MCCARTHY

HE WANTS SOME MORE DIGNITY

Chicago, Oct. 27—Now that the dignity of the Rapid Transit employes' union has been preserved, I am wondering if it would be in order for a humble fare paying passenger to make a few suggestions with a view to "preserving dignity" in another form:

[1] Have regular uniform inspections of trainmen and force some of these old timers to discard the dirty, ragged uniforms which they wear.

[2] Take steps to correct the discourtesy, laziness, and all round inefficiency of the aforementioned old timers.

[3] Issue an order requiring trainmen to stay on the trains at the terminals, instead of sneaking away for coffee and leaving the doors open for people to freeze in winter, while waiting for train to start.

[4] See that the employe in the tower at Jackson Park station gets some rest in his off hours, thus dispensing with the necessity of his taking catnaps in the afternoon, as a result of which the finger in the "next train" sign points the wrong way, causing passengers to board the wrong train, while the next train leaves the station, empty.

These transportation employes are well paid. Is there then any reason why the public shouldn't demand better service from them?

On Thursday each student brought 100 pounds of paper, bought a football ticket for 35 cents, and was excused from classes till Monday a. m. This is the third time in 1945 this has been done. Why should taxpayers' money be used for this?

TODAY MARKS 25 YEARS OF RADIO BROADCASTING

Election Return Program Considered First

BY LARRY WOLTERS

Twenty-five years ago today station KDKA, Pittsburgh, broadcast the Harding-Cox election returns and ushered in the era of radio broadcasting. Other stations—WHA of Madison, Wis., and WWJ, Detroit—were on the air earlier with programs of entertainment and information but Nov. 2, 1920, is widely regarded as radio's "opening night" because of the impetus KDKA gave to broadcasting thru its enterprise. Within a year a number of radio stations thruout the country were featuring regular programs.

Leo H. Rosenberg, now a Chicagoan, was the announcer on KDKA's memorable broadcast. Mr. Rosenberg is now vice president and general manager of Foote, Cone and Belding advertising agency. Yesterday he recalled highlights of the pioneer broadcast.

First Broadcast Music

"As a result of playing phonograph records on the air by Frank Conrad, an engineer of the Westinghouse company," said Mr. Rosenberg, "H. P. Davis, an executive of the company, decided to start regular programs. A special license was obtained from the government for station KDKA and the Harding-Cox election was selected for the starting point of broadcasting."

Executives of the company called in several young employes for voice tests. They thought Rosenberg's sounded the best and he was selected to be the announcer.

"The studio, if you could call it that, was a shack on top of a factory building in East Pittsburgh," said Rosenberg. "On the big night the elevators broke down and we had to climb nine flights before we could go on the air.

"Jack Frazier, head of the telephone department, took down the returns over a private wire from the Pittsburgh Post. Frank McClellan tabulated the returns and handed them to me for announcing."

Used Telephone for Microphone

Rosenberg held an ordinary telephone transmitter, wrapped in cotton to prevent vibration and inclosed in a pasteboard box so that it could be held up to his mouth.

A little less than a year later Rosenberg was assigned to come to Chicago to open KYW, Chicago's first station. He recalled the station first went on the air on Armistice night, 1921, with a broadcast of the Chicago Civic Opera starring Mary Garden.

Keep Staggered Hours, Official of ODT Urges

Guy A. Richardson, national highway transport director of the office of defense transportation, recommended in a Chicago speech yesterday that cities continue staggered hours for workers if they are to get the most out of local transit services. He said that during the war vehicles were used so efficiently that each carried 50 per cent more passengers than in 1941. Richardson spoke before the American Transit association in the Stevens hotel.

EX-DRUMMER, 77, ARMS SELF AND DEFIES EVICTION

Berlin, N. J., Nov. 1 [Special]—Armed with a revolver, Frank U. Graham, 77, today barricaded himself in the home he has occupied for 25 years and defied any one to evict him in spite of the fact that the place was sold by authorities because he failed to pay his taxes.

Frank U. Graham

The tax receiver said Graham had made no payments on his taxes of $60 a year since 1933. The house was sold two weeks ago at a tax sale to Thomas Sacco of West Berlin. When Sacco sent workmen to repair the roof, Graham refused to admit them. After he received an official eviction notice today he said he would oppose efforts to oust him.

Graham, a retired orchestra drummer, said he bought the property with his life savings in 1920. He said he had to go on relief after the depression and, following the death of his wife last August, his relief payments were cut in half. Local authorities have not decided what to do about his defiance.

Radar for Individuals' Use Lacking, Maker Says

Radar in peace time will be used extensively in commerce, principally in aviation and at sea, but thus far no means of adapting it to the use of private individuals has been found, Alfred S. Wells, chairman of the Wells-Gardner Radio company, told the Central Lions club at a luncheon meeting in Hotel Sherman yesterday. Wells' company produced radar devices during the war.

GREEN SEEKING EQUIPMENT FOR STATE AIRPORTS

Gov. Green flew to Washington yesterday to see what can be salvaged from the war's waste to implement his program for a downstate system of airports. The state has 3 million dollars earmarked to aid communities in developing feeder depots to hook up with major air lines' stops.

He will confer with W. Stuart Symington, surplus property administrator, to find out what army and navy material is available and upon what terms.

"I'm going to dig into this with particular reference to airports," Gov. Green said. "I have an idea that there is a great deal of lighting and radio equipment that will be available. Hangars are another possibility, as shown by the use of an army hangar at the new University of Illinois airport."

Partly for this reason he will entertain the Illinois congressional delegation today.

His meeting with the 14 Republican congressmen might be considered partly for political fence building. Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett, who is mapping a drive for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in 1948, visited with the G. O. P. delegation in Washington last week.

BONNALIE HEADS U. I.'S INSTITUTE OF AERONAUTICS

Appointment of Allan F. Bonnalie, assistant executive vice president in charge of flight operations for the United Air Lines in Chicago and former commander in the navy, as director of the new institute of aeronautics at the University of Illinois, was announced last night by President Arthur Cutts Willard of the university.

Bonnalie, who began flying in 1911, served as an army officer in World War I. and also with the British royal air force. From 1919 to 1938 he was director of technical instruction at the Boeing School of Aeronautics in Oakland, Cal. After joining United Air Lines, Bonnalie was given a leave to enter the navy in 1940. He served five years in the production division of the navy's bureau of aeronautics in Washington, D. C.

Bonnalie, who holds the distinguished service cross and the British distinguished service order, has been a member of the University of Illinois advisory board on aeronautics since it was organized about a year ago.

Which Insurance Policy shall I buy?

You know the new Illinois State Law makes it important that you carry automobile protection.

Motorists are today being offered automobile insurance by more than a score of companies.

With all these policies to choose from, which will you buy?

In the interests of insurance buyers, Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company suggests this 6-point Buying Guide. Before you buy any automobile insurance policy, be certain it meets these qualifications:

1. The company must have a strong financial background.
2. The company must have a long established record of prompt and fair adjustment of claims.
3. The company must have offices to serve its many clients throughout the United States and Canada, and its service must follow your car.
4. The policy provisions must be broad, nontechnical and understandable.
5. Supplemental coverage must be available for injuries and hospital expense of the owner and members of the family.
6. The cost must be reasonable.

John Rice Reilly Jr. Will Take Eastern Girl as His Bride Soon

BY JUDITH CASS

FROM their home in Wakefield, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Learoyd have sent word of the engagement of their daughter, Susan, to John Rice Reilly Jr., son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Reilly of Winnetka. The wedding will take place soon.

Miss Learoyd and Mr. Reilly met on board an airplane flight to Iceland, where she served with the American Red Cross. Mr. Reilly, at that time a captain in the army air forces, was on his way to England on a mission. Until his discharge in August he worked in the experimental laboratory at Wright field.

Miss Learoyd visited her fiance's parents here in September. As Mr. Reilly's business has been moved to Indianapolis, Ind., he and his bride will live there. Another wedding in the Reilly family will take place shortly, as Col. and Mrs. Reilly's daughter, Lt. [j. g.] Hester Reilly of the WAVES, and Lt. [j. g.] Richard A. Wald will be married Saturday of next week in Winnetka.

Birth News

Mark Bisbee McCormick, who arrived Wednesday in Presbyterian hospital, was born a day too late to be a golden wedding anniversary present for his maternal great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Bisbee of Bedford Hills, N. Y., who celebrated 50 years of marriage Tuesday. The baby is the third child of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks McCormick [Hope Baldwin], whose other son and daughter are Brooks Jr. and Martha. They are grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick and of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander T. Baldwin of Bedford Hills.

On Today's Calendar

The town will be buzzing with dinner and supper parties tonight, occasioned by the openings of two popular events, the Shipstads and Johnson Ice Follies in the Chicago arena, from which the Service club will benefit, and the Chicago Horse Show association's second annual exhibition in the Coliseum. The arena's 4,400 seats were sold out three weeks ago by the Service club's energetic ticket committee, which is headed by Mrs. Henry Sincere, and box committee, whose head is Mrs. Frank Bering.

Four former Chicagoans who will be welcomed "home" at a buffet supper Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Sims Jr. will give before the follies are Mr. and Mrs. Scott J. Dow, who are here while moving from Wellesley, Mass., to California, and Lt. and Mrs. Herbert Woodward. The Harry Drakes are giving a dinner beforehand for Mrs. Drake's brother, Capt. James Bremner, who has returned after three years with the army in Africa and Italy.

Described by the hostess as "a little folly after the follies" is the late supper Miss Emily Goehst will give following the arena performance. The Key club will be packed with Service club friends both before and after the show, and others will dine in the Woman's Athletic club.

Other Events Tonight

The directors of the Horse Show association will dine in the Balinese room of the Blackstone before going to the Coliseum. The horse show will continue thru Nov. 11, with performances nightly and matinees on the two week-ends. The returning war veterans fund of the American Legion will receive the proceeds. Tonight has been designated Victory Loan night in the Coliseum.

Tonight's opening fall meeting of the Society for Contemporary American Art at 8:15 o'clock in the Associated American Artists' gallery will have Aaron Bohrod, whose work currently is on display in the gallery, and Mrs. Bohrod as the special guests. Mr. and Mrs. Bohrod will be among the guests at a buffet supper which the junior Byron Harveys will give before the gathering. Others entertaining at dinner include Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Sr., William D. Darrow, Mrs. Pauling Donnelley, and Revilo F. Fuller, president of the society.

Members of the Cliff Dwellers and their guests will hear an informal talk on the theater by Clayton Hamilton, drama critic, author, and lecturer, following dinner tonight.

Other Events Today

Following this afternoon's Chicago Symphony orchestra concert, many concert-goers will walk north in Michigan av. to the Arts club, which is opening its first exhibition of the season, a Wassily Kandinsky memorial exhibition, at tea from 4 to 6 o'clock. The paintings have

An Always Popular Dessert: Chocolate Cake Roll

Few desserts equal a chocolate cake roll in popularity. It's an old standby of hostesses and a family favorite. This one is filled with seven minute frosting, but it's also good with whipped cream or ice cream filling. To prepare cake roll:

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo]

Combine 6 tablespoons sifted cake flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, and ¼ teaspoon salt and sift together 3 times. Beat 4 egg yolks with ½ cup sugar until thick and lemon colored. Fold in sifted dry ingredients gradually. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted. Beat 4 egg whites with ¼ cup sugar until stiff and fold into first mixture. Pour into 15 by 10 inch pan which has been greased, lined with heavy paper, and again greased. Bake in hot oven [400 degrees] for 13 minutes. Quickly cut off crisp edges of cake and turn out on cloth covered with confectioners' sugar. Remove paper. Spread seven minute frosting over cake and roll. Wrap in cloth and cool on rack. Serves six.

Illinois Lacks Teachers for 1,500 Schools

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

The 12,000 independent school districts of Illinois face a post-war teacher shortage of possibly greater acuteness than that of war days. Of the 12,000 districts, 10,000 have one-teacher schools and 1,500 of these are without teachers.

Anticipated teacher shortages stem from serious enrollment reductions in the five state teachers' colleges and normal universities. A survey of the teachers' colleges was made by Noble Puffer, superintendent of Cook county schools. The enrollment at Eastern Teachers' college, Charleston, has shrunk from 1,152 in 1940 to 404 this fall. At Southern Illinois Normal, Carbondale, the shrinkage for the four years was from 2,013 to 766.

At DeKalb the Northern Teachers' college fell off from 1,173 in 1940 to 582 this fall; at Macomb, Western Teachers' is down from 1,074 to 545 at present, and at Normal university, Bloomington, the shrinkage was from 1,820 to 1001. Despite this shrinkage, the $15,322,052 post-war development program for the teachers' colleges adopted by the legislature will go forward as rapidly as men and materials are available. The largest beneficiary of this fund will be the Carbondale institution, which is to receive more than 4½ million dollars.

Herbert B. Mulford of Wilmette, a writer for educational journals, yesterday attributed the difficulties of Illinois public schools partly to what he called the "archaic" system of districts in this state.

Mulford said that teachers of the 10,000 one room schools must rely solely on nonadministrative county superintendents for aid and guidance, whereas the urban districts enjoy the help of trained superintendents.

"Since the number of districts ranges from 50 to 250 in the counties, the lack of specialized local administration in the one teacher schools can be imagined," Mulford said.

"Recent national surveys show Illinois school expenses per classroom per year to range from $300 to $6,000, varying with the wealth of the respective districts. This nullifies all contention that all children and youth of the state receive equal opportunities for schooling.

"The net result is that Illinois contributes 9.6 per cent of its adults to the national pool of 'functional illiterates' revealed by the 1940 census, and only 15 per cent of Illinois adults are graduated from high school."

Preliminary phases of a limited program of reorganization of the Illinois elementary school system are scheduled for completion by Jan. 1. This program was financed by a state appropriation of $90,000.

Babies' White Shoes to Be Plentiful Again Soon, WPB Predicts

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP)—Infants' white shoes, hard to find for months, should be plentiful again soon, the war production board said today.

Prospects are looking up because the ingredient used to whiten leather, titanium, is available once more for civilian products. During the war, said the WPB, virtually the entire supply of titanium was requisitioned by the military forces for use in paints and for other military purposes.

Government shoe and leather officials predicted also that the end of shoe rationing will be a factor in increasing supplies of infants' footwear.

Orchestra Regains Some Lost Ground in Matters of Precision and Purity of Performance

Perhaps the imminence of Bruno Walter's Sunday afternoon concert had something to do with it; perhaps not. I wouldn't know. But last night in Orchestra hall the Chicago Symphony orchestra pulled itself together and recovered some of the ground it has lost in matters of precision and purity of performance. It sounded as if it had been taking the tonic of helpful rehearsal, and sometimes it sounded as if the patient was on the way to recovery.

The most consistently attractive performance of the evening was Delius' bemused "The Walk in the Paradise Garden," from "A Village Romeo and Juliet," which Désiré Defauw conducted carefully from score and which rewarded him with a sustained quality of line and mood in which you never would have suspected that this was the same string section we heard play so sadly out of tune in last week's Mozart. The winds are too far from their old security to recover so swiftly, but at least they had improved. And while Shostakovich's Fifth Symphony was an erratic performance with no dramatic backbone, it had some reassuringly clean performance, notably the crispness of the allegretto and the way the pale strings in the largo framed the lovely song of the clarinet.

Otherwise, the concert was undistinguished. The overture to "The Master of Clamecy," Kabalevsky's opera based on Rolland's "Colas Breugnon," emerged as a nondescript mixture of coarse colors and textures, and Mr. Defauw's way with "Don Juan" was what it always has been, a singularly confused and undramatic version of the most concisely dramatic of Strauss' orchestral scores.

Thanks to the now peaceful printers, the first program books of the season were handed out, and it was pleasant to be back with such old friends as Felix Borowski's scholarly program notes. But the format has changed completely. In fact, you would think you were in Boston, if it weren't for the orchestra.

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Desire Defauw, conductor. Presented in Orchestra hall Thursday evening, Nov. 1, 1945, and scheduled for repetition Friday afternoon. The program: Overture to "The Master of Clamecy" ..... Kabalevsky "The Walk in the Paradise Garden," from "A Village Romeo and Juliet" ..... Delius Tone Poem, "Don Juan" ..... Strauss Symphony No. 5 ..... Shostakovich

Debussy Takes the Count

Among the audience at "Pelléas and Mélisande" the other night were Dunninger, who naturally knew what it was all about, and King Levinsky, who didn't. The Kingfish was inquiring plaintively who invited him to the thing, anyway, when to his pleasure he met an old friend, Mario Berini. He once coached Berini, but not in singing. The tenor was then a Los Angeles high school boy entered in a newsboys' boxing tournament at 126 pounds and proud to spar with the Kingfish, who weighed in at 150. At the reunion the Kingfish interrupted his disparagement of grand opera as opposed to manlier sports long enough to inquire what Berini is doing now. "O," said Berini, "I'm a grand opera tenor." The incredulous Mr. Levinsky may show up at tomorrow's matinee of "La Traviata" to make him prove it.

Play Prospect

Catharine Whitehorn sends word from Pittsburgh that Leland Hayward plans a Chicago company of "State of the Union," the new comedy by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse of "Life with Father" fame. He will call it the "national company," à la "Oklahoma!"

Armed Forces Officers' Club Plans Harvest Hop

Service dancing, the Virginia reel, and other traditional American folk dances will enliven the first annual Harvest Hop of the Armed Forces Officers' club, to be held tomorrow night in the club's ballroom at 130 N. Wells st. Members have invited wives and other guests to the party, which will begin at 6 o'clock with a gala buffet dinner.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Bittersweet

I used to love this time of year, she said,
The purple asters and the zinnia bed,
The gusty winds and swirling leaves of fall,
The soft, thick haze that hovers over all.
And best of all the flaming bittersweet—
I loved the way the boys rushed home to eat
Some cakes or cookies with a healthy hunger—
There's Ted, now grown, and Bob—he was the younger.
They'd grab a bat and ball and leather jacket
[I miss that after-school unholy racket!].
I used to love the blinds drawn close at night
With text books on the desk and lamps to light.

I guess no mother's heart too well endures
A war. And where's your boy? And yours . . . and yours?

Timely Tips

A few suggestions for working wives:

Do try to get the house straightened before you leave in the morning. Unmade beds, used dishes, dirty ashtrays are not pleasant to come home to.

Don't carry your office problem home with you, unless it is something special and specific to be done.

Don't expect your husband to do all the work at home simply because you have an outside job. Nor should he expect you to come home and tackle the whole thing.

Don't complain every night how tired you are.

Talk about the people in the office just enough to make your husband feel he is acquainted with them.

Don't be extravagant with your money just because "it's my own and I work hard for it." Your joint incomes should be used jointly for your mutual benefit.—From "Hold Your Man," by Veronica Dengel.

Goody Two Shoes

Did you hear about the girl at a Michigan av. advertising agency who was in such a daze while dressing one morning last week that she found herself at work with shoes of different pairs on her feet—one plain black pump and the other a black, toeless shoe!

32 Million Pairs of Nylon a Month Is His Estimate

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 1 (AP)—Current production of enough nylon to make 32 million pairs of hose every month was announced today by Walter S. Carpenter Jr., president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. A 300 million dollar expansion has been projected by the company, Carpenter said, and part of it will be to increase nylon output, which already has risen to nearly four times the pre-war level.

Style Mingles with Beauty in New Robes

BY REA SEEGER

Dozens of colors and prints are used in the pre-holiday collections of quilted and padded robes and house coats which are out now. Satin in solid shades, such as rich, deep reds and blues, has been fashioned into classic models, tailored precisely, made with long, loose sleeves, and cut with revers and turnover collars. They tie snugly with a sash belt. Delicately pastel tinted house coats have sprigs of rosebuds and leaves, and these are made in the same way.

These floral models are made of a soft, silky material with dainty background shades of white, tea-rose pink, or egg shell. The rosebuds are in realistic colors of pink and green. Even more feminine models have frills of either eyelet embroidery or lace around the cuffs and collar, and some have frills around the lower edge of the hem. Delightfully soft woolens are used for robes that double for house coat and boudoir robe. These are not padded or quilted, but the fabric assures just as much warmth.

Late arrivals are the very flattering robes and hostess gowns of sheer black velvet. Ivory tinted lace frills and cuffs dramatize the lush beauty of the velvet. Skirts are floor length and simply gathered to a band belt, most of the sleeves are long, and some have detachable belts that can be alternated with more decorative belts, jewel studs, or metallics.

INSTALMENT XLVII.

FRANKNESS APPRECIATED

"Erica came in with me just a minute ago. I think she's in the sun room," Toby Newcomb replied to Mr. Izenga's frantic question.

"How did she get out of her room?"

"I took her out. Stepladder to her window. I wasn't going to leave her in French's trap. He said Ridge would only try to murder Bennet, but I wasn't going to risk it."

"Thank heaven for that. Does Erica know . . . who was caught? Who was guilty?"

"Yes."

"Does she know he is dead?"

"Better not spread that around, Mr. Izenga, because he isn't."

"What!" Mr. Izenga turned a sickly gray.

"No. There's a chance for him . . . one in a thousand if the doctor gets to him in time."

"Dear dear," Mr. Izenga groaned. "What loathsome zeal. Toby, don't go yet. I want to know why Ridge tried to throw the guilt on Bennet."

"I suppose because Ridge saw French wasn't going to accept me as the goat. He had to look around for another. Bennet was the next most likely."

"Toby," Mr. Izenga spoke very low. "Were you in your room the night your ring was taken from it?"

Toby grinned. "You win, Mr. Izenga, I went to bed that night but couldn't sleep. So I got into my clothes and walked over to watch Erica's room. I was in that grove on the north side of the house. But I'm ashamed to admit I didn't hear a thing. When I went to bed again at dawn I thought everything was okay. I told Bill French about it, of course."

"You and French seem to know about each other quite well," Mr. Izenga remarked.

"Do we?" Toby grinned again. "Got to run along. I've been given a job to do."

Mr. Izenga heard voices in the sunroom. Stopping in the door he saw Erica. Huntley was refilling her coffee cup and offering her sandwiches.

"O, it's Mr. Izenga," Erica said. Mr. Izenga's hand shook a little as he took a cup of coffee.

"Let's ask him what to do, Erica," Huntley said.

"No," Erica said, "my mind is made up."

Huntley said impulsively: "She wants to take over the note the bank gave me on her securities."

"He borrowed them," Erica put in.

"Let's be honest," Huntley blurted. "I took . . ."

"No." Erica drowned him out. "I lent you the securities. That's my story and I'm going to be sticky about it. I'll pay the note and take them, and that will be that."

"O, no. It's enough for you to . . . uh . . . overlook my taking them. Fifty thousand I owe on them."

Huntley's voice shook as he forced himself to be honest at last. That sum would exactly cancel his legacy. Mr. Izenga knew Letitia had often used Huntley as a bank messenger. He had been given entrance to the family safe deposit boxes many times.

"All right, now you've said it," Erica told him. "You've got it off your chest. I'm glad you were frank with me, Huntley. But don't say it again please. It's hard enough for Toby to swallow the money I'll have left. He's afraid of a rich wife. So . . . I'll pay the note."

Huntley gave her a worshiping look. Mr. Izenga wondered how he had ever imagined that that weak charm was worthy of Erica.

"Mr. Izenga," Huntley began, "she doesn't realize . . ."

"I'd just drop the whole thing, Huntley, if I were you," Mr. Izenga said wearily. He saw that all of Huntley's supposed financial acumen was a farce. It had fooled him and Letitia.

"Uncle Ridge helped me pay the interest on the note when I lost the money I invested," Huntley said. "He paid the interest three times. It was kind of him. I was sort of surprised." It was clear that Huntley had no suspicion of the truth.

Huntley added, "He was going to wait till Aunt Letty died to have me pay him back. But I can't believe he killed her. Why should he? Why, she's just loaned him some more money."

Erica said softly, "I think I know. It's made me afraid for a long time. Afraid he was guilty. Gran did lend him the money, just half of what he asked for. But she told him it'd be the last cent he ever got. She told him she'd kept track of every penny he'd got out of her and was going to change her will so that he'd have to pay back the loans out of his legacy. I know he had counted on living on the legacy in his old age. So it simply knocked the props out from under him. It was cruel. I told her so."

Mr. Izenga's eyes gleamed. Here it was at last. The real reason Ridge had killed Letty . . . for his own sake.

"Gran talked it over with me the day after she was attacked," Erica went on. "I tried to argue her out of it, but you know how she was. She said something else . . . she hinted that she might leave me Westerly no matter whom I married. I don't know if she told him that. I don't suppose it would matter to him."

She doesn't know about Huntley and Ridge, Mr. Izenga told himself. For it would certainly have mattered quite a lot to Ridge if Huntley was not to be included with the house. It would have strengthened his motive to kill Letty considerably.

Some one tapped on the outside door. Huntley let in the Dukes. Hester tiptoed to a chair and whispered, "Lt. French ordered us to come over. I hope to heaven nobody else has been killed. I can't take any more."

"They've got Uncle Ridge," Huntley said. "They're going to pin it all on him I'm afraid."

"Thank God they got him," Harry said earnestly.

"What do you know about it?" Mr. Izenga asked.

"Well . . . the night Mrs. Pomeroy was killed . . . I met Lucianna over here. We had something to discuss . . ."

"That necklace you 'lent' her," Mr. Izenga had an inspiration.

Harry Duke started. "I did my best to get it back. She promised she only wanted to wear it once, the dirty double-crosser. Anyway, after we'd separated and she was running toward her car down the drive, some one crashed into her coming from the house. I heard only three words, but I was pretty sure who the fellow was."

"What were they?"

Harry smiled grimly. "Blast and blazes."

That could be nobody but Ridge. Mr. Izenga said, "Then Maribeth was lying, too. I suppose the police only pretended to believe her."

Hester took a tongue sandwich. "That woman! She thought she had Ridge in a jam. He simply asked her to say she was with him. They gave her a lie detector test yesterday. She had hysterics."

"Where did you get all this?" Mr. Izenga demanded.

"Toby of course. He's an old pal of Lt. French's." Hester smiled affectionately at Erica. "He's a lamb."

So that's how it was going to be, Mr. Izenga thought morosely. They were all hurrying to coöperate with the inevitable.

Has Your Little Girl As Bright A Future As Nancy?

Right from the start, Nancy's mother has made sure that her daughter was getting plenty of sunshine, and a diet adequate in bone-building minerals. Nancy's legs will be as strong and straight, and her teeth as sound, as sufficient calcium can make them.

Will your child have these assets? Although even sufficient calcium cannot correct bowed legs after a child is three, an adequate supply is important right through life to keep bones sturdy and help the child look his best. That's one of the main reasons why doctors advise that children get plenty of milk...the best food source of calcium.

However, as children grow older, they are often reluctant to drink all the milk they should have.

That's where Cocomalt can prove invaluable. For not only does Cocomalt give milk a delicious chocolaty flavor that children love, but it is so rich in calcium it makes 3 glasses of milk equal to a whole quart in calcium value.* (Also ensures the day's entire minimum requirements for iron, phosphorus, Vitamin B_1 and D.)

Start your children on Cocomalt today. Save this as a reminder to order from your grocer.

Sally Quotes Plea of Youthful Pupil for a Drawing Set

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

James writes: "Dear Miss Brown: Would you please be kind enough to help me get a mechanical drawing set that's in good condition? I have just started high school, like it, and want to make good, but my marks in certain subjects are low because of the lack of mechanical drawing equipment. My father is dead and I cannot afford a purchase of this kind."

Rev. T. explains his need as follows: "Dear Miss Brown: My wife and I are planning to return to mission work in West Africa, where previously we spent several years teaching native children. In order to be able to take along necessary personal apparel and equipment, we will need a strong fiber and steel construction packing trunk, durable and rugged enough to withstand ocean travel. We would greatly appreciate your assistance in locating one thru friends of your column."

Mrs. X., a deserted mother of two children, receiving assistance from a north side social agency until employment is found, is in need of a large size baby bed for her younger child, a 10 months old baby girl, who has been sleeping in a buggy.

Fight to Give Women Vote Rouses Japan

BY HAROLD SMITH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TOKYO, Nov. 1—Discussions reminiscent of those of the early 20th century in America over the extension of voting rights to women and revision of the constitution now are agitating Japan. The "pros" appear more vocal, perhaps because our occupational authorities favor the move, but the die-hard "antis" are getting in their sly licks.

Election law changes, which are awaiting a forthcoming extraordinary session of the diet, include woman suffrage and lowering of the general voting age from 25 to 20 and that of office holders from 30 to 25.

The principal objection to women's voting is that their traditional secondary role has left them politically ignorant. It is said their enfranchisement should be preceded by a reasonable period of civil and social education. This would require a basic revolution in educational practices, as most girls attend special schools and colleges having inferior curricula and deficient in scientific and economic subjects.

Another argument familiar to older Americans is that "woman's place is in the home." This is particularly potent in a land in which the family system is exalted to a point where the emperor exerts parental sway.

The suffragettes and their male supporters reply that politics is best learned by participation, and that the women cannot be expected to take a proper interest in government until they are permitted to share in its shaping. They favor establishment of a co-educational setup, too, but insist that the political equality of the sexes wait for nothing.

They also say that family life will strengthen when, under equal suffrage, women can express their notions of what life should be. One even overhears the old hopeful argument of pre-suffragist America that women's voting will elevate political morals.

The prejudice against equal rights is deep rooted in Nipponese custom. Until quite recently, women were expected to be merely good wives and mothers. Male supremacy has been practiced from early childhood, the sons of school age often tyrannizing their mothers.

Until the war there were virtually no women in public life. But when mobilization created a man power shortage they took up office work, took over their husbands' businesses, performed the lighter tasks in the public utilities, and took men's places at war production machines.

FASHIONS
By Angela

Early Christmas shoppers are getting caught up in a beehive of activity when they wander into departments where intimate apparel is sold. They can find all the exciting and unusual items for which they are searching. Novel and effective gifts are available at prices which will appeal to those who must shop on a limited budget.

Sure to please a youthful gift recipient is the popular night shirt at the upper left. This rayon shirt of luscious tea rose is trimmed with white eyelet embroidery on collar, lapels, front, sleeves, and pocket. A superb tailored version of this same shirt is available in heavy white rayon with narrow navy piping. Both are priced under $3.

Another enchanting gift is the rustling black and white checked taffeta half petticoat at the upper right. A vivid red bow of grosgrain trims the skirt and the same ribbon bands the hemline.

A sophisticated miss will delight in the smooth black rayon crepe half petticoat at the lower left. A spray of pale blue flowers is appliqued on the front, and matching blue scallops trim the hemline. It is available in 26, 28, and 30 inch waist measurements and priced under $3.

Bed jackets always are acceptable gifts, and the new slumber jacket type at the lower right has undeniable appeal. Handmade of fine, soft pink wool, in a lacy pattern, it boasts the long sloping shoulder which is so right. Full bracelet length sleeves are banded with a tight cuff, and the same banding is used at the waistline, where it is tied with a pink satin ribbon in front. A flattering ruffle is held close to the neckline by a pink satin drawstring. It also is available in white and pale blue.

Crocheted Rugs

BY ELLEN BRUCE

Round or oval crocheted rugs make beautiful and acceptable gifts. They also are easy to create and may be worked in little time. These rugs are fashioned of cotton rug yarn and done in an attractive loop stitch.

For instructions crocheting these rugs, No. 1149, send 15 CENTS in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

Thru the Looking Glass

If we'd remember that the throat is part of the face we'd be more apt to give it the special kind of care it needs to keep it youthful and supple looking. It's rather too bad to lavish care on the face, pampering the complexion as far as the chin line, and spoil the effect by a throat which shows signs of neglect.

One excellent throat preparation we like to recommend is a special blend of rich oils ideally suited to the needs of thin, dry throat skin. Light in weight, it's soaked up in a jiffy by thirsty skin and the good effects are almost instantly detectable. The skin takes on a nice softness, and after a period of regular use the weather-beaten look is replaced by a new silkiness.

The oil should be applied at night before retiring and that part which is not immediately absorbed should be left on overnight. Use only a small amount of oil and massage it in well. Get both hands going at the massage, holding the fingers close together, one hand rubbing down, the other following in an upward motion. Get the feeling that you're actually molding the throat contour and do it gently.

You might want to use the oil during the day if the skin is in a sad state, dressing the throat lightly with it and following with your regular foundation or just a dusting with powder.

Muffins, Plain or Fancy, Are Easy to Make

Ration Roundup

SUGAR—Book 4, sugar stamp 38 [5 pounds] expires Dec. 31.

WASTE FATS—Each pound worth 4 red ration points and 4 cents.

Nov. 2, 1945

BY MARY MEADE

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Good muffins are so easy to make even a beginning cook needn't fear a failure. You simply sift the dry ingredients, stir in the egg, milk, and melted shortening, and give a few quick stirs, enough to dampen the mixture. Overbeating the batter causes tunnels and an uneven grain.

To vary plain muffins, add ½ cup chopped fruit, nuts, or cooked bacon to the standard mixture before baking. Or place a teaspoon of tart jelly on top of each muffin before baking. Sometimes different flours are used which alter the recipe somewhat, but the mixing procedure is the same.

Plain Muffins
[One dozen medium]

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted fat

Sift flour, baking powder, sugar, and salt together several times. Beat egg until light and blend it with the milk and shortening. Make a well in center of dry ingredients and pour liquids in at once. Stir about 25 strokes. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake at 400 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes.

Cranberry Muffins
[about 1½ dozen]

1 cup chopped raw cranberries
¾ cup sugar
2 cups sifted flour
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
1 egg
¾ cup sour milk or buttermilk
¼ cup melted shortening

Combine cranberries and sugar. Sift flour, salt, and soda. Add cranberries. Combine beaten egg, sour milk, and melted shortening. Add to flour mixture and stir just enough to blend. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full. Bake at 400 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

Oatmeal Prune Muffins
[one dozen]

1½ cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup cooked oatmeal
2 tablespoons honey
1 egg, well beaten
¾ cup milk
½ cup chopped prunes

Combine and sift dry ingredients. Mix oatmeal with honey, egg, milk, and fat, blending until smooth. Stir all at once into dry ingredients. Add prunes and stir until mixed. Fill greased muffin pans and bake in a moderate oven [325 degrees] for about 25 minutes.

Caramel Cinnamon Muffins
[1½ dozen]

3 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons brown sugar
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 egg
1 cup milk
¼ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons melted shortening

Grease muffin pans and place about ½ teaspoon butter and 1 teaspoon brown sugar in bottom of each. Sift flour, baking powder, salt, and cinnamon together. Beat egg, add milk, shortening, and ¼ cup brown sugar. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Add egg and milk mixture to flour, stirring until flour is dampened. Fill muffin pans ⅔ full and bake in a moderately hot oven [425 degrees] for 20 minutes, or until done.

Follow These Suggestions for Packing a Lunch Box

Here are some suggestions for lunch boxes. Use enough waxed paper to cover sandwiches and fruit completely so that the food doesn't dry out. And use paper cups with lids to keep raw vegetables and salads crisp and moist. To keep lettuce from wilting wash the leaves, dry them well, and wrap them separately in waxed paper. The leaves can be added to the sandwich just before eating.

Molded Pineapple Cheese Salad

2 tablespoons plain gelatin
½ cup cold water
2 cups crushed pineapple
Juice of 1 lemon
1 cup sugar
1 cup grated American cheese
1 cup cream, whipped stiff
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons finely chopped pimiento

Soak gelatin in cold water. Heat pineapple, lemon juice, and sugar. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Dissolve gelatin in hot mixture. Chill until partially set; fold in remaining ingredients. Pour into an oiled mold and chill until firm. Garnish with mayonnaise. Serves eight.

Pumpkin and Squash Require Special Care

Pumpkin and squash are so low in acid that special means must be taken to preserve them. Temperatures higher than the boiling point must be applied, and the only way to do this in the home is with a pressure cooker. Small pint jars rather than quart jars should be used because these vegetables pack so solidly that heat penetration to the center of the jar is too slow.

Baked Apples Can Be Filled with Mincemeat

Have you ever tried baked apples filled with mincemeat? Wash and core apples and hollow out, leaving a shell about one-half inch thick. Chop pulp and combine with mincemeat sweetened with one tablespoon brown sugar for each apple. Fill apples and bake at 350 degrees until soft.

Ask Open Hearings on Pleas for Price Increase in Food

Representatives of nearly 40 civic and consumer organizations yesterday asked Rae E. Walters, regional office of price administration director, to hold open hearings on requests for price increases for bread, milk, and other foods.

Walters and Dean Bowman, regional price executive, said the OPA has no authority to call open hearings, but would protect "consumer interests" in considering any price changes. Walters said a report on the meeting would be forwarded today to Chester Bowles, national OPA director.

The Illinois League of Women Voters urged that representation be given consumers at all OPA hearings on requests for price increases and that no increases be granted before a thoro study is made of existing costs of manufacture and distribution.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt

Mrs. B. E., Chicago—When I wash my varnished woodwork I add two or three tablespoons of good furniture polish to half a gallon of warm water. I wash with a cloth or a sponge and dry with a very soft cloth. This treatment keeps my woodwork shining softly—and pleasantly.

Myrtle H., Des Moines, Ia.—We all take turns tending furnace at our house. To rid a garment of a soot spot, I cover the spot with table salt and then brush it off, repeating process if necessary until the dirt has disappeared.

Miss Sarah H., Chicago—Last winter we formed the habit of drawing the draperies wide and running the blinds up in all the rooms which faced the sun. We caught some of the heat of the winter sun when it was on our windows and helped ourselves to a bit of "solar heat."

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 1—Betty Grable has gone back to her original color of hair—and mighty pretty it is, too—for "The Shocking Miss Pilgrim." . . . Mark Stevens lost 14 pounds and acquired an ulcer while playing leading man in "All Brides Are Beautiful." He's off to Palmdale to get his health back. . . . The Joe E. Louis-Martha Stewart reconciliation will result in marriage—March, 1946. . . . Kevin O'Shea, who's been bounced around 20th Century but got nowhere, gets a part opposite Betty Field in "Dream Girl" in New York. . . . Constance Collier and Ben Hecht are heartbroken. Ben wrote Constance's own character and words into "Specter of the Rose," and now Paramount won't release her. Judith Anderson plays the part. Ben borrowed Miriam Golden from Metro for his second lead.

A Soldier Has His Holiday

Shirley Temple and her husband, Sgt. John Agar, went visiting Rita Hayworth on the "Gilda" set. It was a busman's holiday for Shirley, but her husband's first peek at any picture in the making. Shirley looked at the costumes and set and exclaimed, "O, wouldn't it be a wonderful place to give a Halloween party!" but nobody took the hint. . . . Dorothy McGuire is the envy of many girls. She'll be able to fall into the arms of Guy Madison on the skating rink where they're practicing a sequence for a picture. . . . When Lauritz Melchior's costumes didn't arrive for opening of "Tristan and Isolde," some one suggested he sing in the clothes he was wearing. Sorry he didn't—that would have made a story. Instead he was draped in enough red velvet to make curtains for the new opera house we don't have.

Goody, Goody! Nice Work, Bing

Bing Crosby won't return to the music hall, but will have a show of his own in January. . . . Florence George and husband Everett Crosby made a fast trip back east. Florence will sing on two radio programs early next year. . . . I couldn't be happier. "The Red Mill" revival is turning 'em away in New York. Finally Eddie Foy Jr. has been hailed as a great comic and Odette Myrtil, whom we treated as a has-been, is the talk of the town. . . . Little Edith Fellows also came into her own back there in "Marinka." . . . John Fredericks, who played "Ten Little Indians" thruout Europe for the U. S. O., will join Maurice Evans in "Hamlet." Before leaving England he spent a week-end with Robert Donat, whose play "Cure for Love" may be done with Donat starring in New York by Mike Todd. Anyway Mike's interested in it.

Here's Howe for James Howe

James Wong Howe, Chinese cameraman, and Benson Fong are shuttling between here and San Francisco getting material for a picture to be produced in China with an all Chinese cast. They'd love "Ricksha Boy" and could do a grand job with it, but the price is sky high for them. . . . Lois Andrews had herself a time at the Jack Haley rehearsal when both George Jessel and Dave Street were there. Isn't that triangle overtired from overworking its publicity? Harry Conover, who's booked beauties for years, is becoming one himself. He's steamed off 25 pounds and is taking voice lessons to play himself in "The Conover Girl." . . . Earl Oxford, who made such a hit singing "I Left My Heart at the Stage Door Canteen," will be out of uniform any minute.

Cuddles Is Quick Change Artist

When Charles Laughton saw the nose designed for him to play a Cyrano de Bergerac scene with Deanna Durbin, he announced it didn't blend with his face, so he carried it in his hand. Charlie has a way with noses. I remember lunching with him when he was playing Nero in "The Sign of the Cross." It was a warm day and Charlie was done up in a Roman robe of violet silk and headband of emeralds. So he just reached up, plucked the wax nose off his face, and laid it beside him on the table. We had a gallery in no time. Sure, Cuddles loved it—so did I.

Prying Attitude Is Resented by the Teen-Ager

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Few teen-age boys and girls would, I believe, make an issue of their right to some personal privacy, if they did not feel it was being unfairly invaded.

If their parents had always treated them with a certain sort of companionable respect—their belongings, their letters, and so forth—I doubt, if suddenly in the teens they would draw off, or "close up like a clam," or deem it an intrusion when their mother or father asked questions about their friends, or perhaps the contents of a letter. An adolescent boy or girl, who has been understood and has had a happy home life, is almost sure to continue to be frank and open about his or her social and personal affairs.

Nevertheless, as young people mature, they go thru certain emotional experiences which are sometimes accompanied by a little more reticence than they formerly showed. When this happens, parents are wise who have delicacy enough to let them alone. Even when worried by it, if we mothers or fathers will just stand by, confidences are usually forthcoming. Which relieves us, because so often we feel sure that our children need help, or are unduly distressed over some trifle which looms large to them.

The one thing young people do resent is a prying attitude. This does make them close up. And, unfortunately, it is a fault which quite often besets a mother when her son or daughter begins to develop quickly, and to step out.

Of course we all experience a certain loving anxiety about our children when they try their wings, and we know [if they don't] that they need us still. But nothing is ever gained by prying—or worse, suspicion. All it does is to make a young person resentful.

You can still be an interested and loving guide to your teen-agers, but you must accept it when they show their first desire for personal privacy.

The recommended bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
6 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead, five of hearts.

Bidding at contract bridge would be complete chaos unless there were definitely accepted methods for showing strength. In at least nine cases out of 10 the proper way to show an enormous hand is to jump the bid in some manner or other. It is true, of course, that some jumps are stronger than others. A jump rebid, by the opener, in the same suit, is a strong invitation, but partner may pass it if he has a weak hand. A jump in a new suit shows an enormous hand, guarantees a game, and the responder must keep going, no matter how weak his hand may be.

There is one case [and only one] where a jump does not show a generally strong hand and that is where the responder raises an opening bid of one heart or one spade directly to four of that suit, without any further conversation. This is popularly known as a "shut-out" bid, but that is a poor name for it. The bid is used to show a hand with great trump strength, considerable distribution, but not much in the way of high cards.

It follows, therefore, that a jump to three no trump is definitely stronger than a jump to two no trump. When today's hand was played, South opened with one diamond, North responded with one spade, and South jumped to three no trump. The actual North quickly passed with the comment, "That shuts me out." What North should have said was, "Partner, I promised only one trick, on the strength of which you think you can make game. Since I have a great deal more than that, you should be able to make more than game. I therefore cordially invite you to bid a slam. Take it or leave it." South would take it.

West led the five of hearts and the jack forced South's ace. Two leads of spades showed that that suit would not break. Declarer then led the ace of diamonds and when the 10 dropped from West, he began to suspect that the suit would not be evenly divided. However, he continued it for three rounds at which point he learned that East held originally five spades and four diamonds. At this point, his hope lay in East having had two cards in each of the other two suits. He therefore cashed the king of hearts and the ace and king of clubs, being relieved to find that East followed suit. A low diamond was now led to the jack and the forced return permitted dummy to make all the spades.

The usual weekly quiz will appear tomorrow.

A'S DRAFT DEMAREE; PHILS GET NOVIKOFF

MOTHER DIES, DEVORE FACES NAVY IN GRIEF

He'll Carry on Thru Game Tomorrow

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 1 [Special]—Coach Hugh Devore, who last night received word of the death of his mother, Mrs. Mary Teresa Devore, 69, at her home in West Orange, N. J., carried on today as he sent the Irish thru the final drills prior to the Navy game in Cleveland Saturday.

The Notre Dame coach plans to stay with the team until after Saturday's game, then leave by plane for his home. Surviving Mrs. Devore, besides Hugh, are three daughters, Irene, at home; Mrs. Mary Bender of Denville, N. J., and Mrs. Anna Zellman of East Orange, N. J., and four other sons, Edward, Howard, Charles, and Daniel, all of Newark, N. J. The funeral will be held Monday.

In today's drills, Bill Leonard, freshman right end, pulled a muscle in his side and probably will see little action Saturday. Leonard had been sharing the post with Dick Cronin.

NAVY SQUAD LEAVES

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 1 [Special]—The football squad of the United States naval academy left tonight for Cleveland and the annual contest with Notre Dame Saturday. A light drill preceded departure, and a final workout will be held tomorrow afternoon. Forty-four players are making the trip.

Illini Bench Three Backs; Rebuild Team

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 1 [Special]—The Illinois back field, which has been sputtering but not scoring all season, has been completely rebuilt and will be tested here Saturday afternoon against the Great Lakes Bluejackets. Coach Ray Eliot promoted Mickey Perkins, second string quarter back, to a starting role and will take some of the pressure off him by having Stan Stasica, left half back, call the signals. Stasica is the only regular back to hold his job.

The starting right half back position, held all season by Tom Zaborac of Canton, has been turned over to Al Zimmerman, Chicago sophomore. The starting full back probably will be a returned veteran, Bill Krall.

43 SAILORS TO MAKE TRIP

The Great Lakes football team reviewed offensive and defensive formations yesterday in final preparations for tomorrow's game with Illinois in Champaign. Lt. Paul Brown, head coach, named 43 players to make the trip this morning. The traveling squad:

Ends—Bill O'Connor, Ralph Jones, Howard Jeshke, Harry Grant, Mardo Hamilton, Warren Ely, and Lester Heuler. Tackles—Dean Widseth, Joe Stall, Jerome Harvey, Tom Kane, Jerry Morrical, Lowell Storm, Ronald Wendt, and Ken Sundsky. Guards—Dave Foley, Jean Lamoure, Ralph Davis, Elmer Zirbel, Bob Jablonski, Victor Frank, and Robert Lussow. Centers—Ettson Wilkins, Marty Wendell, Eldrige Ledet, Bill Cirillo, and Joe Dzeka. Backs—George Terlep, Grover Kemmer, Frank Aschenbrenner, Marion Motley, Charles Parker, Dick Ottell, Bud Salvatore, Bob Sullivan, Bill Chandler, William Rye, Mal Logan, Don Deere, Harry Robinson, Tony McCleery, Ferd Nadherny, and Dick Ratcliffe.

JUG IS READY; SO ARE GOPHERS AND WOLVERINES

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 1 [Special]—Henry Hatch, Michigan athletic equipment manager, has the little Brown Jug polished and clean, but he's going to keep it under lock and key during Saturday's Western conference football game between Michigan and Minnesota, which is expected to attract a crowd of 85,000 here.

The Little Brown Jug, sentimental symbol for which the Wolverines and Gophers do annual gridiron battle, has been in Michigan possession the last two years and Hatch isn't too certain he will lose possession of it this week altho the experts are favoring Coach Bernie Bierman of Minnesota to continue his string of victories over Michigan teams coached by Fritz Crisler. A Crisler coached Michigan team has never beaten a Bierman coached Minnesota eleven.

AGAIN SUNDAY: DON HUTSON IN SAME OLD ROLE

BY EDWARD PRELL

Don Hutson, who acts the part of a languid southern gentleman except on his frequent dazzling bursts in pursuit of a thrown football, is coming to town Sunday. The last time Chicago fans saw Don he was racing down the sideline on an 85 yard touchdown journey to make the All-Star game safe for the Green Bay Packers in Soldiers' field.

Don said after that game he was afraid it would be his last. If he had turned a deaf ear to the blandishments of his coach, Curly Lambeau, the Packers might now be suffering a fate akin to that of the Bears, the team they meet Sunday in Wrigley field.

Hutson not only did not retire, but he returned to the professional gridiron for the 11th season with such enthusiasm that he now is ahead of his record 1942 National league pace when he scored 138 points on 17 touchdowns, 33 extra points, and a field goal. With half the season—five games—gone, he has scored 75 points.

Catches 100 Touchdown Passes

Last Sunday, against the Cards in Green Bay, Hutson caught three touchdown passes. The third was his 100th in league competition. He can hit even figures in pass receiving, too, if he catches as many pitches in the remaining five games as he has in the first five. His 29 receptions this season put his lifetime total at 471. Twenty-nine more would give him 500 and chances are he will exceed this mark in 1946.

Hutson has played in 113 league games and George Strickler, the National league publicist and statistical expert, cannot recall that Don has missed a game because of injuries.

Look at the Figures

Here are other up-to-date Hutson statistics:

Has carried the ball on end-around runs for 258 yards in 57 attempts.

Has attempted 11 passes, completing two, with two intercepted and seven incomplete. One of the completions was taken by Harry Jacunski for a touchdown in 1943 against the New York Giants.

Has received 471 passes for 7,809 yards, the longest one for 75 yards and a touchdown.

Has intercepted 27 passes for 400 yards, these figures being for the last five seasons. Interceptions were not listed until Mr. Strickler put in his statistical system.

Has scored four touchdowns on runs from scrimmage, making his total touchdowns 104.

Has kicked 164 points after touchdowns, with 11 misses.

Has made five field goals in 14 attempts.

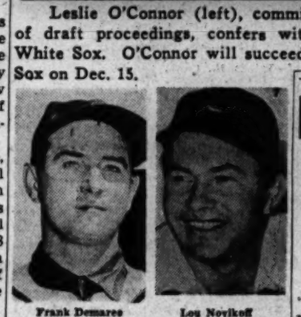
Has a grand scoring total of 803 points.

Has a grand yardage total of 8,067.

Gabby Hartnett Signs to Manage Buffalo Club

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 1 (AP)—Charles Leo [Gabby] Hartnett, former manager of the Chicago Cubs, today was signed by Stanley [Bucky] Harris to serve as field manager of the Buffalo Bisons of the International Baseball league next spring.

Leslie O'Connor (left), commission secretary, who had charge of draft proceedings, confers with Harry Grabiner, representing White Sox. O'Connor will succeed Grabiner as general manager of Sox on Dec. 15.



Frank Demaree

Lou Novikoff

First and second choices in draft, Demaree being picked by Athletics, Novikoff by Phillies.

30 Cubs Get $3,930.22 as Series Share

The 30 Cubs who were voted full shares of the losers' end in the recent world series with the Detroit Tigers each drew $3,930.22 and a complete winning share of which 26 were voted by the Detroiters amounted to $6,443.34 according to a tabulation announced yesterday by Leslie O'Connor, special assistant to Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

The Cubs who drew full shares were Manager Charles Grimm, Heinz Becker, Hank Borowy, Phil Cavarretta, Bob Chipman, Paul Derringer, Paul Erickson, Paul Gillespie, Stanley Hack, Ed Hanyzewski, Roy Hughes, Donald Johnson, Harry Lowrey, Tom Livingston, Len Merullo, Bill Nicholson, Andy Pafko, Claude Passeau, Ray Prim, Leonard Rice, Ed Sauer, Bill Schuster, Frank Secory, Hy Vandenberg, Dewey Williams, Henry Wyse, Coach Roy Johnson, Coach Milton Stock, Trainer Andy Lotshaw, and Traveling Secretary Robert Lewis.

Lon Warneke, Walter Signer, and Ray Starr each drew $1,965.11 and the club house boss, Joe Bernardi, was voted $2,947.66.

The second place Washington Senators and St. Louis Cardinals each divided up $35,668.43 of the players' pool. The third place Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Browns each cut up $23,778.95, and the fourth place Yankees and Pirates each split $11,889.47.

Wilson Eleven Beats Morgan Park, 38 to 0

The Wilson college football team defeated Morgan Park college, 38 to 0, yesterday in Morgan Park stadium.

DETROIT SIGNS TRAUTMAN AS BUSINESS HEAD

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 1 (AP)—George M. Trautman, 55, who for 10 years has served as president of the American association, today accepted the position of general manager of the Detroit Tigers, succeeding John A. Zeller who will retire Jan. 1.

Walter O. Briggs, owner and president of the Detroit Baseball company, announced that Trautman, a former three sport star and later assistant athletic director at Ohio State university, would join the Tiger organization Dec. 1, a month before Zeller retires.

Becomes President in 1935

Trautman was president of the Columbus club in the American association before succeeding T. J. Hickey as league president in 1935. His contract with the association still had two years to run.

Zeller has been associated with organized baseball since 1903 as player, scout, manager, club owner, and general manager of minor and major league clubs.

He'll Go to Texas

He joined the Detroit organization in 1925 as scout, was elevated to minor league director for the club and became general manager Jan. 1, 1938, later assuming also the duties of club secretary.

When Zeller announced a month ago his intention to retire from the game he told his friends, "I'm not tired of baseball—just tired. I'm 61 and want to go back to Texas." He plans to make his home in Fort Worth.

SCALPERS REAP GOLDEN HARVEST IN CLEVELAND

Cleveland, O., Nov. 1 (AP)—Despite a city ordinance, scalpers were asking—and getting—$12.50 to $25 each today for $3.75 tickets for the game between unbeaten Notre Dame and Navy in Cleveland stadium Saturday.

Officials said Notre Dame turned back 168,000 requests for seats and the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce has refunded $30,000 to members alone—the refunds representing checks that had been sent in for tickets.

FORMER CUBS TOP CHOICES; SOX PICK 2 MEN

Chandler Favors Ruel as Aid

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

Nine ball players, among them the perennial Lou Novikoff of Cub fame, were transformed into major league property in the short space of eight minutes yesterday when the annual selection of minor league talent was held in the offices of Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Novikoff, now sweating it out in the army, but on the defense list of the Los Angeles Pacific Coast league club to which he was released last February by the Cubs, was picked off by the eighth place Philadelphia Phillies of the National league, after the eighth place Philadelphia Athletics of the American league had passed up the man who consistently has wrecked minor league pitching.

Instead of Novikoff, the Athletics, who had first choice in the drawing, selected none other than 35 year old Frank Demaree, one time Cub fly chaser now with the Portland, Ore., club.

Sox, Yanks Wanted Lou

The Cubs, represented by Vice President James Gallagher, made no attempt to draft, but Harry Grabiner, who will retire Dec. 15 as White Sox general manager, obtained Peter Pershing Thomassie, an outfielder from the Memphis club and Alton Biggs, one time Yankee farm hand, a second baseman from the Milwaukee Brewers. Thomassie hit .330, second best in the Southern association, and Biggs played a .320 tune for the Brewers. Thomassie was suspended by Memphis at the end of the season but the reason was not divulged.

Grabiner admitted, after the selection process had been completed, that his first bid would have been for Novikoff if the athlete had been available. The Sox, having finished sixth, had fifth pick. George Weiss, of the New York Yankees, who were ninth in the draw, arrived after Commissioner Chandler had set the meeting in motion and upon being informed a player had been drafted from the Los Angeles club he passed. In other words, he, too, would have taken Novikoff.

A's Also Take Handley

Pitcher Earl Reid, who is on the Indianapolis club's defense list, was picked by the Boston Braves. The Giants took from the Seattle club's defense list Pitcher Mike Budnick, who is serving with the navy in the South Pacific. The Pirates drew Ben Guintini, an outfielder with the San Francisco Seals.

The Athletics were the only club other than the Sox to take a second grab. The American league tail enders, after opening with Demaree, grabbed Gene Handley, Sacramento second baseman, the second time around. The ninth draftee was Max Wilson, a pitcher on the defense list of the Portsmouth, Va., team, a Cub farm holding. Wilson was taken by Washington which wasn't represented but the club's choice was expressed by the commissioner.

For the nine players, seven from Class AA at $7,500 apiece, the majors spent $62,000 but under the rule they can continue to draft by mail or telegraph, until Sunday midnight. Last year 21 men were drafted at an expenditure of $151,000.

Ruel to Be Chandler Aid?

The Boston Red Sox, Cleveland Indians, and Brooklyn Dodgers were not represented even by a proxy. The Cubs, Browns, Tigers, and Reds each passed. Jack Zeller, the Tigers' general manager who will retire the first of the year, declared he came to the meeting with only one player in mind. That was Outfielder Guintini, who went to the Pirates. Zeller revealed that Barney McCosky, one of the Tigers' pre-war outfielders, had received his army discharge. The White Sox also learned during the day that Chet Hajduk, first baseman, had been returned to them by the navy, thus relieving Manager Jim Dykes' first base problem.

Commissioner Chandler after the meeting told newspaper men that he was leaning strongly toward Muddy Ruel, White Sox coach, as his new assistant. John Quinn of the Boston Braves, who had been rumored as a candidate for the job, denied that he had given it a moment's thought.

Grandpa

My grandpa was so lazy
That he nearly drove us crazy
For he sat around the house for eighty years;
There was work and grandpa knew it
But he simply wouldn't do it
For he hated the least movement, it appears.

He was happy as the flowers
Playing solitaire for hours,
And besides that all he did was grow a beard
That was six feet long or longer
And as strong as steel or stronger
Tho its silver strands with snuff were bady smeared.

One day grandpappy was dozing
And before he stopped reposing
We cut off his silver beard right at the chin,
And we made of it a duck blind
Which was certainly a luck find
That will be remembered by his kith and kin.

With his whiskers gone grandpappy
Felt he never could be happy
So he up and died that day without a smile;
But his grandfolks will be knowing
That his eighty years of growing
Which produced those silver whiskers were worth while.

For they're getting ducks aplenty,
Every day yields more than twenty,
And they're cooking them with rice and pungent sauce;
So our lazy old grandpappy
Must be feeling mighty happy
Knowing that his life was not a total loss.

Blake Stars as Canadiens Defeat Leafs

MONTREAL, Nov. 1 (AP)—With Toe Blake accounting for two of the four goals, the Montreal Canadiens, defending champions, whipped the Toronto Maple Leafs, 4 to 2, in a National Hockey league game at the Forum tonight.

A capacity crowd of 12,763 saw the Canadiens move into a first place tie with the Chicago Blackhawks by beating the Stanley cup winners.

The Canadiens took an early lead in the first period and there was little doubt as to the outcome after that. Blake led the Montreal marksmen with two goals, making his total four in the first two games of the season. Joe Benoit and Dutch Hiller scored the other Montreal goals. Gaye Stewart and Mel Hill were the Toronto marksmen. Lineup:

Civilian Clothes

What's wrong with this jack—, this coat, I mean,
It feels sort o' loose, and I'm no string bean;
These trousers feel floppy, are they all right?
Guess I've got used to 'em sort o' tight.

This tie, on the level, is it too loud,
Will they razz it, you think, when I'm out in a crowd?
Well, maybe you're right and I am wrong,
But you see I've been wearin' plain brown for so long.

Now you're sure you mean it, you like this hat?
Do you think I'll really get by,
I'm so used to just that little chapeau
Cocked over just one eye.

This new pair o' shoes feels like dancin' pumps,
I can't hear myself make a sound,
Those GI brogans weighed at least half a ton
And sure held you close to the ground.

Okay, if you say so, I'm ready.
Snap into it, baby, let's go,
But I never dreamed that civilian clothes
Would feel this funny, you know?

BUCKEYES AND N. U. TO BATTLE BEFORE 74,000

Wildcats Bid for 2d Upset Tomorrow

BY WILFRID SMITH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Columbus, O., Nov. 1—Seventy-four thousand spectators, the second sell-out throng for Ohio State's home football season, which will bring the local turnstile count to more than 300,000, will watch the rejuvenated Buckeyes battle Northwestern here Saturday. All tickets were sold even before the Wildcats sprung the surprise of the Western conference campaign last week by humbling Purdue 26 to 16, after the Boilermakers had licked Ohio State the preceding Saturday, 35 to 13.

Ohio State's loyal partisans, who long have made Columbus a citadel for collegiate football, were stunned by the decisive licking their representatives received from Purdue. A crowd of 73,585 watched that one sided scrap in which the Boilermakers scored 22 points before the Buckeyes registered a first down and thus left no opening for argument.

Everything's Fine Again

Last Saturday, however, the defending Big Nine champions bumped off Minnesota's mighty forces and so the adherents of the Buckeyes, with renewed confidence, expect to salvage respect by conquest of Northwestern, victor over Purdue.

Ohio State is the heavy favorite here, as should be expected, but it also is generally recognized that the Buckeyes' plethora of talented players, including Dick Fisher, who will captain the team Saturday, should produce a victory. Northwestern scarcely can be expected to rise to the heights, as it did last week, and, unless Coach Lynn Waldorf, can again wave a magic wand, Ohio State should be well on its way to successful defense of its Big Nine title by Saturday night.

Morale Is Big Item

Carroll Widdoes, head man of the Buckeye coaching staff, who took his boys to a conference title with nine consecutive victories in 1944, still speaks of mental attitude. Whatever his opinion was of the value of emotional preparation before, he learned a lesson when his uninspired team lost to Purdue. That defeat was the rallying point in preparation for Minnesota. Now Widdoes hopes his players will hold that edge.

Buckeye back field personnel has been practically the same thruout the season, altho Fisher did not start against Minnesota because of injury which moved Alex Verdova into the right half back position he held when Ohio State played Iowa. The more important changes were made before the Purdue game.

Sarringhaus Is Demoted

Paul Sarringhaus, veteran of the 1942 championship team, definitely is third string left half back. Jerry Krall, who first supplanted Sarringhaus, now will be replaced by Harold Daugherty, freshman from Weirton, W. Va. Daugherty is a fleet runner and an excellent passer. Thus, the Buckeyes will have two fine passers—Daugherty and Fisher—in the same back field.

Other changes since the Iowa game have given Robin Friday the quarter back post and moved Warren Amling from left to right guard to make room for Bob McGinnis. The veteran stalwarts in the line are the tackles, Russ Thomas and Thornton Dixon, who can be very, very good or very, very indifferent.

Northwestern's squad will arrive tomorrow night at 10 o'clock after a stop in Toledo for brief practice.

WILDCATS READY FOR TRIP

Thirty-six Northwestern university football players leave for Columbus, O., this morning in quest of a second Western conference upset to go with the Wildcats' defeat of Purdue last Saturday. Tomorrow's opponent will be the veteran Ohio State Buckeye eleven.

The Northwestern squad will be near top physical strength. Only Bob McKinley, left half back who started against Purdue and scored twice, will miss the trip.

Yesterday's practice session was devoted to polishing all phases of the game as Coach Lynn Waldorf put his charges thru their first full scale workout of the week. The only lineup change tomorrow will find Bruce Bairstow, discharged from the navy V-12 program this week, operating as a regular again in the absence of McKinley. The traveling squad:

SHOW HORSES TAKE COLISEUM STAGE TONIGHT

1,705 Thorobreds to Vie for $60,250 in Prizes

BY JAMES SEGRETI

For the third time in 47 years, thorobreds of the show rings will compete for ribbons and cash prizes within the old walls of the Coliseum, 15th st. and Wabash av., starting tonight and continuing thru Nov. 11. A capacity crowd of 6,500 will witness the opening events of the Chicago Horse show, second edition of the presentation which delighted Chicagoans last December when it returned tanbark performances to the historic building for the first time since 1898.

A heavy snowstorm greeted the opening last season, and it has prompted an earlier inaugural this year in an effort to evade the Chicago weatherman's wrong levers. The show starts with new records established in cash awards and entries, and it is expected other marks will fall during the various classes of competition. The cash prizes to be awarded total $60,250, making it the richest of any horse show in the nation, and there are 1,705 entries, representing outstanding stables from 32 states.

Proceeds Go to Legion Fund

Colorful ceremonies will precede the opening event, the $1,000 championship stake for harness horses under 15.2 hands in height. The Commonwealth Edison post, No. 118, of the American Legion will parade its national championship color guard, while John Panegasser, tenor, sings the national anthem. Proceeds of tonight's show will be donated to the American Legion's fund for returning war veterans.

The opening also has been designated as Victory night, and directors of the Chicago Horse Show association, as well as exhibitors, will aid in the promotion of war bond sales, which totaled approximately $2,500,000 in a single evening at the show last year during the 6th War Loan drive.

Eight Champions Return

There will be nine competitive events on the inaugural schedule. General Manager A. P. Fleming, a veteran of 30 years in presenting horse shows thruout the country, announced that eight of the grand champions from last December's affair have returned to defend their titles. He estimated the value of horses and equipment in the show at between six and seven million dollars.

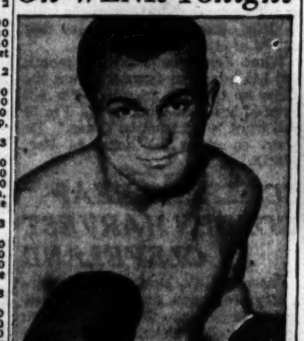
Zivic-Archer Bout On WENR Tonight



Former champion Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh, who knows every trick of the fistic trade, meets rough-and-ready Freddie Archer of Newark, N. J., in a ten-round welterweight return match at New York tonight.

Young Archer packs grenades in both mitts and is murderous in the clinches. He defeated Zivic in their first meeting. Fritzie wants a return title bout with Freddie "Red" Cochrane and the outcome of this match may strengthen his claim.

Enjoy the excitement, blow-by-blow, on Gillette's Cavalcade of Sports over American Broadcasting Co. and WENR (890 on your dial) at 9 p.m.

$5,000 RACES TO CLEAR WAY FOR CHARITY MEETS

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Two $5,000 races will feature the final day of the regular 18 day fall meeting at Sportsman's Park tomorrow, after which the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., will take over for an additional week and the management will add another six days for relief agencies and charity. That will bring racing to a conclusion in the Chicago area on Nov. 17.

Racing Secretary William Dahlstrom announced yesterday that tomorrow's $5,000 Sportsman's handicap had drawn so many nominations that it will be run in two divisions.

28 Named for Event

Among the 28 thorobreds on the list are the topweighted Take Wing and Cerberus from the barns of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Troutt; H. H. Fausett's Grey Days, a consistent performer; Ruth Sidell's fast router, Burgoo Maid; the speedy Chipamink, owned by the Silver Star stock farm, and the Happy Hour farm's trio of Cherry Wine, Happy Pilot, and Devalue.

Nine races a day are scheduled for the charity meeting opening Monday and post time for the first race each day, including Saturday, will be 1 o'clock, a half hour earlier than at present.

Alan F. Wins Rochester Purse

Joe Kohout's classy sprinter, Alan F., scored its third consecutive victory in yesterday's featured $1,800 Rochester purse before a crowd of 7,633, taking the five furlong affair by a length and a half from C. D. Foreman's High Mow. M. H. Van Berg's Wilma Van was third in an eight horse field. The winner, ridden by Billy Nichols, paid $10.60.

The daily double was worth $57, Tetradan taking the first half at $13 and Betty Van the second at $7.20. T. P. Martin and Dell Jessop were the winning jockeys.

The day's mutuel handle was $621,805.

NEW SPIRIT AT IOWA ENHANCES VICTORY HOPES

Hawkeyes Keyed Up for Homecoming Game

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 1 [Special]—Iowa's football hopes were lifted somewhat today when Coach Clem Crowe announced that both Nelson Smith and Obern Simons, injured half backs, would be ready to play against Wisconsin Saturday in Iowa's homecoming game. Smith, the Hawkeyes' leading gainer, has nursed an ailing back all season and Simons pulled a leg muscle in practice this week.

Clem Crowe

For the second straight night the Hawkeyes held a snappy two hour practice and Crowe expressed pleasure at the way the reviving Hawkeyes sped thru offensive drills. He had termed Wednesday night's drill the best practice of the entire year.

Iowa spirit seems on the rebound in spite of the weight of four straight Saturday defeats. Even the coaches and local newspapers and press services are infected with the new spirit, as Iowa seeks its first Big Nine victory since Eddie Anderson's last team surprised Wisconsin, 9 to 7, in 1942.

Jerry Niles, who has worked at running this week as well as passing, will be at quarter and Art Johnson at full back.

BADGERS LEAVE TODAY

Madison, Wis., Nov. 1—Thirty-six Wisconsin football players were named today to make the trip to Iowa tomorrow and one change in the Badger starting lineup was hinted, Jim Thompson at left end in place of Bob Hanley.

The Badgers held their last home workout and appeared as fit as ever this season. The two week layoff has all the cripples except Hal Haberman back in playing form. The Badgers will travel by bus and stop at Cedar Rapids for a light drill tomorrow. The traveling squad:

HALF BACK AT CORNELL (IA.) IS INJURED BY CAR

Mount Vernon, Ia., Nov. 1 (AP)—James McKeon, second string half back, was struck by a passing car and seriously injured today as the Cornell college football team was boarding a chartered bus for its trip to Bloomington and Saturday's game with Indiana.

Approximately 100 students, gathered to cheer the team off, witnessed the accident.

McKeon, 23, of Chicago, was first treated by the naval medical officer of Cornell's V-5 unit and then taken to a Cedar Rapids hospital. Preliminary examination indicated he suffered a compound fracture of the left leg and a serious head injury.

ALL-STAR TENPIN FIELD CUT TO 72 FOR ROUND ROBIN

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The battle lines for the final phase of the Chicago qualifying rounds for the fifth All-Star national match game bowling tournament are drawn up this morning, with announcement of the 72 survivors of city-wide tests who have qualified for the match play round robins, to be held in nine top flight local establishments tomorrow and Sunday.

The round robins will bring together the men who have earned places by finishing in the top eight at each of the nine plants during the total pin shooting which has been transacted during the last month. Each of the nine centers will have every bowler meeting his seven opponents in as many four game matches.

18 Will Move to Finals

All of these matches will be decided on the Petersen point system, which also will be employed in the main event, to be conducted by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America in the Auditorium service men's center from Dec. 1 thru 9.

The big show will bring together a cast of 120 nationally prominent stars, of whom 18 will have earned their roles in the Chicago round robins opening tomorrow, each of the nine stages having been allotted two places. The nine qualifying centers have chosen different methods of handling their round robins, altho most of them will have completed their match play examinations by early Sunday evening.

Book Special Match

Bowling Lanes, which will be the scene of a special match tomorrow and Sunday nights between Buddy Bomar, defending All-Star champion, and Joe Sinke, has arranged three of its four game matches for 4:30 p. m. tomorrow, two more at 2 p. m. Sunday, and the final two at 4:30 Sunday.

Joe Braskich of the Classic league's Sunkist Pies and Norman Nelson, the talented southpaw, emerged as the total pin leaders among the qualifiers. Braskich put together 248-224-239—711 to pace the top octet at Rose Bowl, while Nelson's 708 headed the field at Garden Recreation.

The complete list of round robin qualifiers at the nine plants, together with addresses and names of proprietors, follows:

Payoff Time at Hand for Prep Elevens

Time is running out in prep football competition and, beginning this afternoon and ending at nightfall Sunday, boosters of various leagues are going to learn just who is what, and why, in the race for championships in the different circuits.

Two City league sectional championships still are to be settled. Fenger can take the south section title by defeating Hyde Park in 83d-Yates-av. stadium tomorrow while in the west section Austin and Harrison face a play-off next Saturday should each triumph this weekend. An upset of one eleven would send the other into the league semi-finals. Austin meets Marshall in Key Branch stadium today; Harrison plays Steinmetz tomorrow at the same location.

Other Leagues Decide Titles

In the suburbs Bloom has a chance to take the South Suburban league championship tonight by defeating Blue Island in a game in Chicago Heights. Championship of the West Suburban conference can be determined tomorrow when undefeated York meets Glenbard, also unbeaten, in Glen Ellyn.

Pullman Tech field will be the site of the battle for the championship of the new North Central conference when Morgan Park Military academy meets Pullman Tech tomorrow.

Sunday, altho the largest attendance probably will be at the Sisters of Mercy charity game between St. Rita and Leo in Comiskey park, St. George and Fenwick, both undefeated in league competition, meet in the Catholic league's big contest in Hanson park. The victor probably will win the south section title.

Authorities at Fenwick High school, which has been approached about sending its prep football team to Florida for a holiday game against Hillsborough High school, said last night they are considering the proposal, but would postpone further negotiations until the Catholic league champion is determined.

Lt. Maynard J. Mitchell, 1942 Morton athlete, was uninjured in July when his navy Helldiver was shot down only 200 yards off the coast of Japan. . . . Cheerleaders of Suburban league schools will have a meeting in Waukegan Wednesday. . . . Zion-Benton, which has installed lights at its new field, claims to have the most powerful set of arcs in the state. . . . Bob Finnegan, captain of the 1942 South Shore football team and later a baseball and basketball player at University of Chicago, is on the staff of the army-navy broadcasting station at Adak. . . . He played with the Fleet City basketball squad at Shoemaker, Cal., last year.

This Smart, Custom Styled Winter Weight

It's fine London Grain. Its heavy sole is storm welted, weather resistant. And it's an accurate, leather-for-leather reproduction of a $45 shoe hand-made by Gustav Peterson, New York custom bootmaker. How does Regal reproduce it for just $6.60? Fine craftsmanship, volume production, low profits do it. That's Regal's 50-year-old formula.

Only at Regal do you get "Prescription Fitting"—which measures and fits both feet in standing and walking positions—means a better fit, greater satisfaction.

'46 Ice Follies Opens 17 Day Stay Tonight

Ice Follies of 1946, the tenth anniversary production of the Shipstads and Johnson revue, will open a 17 day stand tonight in Chicago arena with a cast of 165. The arena engagement will extend thru Nov. 18 with matinees scheduled Nov. 4, 10, 11, 17, and 18.

Eddie Shipstad and Oscar Johnson sentimentally revive their Bowery skit from the first Ice Follies, smooth skating Roy Shipstad is featured with six Ice Follettes in The Romantic Hour, Evelyn Chandler returns after an absence of three years in Steeplechase, Heinie Brock is back as That Man, and Ruby and Bobby Maxson are united to lead the tenth anniversary swing waltz with the brother's return from three years in service.

Other old favorites in the cast are Frick, Bobby Blake, Thomas Twins, Mae Ross, Betty Schalow, Hazel Franklin, Barry Green, Jane Zeiser, Shirley Halsted, Ginger Clayton, Phyllis Legg, the Roberts, Rasmussen and Cameron, Ericsen and Mershon, and Walter Rudolph. Marshall Beard is outstanding among the newcomers.

Follies production spectacles include Nocturne, Mississippi Levee, Mandarin's Daughter and the Coolie.

HUNTERS CHEER; MALLARDS ARE HEADING SOUTH

BY BOB BECKER

The mallards have started to come down from the north, so hunting this week-end along the Illinois river should be improved if the weatherman gives with some brisk winds tomorrow and Sunday.

The diving ducks now outnumber the mallards on the river, according to the census completed yesterday by the Illinois Natural History survey, but Frank Bellrose Jr., the game technician and migration expert who made the survey, risked the prediction last night that during the next few days more mallards ought to be piling out of the north.

Here's the Latest Census

Last year the big migration from the chilblain belt in Canada didn't arrive until about Nov. 8. We wouldn't be surprised if a real flight of birds came in earlier than that this fall. Here is the latest census on the Illinois river duck population: There are 150,000 diving ducks on Lake Senachwine, about one-fourth of which are blackjacks. Peoria lake has a concentration of about 250,000 divers, including some 10,000 canvasbacks.

It looks as if the Woodford public hunting grounds across from Chillicothe might be a good spot this week-end, for Bellrose says that there are thousands of diving ducks there. Permits to hunt there are issued by the department of conservation.

There Will Be Millions

The mallard population for the whole river totaled only about 90,000 or 95,000 last night, which is just a handful compared to the millions scheduled to hit the river later this month.

The birds on the Illinois have been working better than expected due to a shortage of corn in the fields. The farmers haven't harvested much of their crop, so the birds aren't doing so well in the fields. In their hunt for food they have been combing the river bottoms. Result: some shooting for the hunters.

NICKEL IN SLOT SOON TO TWIRL MAMMA'S WASH

Mamma will soon be doing the weekly wash in the most economical way imaginable—both from the standpoint of cost and of time taken to do it—the coin operated machine way. This is the statement of Walter Hurd, coin machine editor of the Billboard, theatrical journal, who says:

"She'll go out to do her shopping, take the washing along and drop it into one of a number of modern, post-war electric washers set up in some neighborhood store. All she'll do is drop in a coin, start the machine going and be off to the grocery or the bridge game. On the way home she'll pick it up again, all done—ready to be ironed."

Hurd was reporting on the developments in the manufacture of coin operated devices, including slot machines, gaming, and vending merchandising contraptions of all kinds, since the war production board lifted restrictions on their manufacture May 20. He said that while shortages of gray iron are holding up the production of slots, radio parts, and juke boxes, there is the utmost optimism among the 40 or 50 manufacturers of the devices for beginning of a tremendous post-war development by January or February.

FATAL SHOOTING OF YOUTH, 13, IS CALLED ACCIDENT

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in the Halloween shooting of Earl Dodgers, 13, of 1922 Milwaukee av. Dodgers was wounded when a gun held by Norman Greenwald, 18, of 1906 Milwaukee av., was discharged accidentally during a burglar scare. Dodgers was attending a party at the Greenwald home when a sound on the back porch prompted Norman to take the gun and investigate. The gun was a souvenir brought back from Europe by Norman's soldier brother, Theodore. At the inquest Capt. John O'Malley of the Shakespeare av. station made a strong plea against the use or display of souvenir weapons. He asked that all such guns be turned over to the police so that similar accidents might be prevented.

INDICT GREAT LAKES SAILOR ON RAPE CHARGE

Ernest Hubert Pugh Jr., 18, a sailor at the Great Lakes Naval Training center, was indicted yesterday by the Lake county grand jury on a charge of rape. Bail was set at $20,000.

The indictment alleged that he beat, stripped, and raped a student nurse, 20, in the grounds of the Holy Child convent, 1201 Sheridan rd., Waukegan, the night of Aug. 10. Pugh, whose home is at 1610 N. Mason av., was arrested by Oak Park police several weeks ago after allegedly attempting to rape a middle aged woman. He is in custody of Oak Park police.

The Lake county grand jury also indicted another Great Lakes sailor, Frederick Parkinson, 19, of Wenona, Md. He is accused of assault with intent to rape and assault and battery against a grandmother. The alleged attack occurred Sept. 26 in North Chicago.

WARN BANKERS TO BE BLAMED FOR INFLATION

Failed to Oppose Fiscal Mistakes

BY THOMAS FURLONG

Suggesting that bankers are shirking their responsibility, Thomas I. Parkinson, president of the Equitable Life Assurance society, said yesterday the soundness of the country's currency cannot be preserved if the government continues to grind out money at the present rate.

Thomas I. Parkinson

He described the government's financing policy as an indirect method of issuing greenbacks. Inflation cannot be avoided if the present fiscal policy is continued and commercial bankers collaborating in that policy will be forced to accept political responsibility for the results, he predicted.

Thrifty to Suffer Most

Parkinson's appraisal of the financial outlook was made in an address delivered before the Bond Club of Chicago in the Palmer House. As the head of the country's third largest life insurance company, Parkinson said he spoke for the thrifty, hard working people who will suffer most from the government's fiscal policies.

Pointing out that the vast increase in deposit money has corresponded almost exactly with the government securities absorbed by the banks, Parkinson warned that bankers cannot escape responsibility for the government fiscal policy.

"If I know anything about politics it will be the bankers who will be blamed if they go along with the government policy without raising a voice in protest," he said.

Parkinson conceded that some inflationary financing was inevitable in the war years, but not in the degree to which the treasury resorted. The financing methods used were decided by so-called fiscal experts of the treasury who are not responsible directly to either congress or the people.

Insurance Is "Best Bet"

Despite the threat of inflation, Parkinson said that life insurance is still the "best bet" for the ordinary individual. It is the older insurance policyholders for whom the great concern is felt, he said.

Parkinson also warned investors against accepting the general belief that present low interest rates will be maintained indefinitely.

"It is a danger signal," said he, "when there is a unanimity of financial opinion that existing conditions will last forever." He pointed out that the present interest rates are the consequence of deliberate government policy. He recalled earlier periods when financial authorities agreed that rates could not go up that were followed by rising interest rates and falling prices of bonds.

Cites Earlier Losses

Individuals and institutions cannot afford to commit funds entrusted to them for a long period at present low rates, he said. He cited specific instances in financial history to illustrate how such an investment policy resulted in losses of principal.

'At one point he referred to the deposit money created by the government as "fictitious money." The country's money supply—deposits and currency—has doubled since 1942 and now totals nearly 200 billion dollars. Without a change in government fiscal policy it will continue to soar, he said. The present policy and the possibility that government will again "monkey with the price of gold," constitute the most serious threats to a sound currency, he said.

CHOICE CATTLE STRONG; OTHER CLASSES WEAK

Chicago cattle buyers yesterday paid fully steady prices for all choice stock as the quality of the offerings began a seasonal decline. Trading opened with all interests bidding for the top loads of steers at the $18 a hundred pounds ceiling. A large supply of cows finished 25 cents lower and other grades were weak.

The market for lambs weakened after some of the best loads had sold at the $14.65 top. Large interests bought later 15 to 25 cents lower. The average was down 15 cents to $14.

Farmers continued to sell hogs in larger volume, but demand kept ahead of the supply and prices for nearly all classes were at the ceilings.

Furniture Man Blasts Retail Price Squeeze

The government dreamer, typified by Price Administrator Bowles, is one of the two types of dreamers threatening the country's economy, and endangering the retail distributive system, Roscoe R. Rau, executive vice president of the National Retail Furniture association, charged yesterday at a conference of the association in the Knickerbocker hotel.

"That master advertising-merchandising mind of pre-war days awakens from his Rip Van Winkle slumber in which he has been dreaming of volume miracles ever since the war ended and signs another squeeze margin [pricing] order," he said. The thought that retailers need do no more advertising, expect any trade-ins, or modernize their stores to get business, might become "an official, indisputable fact" in the minds of persons not acquainted with the situation, Rau said.

Needs Can Be Filled Quickly

"So vast is the pent-up demand created by the four war years that on full production day retailers will need none of those old fashioned methods of doing business, according to such brilliant minds and arbiters of American destiny," he said. "The rush of big volume business will be such that none of the pre-war selling expenses and effort will be necessary.

"Consequently, a smaller profit on a larger volume of merchandise is quite in order, according to Chester Bowles. That the productive capacity of the country can quickly fill the war time created wants of the people and leave us with a vast quantity of goods on hand apparently never occurred to the OPA master mind."

Suggests More Courtesy

Rau said the second type of dreamer is the retailer who depends too heavily on the eagerness of consumers for a large volume of home goods. He has overlooked the fact that "in the next two to five years a new pattern of competition will be laid and that this will decide the fate of many stores for years to come."

Rau suggested improved merchandise displays, better trained and more courteous personnel, a larger variety of stock in fewer price levels, and a better and more integrated sales program.

MANDEL SHARE SALE REPORTED IN NEGOTIATION

Officials of Mandel Brothers, Inc., said yesterday that negotiations are underway for the transfer of ownership of a block of stock in the company. The identities of the interests engaged in the negotiations were not disclosed.

The company recently discussed with an investment company arrangements for public sale of a block of stock, but these negotiations were dropped. Subsequently it was reported a private sale would be made. The proposed public sale was said to involve about 45,000 shares. There are 291,563 shares of the company's capital stock outstanding.

Reports in financial quarters have linked the names of two Chicago department stores with that of R. H. Macy & Co. of New York which was said to be considering entering the Chicago retail field. The negotiations with one of the Chicago stores were broken off recently, it was reported.

Duluth to St. Paul Flights Started by Northwest Air

Croil Hunter, president of Northwest Airlines, announced yesterday that the company had started two daily round trips between Duluth, Minn., and St. Paul and Minneapolis.

SMALL FIRMS GROUP ASSAILS TRUMAN PLAN

Method of Pricing Held Major Need

Small business men of the country, for whom President Truman has expressed admiration as the backbone of America's economic system, will suffer most under the President's program for wage and price increases, spokesmen for small business said yesterday.

The President's plan calling for a six month wait before wage increases may become a basis for price increases will be particularly difficult for small companies to weather, they said.

"I don't know where the small manufacturer is going to get the money to enable him to operate for six months," said DeWitt Emery, president of the National Small Business Men's association. "This plan, in my judgment, is no solution at all, and it is essential that some means be found to permit manufacturers to price their own goods."

More Pay Held Inflationary

In a wire to President Truman after his radio talk Tuesday night, Emery said, "I am unable to understand why paying more for less work is not just as inflationary as is paying more for less merchandise. More pay for more production would help prevent inflation but more pay for less work actually invites the runaway inflation which you state must be avoided at all costs."

Frederick A. Virkus, chairman of the Conference of American Small Business Organizations and president of the Illinois Small Business Men's association, said the President's program "leaves the impression that in the President's attempt to appease organized labor as well as industry by pouring oil on troubled waters, he has only succeeded in setting fire to the oil."

Cannot Ride Two Horses

"Even if the President orders it, no small business man can ride two horses at the same time when one is galloping forward and the other standing still," he said. "Small business generally operates on small margins. It has cut all corners possible to pay high taxes and meet growing tax free competition. If it is to remain solvent it cannot raise wages without correspondingly increasing prices, nor can it wait the six months Mr. Truman suggests for permission to adjust prices.

"Six months in the calendar of the dilatory OPA means a year and a half at least, and 18 months without profits will result only in the extinction of many of America's small businesses."

GRAINS HIGHER; WHEAT AND RYE LEAD ADVANCE

All grain futures except barley turned higher yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Closing trades were near the top with May rye at a new seasonal high.

The nearby deliveries of wheat came within a fraction of a cent a bushel of equaling the seasonal top. Wheat closed ⅝ to 1⅞ higher. Oats gained 1⅛ to 1⅞, rye 1¼ to 2, and corn ⅛ to ½ with December at the ceiling price of $1.18½. Barley was dull and declined ⅛ to ¼ on light selling.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Barton S. Pauley yesterday became vice president and actuary of the Great Northern Life Insurance company, Chicago, H. G. Royer, president, announced. Pauley, recently released after three years in the navy, before the war was a member of the home office underwriting department of the Lincoln National Life Insurance company, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Barton S. Pauley

Mac G. Collins has been appointed advertising manager and assistant to the vice president of the New York Central railroad. He will direct advertising and sales promotion activities of the entire system. Collins formerly was an account executive with the advertising firm of Foote, Cone & Belding. His department will assist in the development of the railroad's facilities thru extension of a current public survey program, the company said. The appointment of W. L. Jones, former perishables agent, as industrial representative in Chicago became effective yesterday. H. L. Willard, Detroit, was transferred to Chicago as general coal frate agent.

Elbert L. Whitney, assistant frate traffic manager in Chicago for the New York Central system, retired yesterday after 60 years of railroad service. He had been with the New York Central since 1908.

Two retiring telegraph operators were guests last night at a dinner given by Western Union Telegraph company at 120 S. La Salle st. They are Richard Gill, 72, of 37 N. Lockwood av., a Western Union employe for 56 years, and William T. McCann, 66, of 7623 Ridgeland av., an employe for 52 years.

Pullman-Standard Car Manufacfacturing company announced the appointment of Fred W. Alger and John C. Bell as assistant vice presidents. Both are sales agents in Chicago.

Nelson P. Case has become associated with the Hallicrafters company as chief engineer of its receiver division. He has been director of engineering design and development for the Hamilton Radio corporation, New York, for two years and was with the Hazeltine Electronics corporation for 13 years. Case holds 30 patents on radio receiver circuits.

Nelson P. Case

James A. Galligan has become associated with the La Salle Paint and Supply company as sales manager in charge of its railroad and industrial division.

Predict Better Facilities for City Transport

Improvements in urban transportation to meet automobile and other competition were forecast yesterday at the business meeting of the American Transit association in the Stevens hotel. These improvements include air conditioned street cars and even noon-diner special cars.

More than 500 top executives of local transit companies in the United States and Canada are attending the sessions.

Wider Buses Recommended

W. E. P. Duncan, general superintendent of the Toronto transportation commission and chairman of A. T. A.'s committee on vehicle design, said the committee has recommended that the width of buses be increased to provide for more comfortable seats, wider aisles, larger tires, improved braking, and other mechanical changes.

The association's objectives to give riders better service include vehicles with improved lighting, ventilation, and heating, safer and more convenient exits and entrances, better visibility thru windows, quieter operation, and more attractive interiors.

Warren R. Pollard, transportation manager for Georgia Power company, advised "the immediate elimination of overcrowding" thru frequent schedules strictly maintained.

Urges Staggered Working Hours

As means of increasing business he suggested more excursions, more sight seeing services, reduced rates for round trips in nonpeak hours, and in the not too distant future even noon-diner specials.

Gordon G. Steele, president of Portland [Ore.] Traction company, urged that the war time practice of staggering working hours be retained to aid operations. He was elected president of the association to succeed Col. Roane Waring, president of Memphis Street Railway company.

STEEL COMPANY FIRST TO LEAVE NEW FIELD UNIT

The first tenant to move out of the group of west side warehouse buildings recently purchased by Marshall Field & Co. from Nathan Cummings for $750,000 will be Enameled Steel Sign company, it was announced yesterday. The company's lease expires Jan. 1, and it will move into the first unit of a $240,000 manufacturing plant, work on which will be started next week at 4500 Addison st.

The buildings bought by Field occupy the block bounded by Washtenaw av., Taylor and Arthington sts., and the North Western railroad. The largest tenant is Sprague Warner division of Consolidated Grocers corporation, of which Cummings is president. It occupies 500,000 of the 630,000 total square feet of floor space.

7½ MILLION BANK LOAN ARRANGED BY SPIEGEL, INC.

Spiegel, Inc., said yesterday arrangements have been completed for a 7½ million dollar term loan with a group of banks headed by First National Bank of Chicago. The proceeds would be used to increase the company's working capital and for other corporate purposes in connection with the Spiegel expansion program.

Serial payments would be made over a period of 10 years with interest at 2½ per cent.

BRIGGS MANUFACTURING

I wish information on Briggs Manufacturing company, including its nonautomotive products.—W. T.

Altho Briggs has diversified its business, industry observers believe that the bulk of its sales will continue to be to automobile companies for which it manufactures bodies and related parts.

Before the war the company had developed a line of metal bathtubs, kitchen sinks, and lavatories, and this division was expanded last year by acquisition of John Douglas company. Facilities were thus obtained for manufacture of vitreous china plumbing, and Briggs now makes a complete line of plumbing fixtures for residences and other buildings.

In April, 1944, the company began operating a new foundry in Cleveland, O., for producing intricate metal castings under an exclusive patent license. During the war Briggs became a major factor in aircraft sub-assembly work.

In the five years ended with 1944 the company's profits after contingency reserves averaged $2.70 a share on about 1,947,700 shares. In the preceding five years the average profit was $3.24 a share on 1,979,000 shares. The report for the first half of 1945 showed net income of $1.13 a share compared with $1.39 a year earlier. The dividend is 50 cents quarterly.

Net working capital increased from $18,038,000 in 1939 to $28,343,000 at the end of 1944. There was no long term debt.

ORDERS FOR NEW FORDS TOP 300,000; OUTPUT IS RISING

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 1 (AP)—Ford Motor company said today that orders for more than 300,000 new passenger cars have been placed with its dealers altho prices have not been announced. J. R. Davis, director of sales and advertising, said production currently is in excess of 1,000 units a day and should pass the 2,000 mark within a few weeks.

Ford also said truck production has begun in the company's plant at Somerville, Mass., and will begin soon in the Chicago plant.

MASS OUTPUT TERMED ONLY INFLATION CURB

Co-operation Vital, Says CPA Chief

All-out production to place ample stocks of competitive goods on dealers' shelves is the only way to prevent inflation and needless unemployment, John D. Small, administrator of the civilian production administration, told the Chicago Association of Commerce in the Stevens hotel yesterday. The CPA Saturday will take over all the powers and functions of the war production board, which will pass out of existence.

To reach full production, management, labor, and government must pull together, he said. The more reasonably, sensibly, and good humoredly they do this the smoother will be the progress of the transition to a full peace time economy.

He said the country must avoid competitive struggles, hoarding, and preëmptive buying, and must spread as thinly as possible those materials which are in short supply. The alternative is runaway price inflation.

Lauds War Time Coöperation

Small said war time coöperation among management, labor, and government made possible the country's production miracles, such as in the Chicago area, which turned out 35 billion dollars worth of war materials.

With the war job done, the country has before it difficult months of transition and reconversion, he said, asking for the same sort of cooperation between industry and labor that helped bring victory.

Small said the CPA proposes to end its existence as soon as it is no longer needed and will liquidate its individual functions progressively as they no longer are required.

Small outlined the six major functions which will be exercised by CPA as follows:

1. To expand production of materials which are in short supply and which are, or threaten to be, reconversion bottlenecks.

2. To limit the manufacture of products for which materials or facilities are insufficient.

Control of Inventories

3. To control the accumulation of inventories to avoid speculative hoarding and unbalanced distribution which would curtail total production.

4. To grant priority assistance to break bottlenecks which threaten to impede reconversion.

5. To facilitate the fulfillment of relief and other essential export programs.

6. To allocate scarce materials and facilities necessary for the production of low priced items essential to the continued success of the stabilization program of the government.

Small listed the following items as scarce: Tin, crude rubber, lead, textiles, and newsprint. He said the supply of crude rubber is down to less than 100,000 tons, but 200,000 tons are expected soon.

GROUP GRANTED RIGHT TO ENTER PULLMAN CASE

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 1 (AP)—Twenty-two railroads, two western states, and a Pennsylvania company won the right today to join in legal action to break up what the government says is a 40 year monopoly held by Pullman, Inc., in the operation of its sleeping car service.

Judge Albert B. Maris of United States Circuit court granted the carriers, California and Colorado, and Standard Steel Spring company, Coraopolis, Pa., permission to intervene in the proceedings.

Judge Maris is a member of a special three man court which ultimately will designate the successful purchaser of the capital stock of Pullman company, the sleeping car service to be sold under a court order.

Dodge-Chicago Employes Sue for Overtime Wages

Chrysler corporation was sued in United States District court yesterday for $1,100,000 in overtime pay and damages by 145 guards and patrolmen employed in its Dodge-Chicago plant. The employes charged Chrysler failed to pay them proper overtime wages since Oct. 1, 1942.

NoHomePrice Pegs Planned, Says Snyder

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP)—The government today assured the construction industry that price ceilings will not be sought now for the sale of new or old houses. Reconversion Director Snyder said at a meeting of the construction industry advisory council that "it is not our present intention" to seek legislation providing price control on dwellings.

This clarification of government policy came as industry speakers urged restraint by builders in pricing new homes to head off the real estate inflation which many government officials believe is in store.

Warns of Ramifications

"Once prices get out of hand, one of two things will happen," said Douglas Whitlock, board chairman of the Producers' council, an organization of building materials and equipment manufacturers.

"First, the government will promptly impose new restrictions so severe that the volume of private building will shrink back almost to war time levels.

"Second, if the government takes no action, matters will ride along until the public refuses to pay prevailing prices, with the result that building will come to a dead stop.

"There are no alternatives, and we cannot afford either one."

May Change Decision

Snyder warned the government may reconsider its decision later if the voluntary anti-inflation program "does not seem to be meeting with success."

However, Abner H. Ferguson, former federal housing administrator, said ceilings are "demonstrably unworkable." Until increased volume of building solves the problem "self restraint" must be exercised by the industry to head off the "inflationary threat over the whole real estate market," he said.

Herrick, Waddell & Co. today will offer 50,000 shares of Chase Candy company $1 par common at $8 a share. Proceeds will be used to help retire a five year 4½ per cent promissory instalment note.

STOCKS SWEEP HIGHER ON BIG, BROADER TRADE

Average Sets Peak Since Early 1937

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—Industrials, rails, and selected utilities today led the stock market on another exceptionally broad, swift climb to the highest average level in 8½ years. Gains generally ranged from 1 to 6 points.

Yesterday's advance was extended at the opening and, despite profit cashing, many pivotals closed at or near top prices. Dealings increased in the last hour as some low quoted utility issues resumed their rise after early hesitancy. Commonwealth and Southern sold in one 25,000 share block at 2¼, up ¼.

Volume Tops 2.2 Million

Steels and motors rose as hopes brightened for settlement of wage disputes. Air transports, packers, and several individual high priced favorites made big advances.

Despite intermittent slow-downs, transfers reached 2,210,000 shares, largest since June 28, with 630,000 traded in the last hour. The Associated Press 60 stock composite was up 0.9 at 73.5, a peak since March 17, 1937. The market was the broadest since Oct. 18, with 1,012 issues registering. Of these, 718 rose and 154 declined.

Inflationary psychology predicated on the belief mounting wages must ultimately result in increased prices persisted as the principal purchasing incentive. Cheap money and the urge to employ idle cash was a buoying influence.

An exchange membership was sold at $82,000, up $1,000 from the last sale.

RAIL BONDS ADVANCE

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—Rails led the bond market in a general advance today. Industrials and utilities were narrow. Sales totaled $8,080,000 compared with 6,500,000 yesterday.
